WARSHIPS AS ESCORTS.

France Is Vieing With England in Entertaining Russia's Ruler.

By Associated Press to The Tribune

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., Oct. 5.—The inhabitants of this port, military, naval and civil, were astir early today to witness the departure of the Czar and Czarina for France.

Their majesties passed the night on board the imperial yacht Polestar.

All the vessels in the harbor were dressed rainbow fashion from stem to stern and the imperial couple were given a hearty send off

First Lord of the Admiralty Hon Geo. J. Goschen, on board the first class cruiser Blenheim, started at 6 30 A. M. for the Nab lightship, where a fleet of thirty-two British warships assembled to salute their majesties and escort them to the mid channel.

At the special request of the Czar there were no guards of honor mounted ashore, the only military display being a detachment of marines which did sentry duty during the night and morning.

Owing to the entire absence of ceremony connected with the departure of the Czar the crowds ashore were not nearly as large as might otherwise have been expected.

The Polestar started at 7 A. M. and as she passed the various war vessels their sides or yards were manned and the imperial yacht given bugle salutes, while the band of the flagship Blenheim played the Russian anthem.

This was followed by the roaring of cannon, salutes from the Inflexible, Victory and Hero and from the batteries ashore

The Duke of Connaught on board the steamer Pinnace, accompanied the Polestar to the mouth of the harbor, and then returned to shore.

The Polestar proceeded to Spitzer and was saluted by the British fleet commanded by Vice Admiral Lord Walter Talbert Kerr, which formed in two lines and with the Polestar in the center proceeded seaward to meet the French fleet from Cherbourg, which was to escort the imperial party to that port

A STORM RACING.

The Furies Seem to Always Attend the Russian Monarch.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHERBOURG, Oct. 5.—The bad luck which seems to cling to the Czar showed itself again today.

Most elaborate preparations had been made to receive the Russian travelers.

The way from the landing stage to the hall of the Arsenal had been covered with silk hangings, shields, bannerettes and flowers.

The landing stage was beautifully draped, Venetian masts were erected at many points and floral bunting and other decorations displayed everywhere.

A terrific squall swept over the city, felling the Venetian masts to the ground, scattering the decorations in all directions and inflicting great damage generally.

This morning hundreds of men were set to work repairing the damage.

The French Northern squadron consisting of twenty-one vessels, and including the Charles Martelell, a first class battle ship, the Hoche, the battle ship with Vice Admiral Regnauet de Prenesnil, on board, the Jean Bark Desdartes, Jeunnepes and fifteen cruisers and torpedo boats, left the harbor at 8 o'clock in single file with a gale blowing.

Before the warships were outside the harbor they were almost completely hidden from view by a heavy rain storm which did further damage to the decorations ashore.

The gale also increased in force and a heavy sea began to thunder on the coast.

There seems little doubt that the imperial yacht Polestar will receive a severe shaking up and if the storm lasts, may have a difficulty in making port.

A BRILLIANT PROGRAMME.

Arrangements for a Royal Reception to the Rulers.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHERBOURG, Oct. 5.—According to the programme, which may be upset by the storm, the French fleet will meet the Polestar at the three mile limit.

The battleship Dupuy de Lome, with President Faure on board, will, however, push forward to meet the Czar's yacht, salute her, and then return to Cherbourg to await the arrival of the Russian travelers.

At noon the news was signalled that the Russian Imperial yacht Polestar had joined the French squadron and was proceeding to this port with French warships each side of her.

The imperial guests will, after being formally welcomed by President Faure, proceed along a covered way to the hall of the Arsenal.

The interior of the Arsenal Building has been exquisitely decorated, and divided into a reception hall, diplomatic hall and banqueting room

In the banqueting room, where the Czar and Czarina will partake of bread and salt, in Russian fashion, are three tables, one raised higher than the other two.

At the highest table, the Czar and Czarina, President Faure and the most distinguished guests will be seated.

Rails have been laid in the Arsenal grounds from the railroad proper to the door of the Diplomatic Hall

It is proposed that the Czar and Czarina embark on board the imperial train this evening at 9 and proceed to Paris, where they are booked to arrive at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning, at La Muette station.

Then their Majesties are to make their state entry into Paris.

They will go to the Russian Embassy, where they will be housed during their stay.

The Czar and Czarina have planned to remain five days in France, and will visit Versailles and Camp de Challons, where there will be an imposing review of troops numbering about 70,000.

COMING IN.

The Imperial Yacht Enters the Port in Safety.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHERBOURG, Oct. 5.—At 1.45 P. M. the imperial yacht and the French fleet escorting it were entering the roads here.

The wind was against the escorting squadron and as the ships appeared it was seen the Polestar was rolling heavily.

The French ships in the roads formed two lines.

The bands on the French ships played the Russian anthem.

The sailors dressed the sides and cheered heartily.

The Czar stood upon the bridge of the Polestar and responded to the cheers with a military salute

The Polestar followed by the Standard, then led the way into the harbor, upon which the land batteries poured forth an imperial salute

President Faure in evening dress and wearing the order of St Andrew, surrounded by the President of the Senate, M. Loubert, M. Brisson, President of the Chamber of Deputies, M. Melink, President of the Council of Ministers, M Holota, Minister of Foreign Affairs, Admiral Besnard, Minister of Marine, Baron Von Mohrenheim, Russian Ambassador to France, and the members of the Russian Embassies and staff appointed to wait on the Czar and Czarina during their stay in France, awaited their majesties' arrival at the landing stage, where a company of marines with flags flying and a band playing was drawn up

The officers to attend upon the Czar are General Moulten De Doisdonfre, Rear Admiral Roustan, Colonel De Lestapis Colonel Oudard, Lieutenant Colonel Menetrez, Commandant Paufin, De Saint Moreland, Commandant

In additions to the officers mentioned eight captains have been placed at the disposal of General De Bisdonfre to act as a body guard.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT.

The Czar's Ship Crashes Into a Boat at the Landing

By Associated Press to The Tribune

CHERBOURG, Oct. 5.—As the Polestar was towed by two large tugs alongside the Obsolete dispatch boat Bisson, moored against the quay to serve as a pontoon, she crashed heavily against the gangway run out from the Bisson and smashed it to pieces.

The gangway was almost immediately replaced and the Czar and Czarina stepped ashore.

Every point of vantage was black with people.

Hats, handkerchiefs, etc., were waved, and for the first time since the fall of Napoleon III, there arose from an immense French crowd the almost forgotten shout of "Vive L'Empereur."

It was soon followed by other cries of "Vive La Tsar," "Vive La Russia," during which several baskets of flowers were presented to the Czarina.

The Czarina was the first to land, holding in her hand a light, unopened umbrella. She was dressed simply in a gray costume with a cape and wore a straw hat trimmed with roses de France.

His Majesty stepped forward firmly with his left hand on the hilt of his sword. He showed no signs of fatigue

The Czar made a brief response.

M. Faure gave his arm to the Czarina while the Czar walked on the President's right.

As the imperial party ascended the steps leading to the hall of Louis XVI the Premier, the presidents of the Chambers and the others following, the sunlight burst through the clouds for the first time during the day, dispelling the gloomy feelings induced by the unlucky storm.

A SAILOR DROWNED.

The Ill-Luck Extends to the British Escorting Squadron.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

PORTSMOUTH, Oct. 5.—While the British fleet was returning to Portsmouth after escorting the imperial Russian yacht Polestar into French waters, the torpedo destroyer Lightning was struck by two heavy seas which threw her on her beam ends, and washed overboard four seamen. One was drowned.

NOT BY WRECKERS.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—A great deal has been made out of little or nothing by the report circulated in the United States that a large block of wood was found lying across the railroad track at Gardstand, some distance south of Lancaster, an hour before the Czar's train passed there yesterday morning on its way from Ballater to Portsmouth.

The inference evidently intended to be drawn from the message was that an attempt had been made to wreck the imperial train.

Such is not the case.

The mile post was blown down by the wind on the opposite railway track to the one on which the Czar traveled and was removed half an hour before the imperial train passed, by plate layers whose work it is to watch the tracks during stormy weather.

HISTORY AND TODAY.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

PARIS, Oct. 5.—The date that coincides with the landing in France of Nicholas and Alexandra is the hundred and seventh anniversary of the march of the market women of Paris on the Palace of Versailles to bring back the king, queen and their children hostages of the revolution.

Their capture was effected next day, October 6, 1789, on the anniversary of which the Czar enters Paris for the first time and with that spectacular show which the French are so skilled in arranging.

The blind worms now in power here are doing what they can to divest the date, which in so far as M Hanotaux and Prince Lobanoff (who sketched the ceremonial,) were concerned, of its true significance.

The severe lesson that it should inculcate is being hidden away Despotic monarchs are, humanly speaking, assured of impunity

The power that shapes the end of nations, as individual men and women, catches up such potentates in their posterity and often the seemingly innocent are made to pay for the guilty as in the case of Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette.

This lesson should at the present time, when with the tacit complicity of France and Russia Armenians are being massacred and exiled in tens of thousands, come home with awesome force to the minds of Nicholas and Alexandra and make them tremble for themselves and for their infant daughter, the darling of their hearts.

The Czar and Czarina will not be escorted to France by Russian warships. The French Government was most anxious that they should do so and give an object lesson in the roads of Cherbourg of the naval strength of France and Russia united.

But Nicholas was too much the gentleman to lend himself to that game of brag which doubtless would have been most gratifying to the President, who wants to figure in the eyes of Europe as the Sea King and head of the French army. He never, to place himself on the same maritime level as Victoria, misses an opportunity to make excursions in men-of-war with a whole squadron in his wake.

The Czar, seeing through his purpose of posing as a rival of the Queen on the watery element, sent word that he would be merely escorted by the sister yacht of the Standard, in which he and the Czarina cross from Portsmouth to Cherbourg.

To make up for this disappointment, M. Felix Faure caused a part of the Atlantic and Toulon squadrons to be ordered around to Cherbourg There will be, therefore, a grand naval spectacle in honor of the imperial visitors. It was hoped that they would go to witness it from the Fort du Roule, on a high hill behind the town; but since the dynamite scare this idea has been waived.

M. Faure has, however, been able to secure the presence of the Czar, in company with himself, at a review of 70,000 soldiers at the camp of Chalons.

HARD TO HANDLE.

The mammoth imperial train proved unmanageable and dangerous. In going around the girdle railway from Vaugrirard to Passy Greene, where the imperial party are to alight, it flattened out the rails and ran off of them. Had it not been going at a snail's pace there would have been a grave, not to say fatal accident.

THOUSANDS ON THE SCENE.

THE DAY ON THE COAST.

An Electric Car Causes a Wreck Across the Bay.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

From the mountains, from the plains, from the cities, towns, villages and the hamlets of the great valley, by train, by carriage, wagons, carts and buggies and on horseback they have come in a steady stream for the past forty-eight hours.

Conservative estimates place the number of people within our gates at not less than 15,000 to 20,000.

At precisely 12 o'clock the procession which was a long and showy one, divided into several divisions and each division with its band started on its march.

The parade was both military and civic and was reviewed by Governor Budd and his staff at the celebration grounds around the spot where the new Valley Railway depot will be erected.

As the procession passed the reviewing stand the special train bearing the Directors of the road and a large number of invited guests from San Francisco, Stockton and points along the road, arrived, and the guests and railroad officials witnessed the parade from the cars.

A. R. Briggs of Fresno delivered the welcoming address, followed by Captain Payson on behalf of the Valley Road Directors

People throughout the valley are much enthused over the progress thus far made.

Those to the south who today for the first time looked upon the sight of a train coming in over the Valley Road got the impression that a competing line was fast assuming the shape of reality

The barbecue, which was one of the principal features of the day's festivities was attended by the road Directors. Governor Budd and staff and thousands of people from abroad.

GRAHAM SHOWED FIGHT.

A Spicy Incident Today at the Catherwood-Grinnell Wedding.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 5.—The Bulletin today says there was an exhibition of military unpleasantness at the fashionable wedding of Miss Catherwood to Dr. Grinnell at the Presidio Reservation today.

Mrs. Major Daring, mother of Miss Catherwood, is not on good terms with General Graham, Commandant of the Post.

The Graham family, alone of all the officers of the families at the post, was not invited to the wedding.

The Presidio Band had been engaged to play at the ceremony, but when the wedding commenced General Graham ordered the band men back to their quarters, so they did not play at the wedding

Graham also ordered the hack of Inspector Martin and a hundred carriages off the reservation so the guests had to walk from the hall of the post, where the wedding took place, out to the gates of the Presidio to get into their carriages.

The incident caused much feeling.

PRIZES ARE IN DISPUTE.

A Lively Scene When the Package Was Thrown From the Balloon.

There is a deal of squabbling over the prize which is to be given to the person who returns the Bryan purse dropped by the aeronaut who yesterday made the ascension at Blair Park. As yet no one has returned the purse for it has been stolen, but two persons have entered a protest and claim that the chain to be given as the prize should be awarded to them.

Claimant number one is the proprietor of a Seventh street restaurant. According to his statement he got the purse and kept it over night. This morning he showed it to some customers he said, and later it was stolen. He offers to prove his claim by creditable witnesses.

"Jimmy" McNally is claimant number two. He is a newsboy and had a score of other boys of his calling when he dropped into Moran's this morning to state his case. According to his tale as the stocking dropped, a tall colored "gent," whose height overtopped all others reached for it and warned others to keep off He missed it however, and McNally states that it then fell into his hands He accidentally dropped it but quickly fell on it This did not work Several men pushed him away from his prize and the restaurant keeper secured it.

Mr. Moran has decided not to make the award He has turned the whole matter over to Superintendent of the Road Tiffany who will turn himself into an equity court of appeal and hear the claimants this afternoon.

Charles Jones, a youngster, secured the baby eagle which was also dropped In so doing he was severely bitten on the finger.

COMING TO AMERICA.

Haines and Kearney Are Shipped by the Dutch Officials.

By Associated Press to The Tribune

ROTTERDAM, Oct. 5.—Ten minutes before the Netherlands line steamship Werkendam sailed for New York Saturday a carriage containing Kearney and Haines, the Irish-American suspects and two police officers in plain clothes drove up to the dock and the party boarded the steamer.

They were shipped under aliases.

Strict orders were given the police to keep the affair from reporters

To this purpose an official statement that the suspects had been conducted to the frontier was given out.

LUTY'S FUNERAL.

The Stockbroker's Remains Are Carried to the Grave.

The funeral of Frederick E. Luty, the San Francisco stock broker who shot himself Saturday, was held today Owing to Mrs Luty's illness it took place from the undertaker's parlors instead of the family residence

Only a few of the intimate friends were in attendance, as it was intended to be as private as possible Several stock exchange members were there, but the exchange did not attend in a body

HOTEL THIEVES.

Burglars Are Busily Plying in the Up-Town Hostelries.

Detective Shorey is today taking an invoice of the various pawnbrokers' stocks looking for articles which Proprietor Ross of the Wilson Hotel reported this morning as missing from the rooms of the boarders.

Whether or not the articles were stolen he does not know, and the police are as mysterious over the affairs as though they were on the trail of Jack the Ripper.

Two other hotels have been burglarized of late and from the secrecy it is supposed that the officers have located the criminal and are only waiting to trap him at his work.

The Requa Wedding.

Another of the details for Miss Requa's coming marriage was arranged today when I. L. Requa, father of the bride, called upon Chief Lloyd to ask for police service at the church. The chief agreed to detail three men on the occasion and the father volunteered the information that he had employed a corps of private detectives to be present at the mansion during the reception.

EVEN MONEY ON KENTUCKY.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

When a man is willing to bet his money on his opinions, it is generally the best test in the world of his convictions The following list will therefor give the best criterion yet published on the election prospects. It contains the quotations sent out by one of the largest pool rooms in New York, and was received today by the Tribune with a letter stating that all money will be received at the odds quoted.

As the pool makers have undoubtedly had the situation thoroughly sifted by competent experts before putting their money up, the quotations may be regarded as thoroughly sizing up the situation. In fact, the sensible figures given regarding the Western States, the conditions of which are known here better than in the East, show it is evident that the figures have been prepared by those who know what they are about

The odds opposite each State are on the candidate carrying such State, and are not against him. Here they are.

FIRST BLOOD.

The Reliance Club Wins the Initial Game of the Season.

The Reliance football team covered itself all over with glory Saturday by defeating the University of California club in a spirited game. The score was 12 to 0 and at the end of the second half the ball was in Reliance territory.

Although today is set apart by the State for the workingman and by proclamation declared a legal holiday, there are few outside the city and county officials who are not paying their vocations as usual. Most of the merchants kept their stores open this forenoon, although in the afternoon some joined the minority and closed shop to celebrate.

At the City Hall the Mayor came and went early. The front entrance was closed, but he climbed the dizzy stairway leading up from the jail and spent an hour or so in his office. The schools were closed, and the only one in the department who is guilty of working is Assistant Superintendent York, who had his minutes to prepare for the Board of Education meeting tomorrow night.

Chief Lloyd's office is the only other one open. He is at his desk attending to business as usual. Bailiff Mitchell came around for a short time in the morning to wind the eight day clock and be present in case the jail burned down.

In the prison below the hospitable doors stood open to all, drunks and "crooks" preferred. Of those who were arrested Saturday and Sunday, the jetsam remained comfortably or uncomfortably in the cells, while the flotsam put up bail and continued on their way, for the Police Court was not open.

At the Health Office Secretary Shafer kept open house until noon. He made a note of the arrival of a pair of new native daughters, but as no one seemed anxious to be buried he barred the portals in the afternoon and went to San Francisco to see the seals. Health Officer Bradley dropped in long enough to look over his mail. He then took a trip over to the City Prison, where he treated a woman with the shingles and a man with the shakes and called it a holiday's work.

The Court House and Hall of Records were locked up, the Jail and the Receiving Hospital being the only county buildings open.

Scared by Bicycles

As Mr. and Mrs. William Garrido were driving over Castro Hill, near Haywards, yesterday, they met two men on bicycles. Garrido's horses became frightened at the cycles and he was unable to check them. They ran off down the grade, at a point near an embankment, swerved suddenly and threw the Garridos out of the wagon and down the embankment. Garrido received several lacerations about the head and suffered greatly from loss of blood. Mrs. Garrido sustained a broken arm and it is feared she is injured internally. The wagon is badly smashed and the horses have several ugly scratches.

A Romance Ends.

TALENT TO TALK.

The National Republican League Will Meet Tonight.

REPUBLICANS ALL RALLYING.

Pleasanton Comes Out in Splendid Style for Protection.

SILVER SLOGANS SOUNDING.

The Prohibitionists Are About to Have a Big Gathering.

Tonight the National Republican League will hold one of the largest meetings of the campaign in its headquarters on Broadway, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets.

W. R Davis will preside, and the principal speakers will be A. E. Bolton and Editor Pillsbury of the Tulare Register.

The League headquarters have been attractively fitted up, and a large number of extra seats put in for tonight's meeting.

PLEASANTON'S PLUMPER.

A Splendid Republican Rally Held in a Thriving District.

PLEASANTON, Oct. 5.—If ever the citizens of any place were fully aroused and enthused it was Saturday evening, when fully 1,000 people turned out to listen to the words spoken by Hon. J. C. Campbell of San Francisco and others. The town was brilliantly lighted with bonfires all over and the strain of music by the Livermore Cornet Band were heard to the joy of all.

The speakers were F. C. Jarvis of Newark, candidate for Supervisor, James W. Clark, candidate for Assembly, and Hon. J. C. Campbell of San Francisco, who made the most prominent speech of over two hours. There was singing by the Pleasanton Republican Glee Club, composed of ladies and gentlemen, during the evening.

The meeting was called to order by naming twenty honorary vice-presidents from Livermore, Sunol, Dougherty Station, Tussagara Valley and Newark.

Clubs of twenty and thirty from all the surrounding towns were present.

During the course of Mr. Campbell's remarks he said: "The Republican party presents for the chief executive of the nation a man tried and true—a man in the advance guard of the nation ever since he came from the cradle. When the sun goes down on the 3d of November the result will be the election of an American citizen who was always for America and against any infringement by any foreign nation.

"The so-called Democratic party presents Mr Bryan, who with his party should be dressed with bloomers and taken over the country on a bicycle attached to which should be a free silver bell."

Mr Campbell said ask Mr. Bryan if he was a Democrat, if he was a protectionist, or if he was a free trader and the only answer he would give would be that he was for free silver. Mr. McKinley on the contrary stands for honest money and a chance to earn it. Mr. McKinley's record is for the protection of every class of American industry, and if the American citizen wants to understand how to vote at the coming election let him look at the record of both parties.

Mr. Campbell said that Bryan's endeavor to array the poor against the rich is not good Americanism. The man who reads and investigates is the man who votes intelligently. Has four years of tariff reform done any good to the country? When President Harrison went out of the chair he left the country with a $160,000,000 tariff income in our favor. The Democratic party since that time has spent all this money and reformed the country to the tune of $195,000,000 in debt. Four years ago every mill in England was closed or running on short time, leaving 5,000,000 mechanics out of employment, now every mill there is running seven days in the week and twenty-four hours in the day. What has caused this, the Wilson-Gorman free trade tariff bill. Previous to four years ago England was troubled with labor riots, not that there are no labor riots there now, but we in this country witnessed the scene of 1,000,000 men marching to Washington demanding work.

"The Democratic party today says we cannot give you work but we will give you free silver. What in the name of Heaven is the laborer going to do to get it. Ask Mr. Bryan how he is going to start our factories and mills running and he will answer 'free silver.' In fact the Democratic party always is in favor of free everything or anything belonging to somebody else. Who are the people offering free silver through the country? Have they ever done anything for the benefit of the United States? Were they not the authors of the wild-cat banks? Have not they run the ship of state in distress upon the rocks, and has not their policy closed up the factories and put on the street more than five million people who don't know where they are going to sleep tonight or get a penny to buy bread tomorrow? On the contrary the St. Louis platform says that there shall be no more pauper labor imported into the United States.

"Mr. McKinley's letter of acceptance says that he is not only in favor of protection against foreign labor abroad, but he is also in favor of protection against the importation of this same pauper labor to compete with our American labor."

All through Mr. Campbell's speech the applause and enthusiasm was very strong. Many were unable to get inside the hall.

This is only the beginning of the campaign here and it is without doubt that the next rally will be much larger.

FOR SOUND MONEY.

The Business Men Have Organized to Fight Silver Follies.

The Business Men's Sound Money League met Saturday night at 207 Broadway, and perfected its organization by the selection of the following officers: President, John A. Britton; Vice Presidents, H. C. Tait, E. J. Pringle, Warren Olney, Israel Lawton, J. J Valentine, John A. Stanly, Sam Bell McKee, W. V. Witcher, W. T. Veitch, J. C. Martin; Secretary, Sam J. Taylor; Treasurer, Mark L. Requa.

The Executive Committee is composed of E. J. Pringle, Chairman; Warren Olney, Sam Bell McKee, R. W. Knight, Thomas Prather, Israel Lawton, H. O. Towbridge, J. L. Barker, C. B. Morgan, Mark L. Requa, E. A. Heron.

The meeting was a very enthusiastic one and thoroughly representative of the business interests of Oakland.

The following preamble of the constitution which was adopted shows strongly the sentiments of the merchants and bankers on the important question: "We are in favor of sound money, the maintenance inviolate of the credit of the Government, and opposed to the free and unlimited coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1 of silver independently by the United States."

That the new organization is not founded distinctively on partisan lines is shown by the fact that its members are from the ranks of both the old parties. They realize the folly of a silver rule, with its threat to commerce, and are banded together to do their utmost to maintain a sound standard.

After the preliminaries of organization had been disposed of. Hugh Craig, John A. Britton, E. J. Pringle and J. J Valentine each delivered a forcible appeal for prosperity based upon a sensible financial standard. They pointed conclusively to the follies of silver talk, and predicted a stagnation of trade if its advocates were successful in November.

The League will retain its present headquarters on Broadway, and will start in work in earnest by distributing a large quantity of literature.

BERKELEY IS ALIVE.

The Republicans Will All Turn Out There Tonight.

This evening the Berkeley Republican Club will meet in I. O. O. F. Hall, when a number of local politicians will speak on campaign subjects.

There are several measures of importance to be brought before the club, and a full attendance is desired.

SILVER'S CHAMPIONS.

A Good Rally Held in Hansen's Hall Last Saturday Night.

The silver forces held forth in all their glory Saturday night and packed Hansen's Hall on Eighth and Wood street, to the doors. Inside Bryan's likenesses were everywhere present, finding conspicuous places on the walls and in front of the stage. Flags and bunting made up the remainder of the embellishments.

Preliminary to the meeting there was a street parade, headed by a drum and fife corps. In this the Young Men's Democratic Club and the Populist Zouave League were the principal participants.

Outside of the hall huge bonfires blazed brightly, while some enthusiasts trespassed on the city ordinance by firing anvils.

The meeting was called to order by J. C. Bullock, who introduced Charles D. Lane, Chairman of the State Silver Committee, as the President of the evening.

Mr. Lane spoke briefly and concluded by denouncing the assertions that he had tried to coerce his miners into contributing toward the campaign funds.

G. W Baker, Chairman of the State Bimetallic League, was next introduced and made one of the best speeches of the evening. His talk was principally on the financial question from a silver standpoint, though the tariff was also touched on. The National debt and the plank in the Democratic platform bearing on the Supreme Court were also considered.

Judge E. M. Gibson paid his respects and Colonel Thomas F. Garrity followed with a short though pungent campaign talk.

Ed McGuine, Baron J. E. McElroy, W. F Aram, each spoke briefly and then Henry McPike took exception to the recent speech of George A Knight at the Tabernacle.

During the evening a quartette of mandolins and guitars played several selections.

The meeting was a big success from a silver standpoint and the three Populist cheers which ended it wound up with a Democratic "tiger."

THE GAUNTLET DOWN.

Silver Men at Pleasanton Are Looking for a Debate.

The silver advocates of Pleasanton may have bitten off more than they can chew when they issued the following challenge to the McKinley advocates for a debate on the financial question:

"Pleasanton, Cal., Sept. 30, '96.

"To the Chairman and Secretary Pleasanton McKinley and Hobart Club—Gentlemen: Inasmuch as the money question has been recognized by three great political parties of this country as the paramount issue in the campaign, the Pleasanton Bryan Free Silver Club has instructed us to issue to the Pleasanton McKinley and Hobart Club the following challenge to public debate.

"'Resolved, That the independent free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold, at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, would be a benefit to this country.'

"The debate to be restricted to members of either of the aforesaid clubs, from this immediate vicinity, and to be held at a time and place to be hereinafter agreed upon. Sincerely yours,

"W. H DONOHUE, Chairman.

"GEO. W. DETJENS, Secretary."

Those who wish to hear an able presentation of this much discussed political question will be instructed by listening to what Mr. Coulter may have to say.

CROSSED IN A STORM.

without regard for intermediate burgs or villages. As the whole country is flat for thousands of miles there are no more steep gradients than abrupt bends.

A train, therefore, was arranged to replace that of the Emperor, which will afford accommodation and be only half the weight.

M. Faure will have the intense joy of acting as host to the imperial visitors all the way from Cherbourg to Paris, and of giving them more than the eight hours of his company and conversation than they had agreed to put up with at Cherbourg.

The original arrangement was that they should travel in their own train and he in his, a short distance before them. He is to meet them at Cherbourg without Madame Faure, and is also to meet them unaccompanied by the ladies of his family at the Palace of Versailles the day they go there.

Madame Faure has no national or international rank and the President's many journalistic enemies, whose envy he is constantly arousing, have made it impossible for the Empress to ignore a black page of the good lady's family history. This exposure was mean and spiteful, but the Court of Russia had to take it into account.

The Empress accordingly is not to associate with Madame Faure in public. She is only to see her when she calls at the Elysee and dines there.

Great efforts are being made to get this flat altered and to bring out the Faure ladies at the Francais and the opera house when their imperial majesties go there.

M. Faure will await them at the Francais and Opera House. They have arranged to go by themselves to the former and to Versailles.

The road thither has a central pavement of cobblestones, thirteen miles long. It is to be thickly sanded the whole way to make it smooth for the imperial carriage.

PLENTY OF GUARDS.

The whole garrison of Paris are to be under arms and posted along the road.

An imperial levee will be held in the Gallery of Mirrors, which has been furnished as in the time of Louis XVI.

Original portraits and busts of Peter the Great, the Catherines and Paul and Alexander I have been brought down from the attic gallery and placed on easels in the south wing, where their imperial majesties can see them without climbing lofty stairs. The different portraits of Marie Antoinette will be treated in the same way for their inspection, as will also the minature taken of Catherine the Great just before she became Empress.

A wonderful work of art it is. Scaffoldings have been removed at enormous cost from the terraces, fountains and basins repaired; a fleet of eighteenth century royal barges furnished up to take the imperial visitors by the canal in his gardens facing the west front of the palace to the Trianons.

This excursion is to follow a lunch in the gallery of Battles and a long rest of the imperial visitors in his suite of small rooms fitted up by Marie Antoinette as a private residence.

In the blue room, or salon, there is a sofa in sky blue with guilt frame in a dainty niche set round with mirrors. The lovely queen whose fate was so tragical, liked to see her beautiful head in front in profile and vanishing profile.

She ordered three mirrors to be set at right angles. But, the first time she went to survey herself in them at one of the corners she beheld—what—a headless body and sank fainting on the sofa.

She was constantly meeting with incidents and facing catastrophes that seemed presages of coming woes.

A LIST OF FATALITIES.

The first year of their reign was blackened by the massacres, in which 100,000 people perished.

Their coronation was marked by the appalling catastrophe of Moscow and the day they reached Vienna the first news they received was that fresh massacres had taken place.

Then, on their return journey from Vienna, Prince Lobanoff, whom history must find guilty of complicity with the Sultan, died as they were stepping out of the train.

When they were enjoying rest at the Patriachal Court of Denmark the family circle then was appalled to learn of the dynamite conspiracy.

Providence seems to have warned them that long life, prosperity and universal love and esteem may be won by following the example of Queen Victoria; but that disaster must in the long run catch up with those monarchs whose grand political schemes are executed through iniquity.

Balmoral and Versailles, September 23d, and October 5th and 6th inculcate this warning.

(Signed) EMILY CRAWFORD.

PARKHURST'S DEATH.

A Friend Starts for Mendocino to Bring the Remains Back Here.

The family of Webster H. Parkhurst, a former Berkeley student, who expired suddenly Saturday at Westport, Mendocino County, have dispatched a friend to the little town to bring back the remains. No cause of death has been ascertained as yet. Young Parkhurst was an athlete possessed of a fine physique and was apparently in the best of health. He was taken ill Friday and a physician, Dr. Shenwood, of Westport, was immediately summoned. Parkhurst appeared to be in a trance-like condition. The physician's efforts to preserve life were fruitless and Saturday morning the young man expired.

On account of the suddenness of his death, the attending physician believed that it would be wise to investigate the cause, and an inquest will be held before the body is sent to Berkeley. As the Coroner was absent at Ukiah, a delay was unavoidable and the remains could not be taken on board the steamer Noyo.

Young Parkhurst was well known as a sprinter in the Berkeley High School athletic team. He had a deeply religious nature and last June decided to start out as an evangelist in company with the Rev. Mr. Adams, who was with him at the time of his death.

The family are in complete ignorance of the cause of the boy's death, as he always enjoyed the best of health.

CUPID'S QUICK WORK.

A Young Englishman Who Won an Oakland Girl's Heart.

Miss Amelia Kletzker and Leigh Beauchamp were married Saturday at 2 P. M. in the Church of the Advent by its rector, Rev. V. Marshall Law. This is the latest chapter in a pretty little romance. The bride is the handsome daughter of Henry A. Kletzker, and the groom is a wealthy young Englishman of San Antonio, Texas. Beauchamp met the young woman, and fell in love with her at first sight. He gave her family indisputable proofs as to his family and character, and begged to be allowed to pay his addresses to the young lady. She quickly responded to his love, and after ten days' acquaintance the two were married, and immediately left for San Antonio, Texas.

Special scenery and effects have been brought into the play and the production will be one of the best yet seen at the theater.

Broke His Leg.

James Madden, a 13-year-old boy who lives with his parents at 484 Twenty-fifty street, was sitting on a trap door in front of the Central Bank Building yesterday morning when the door gave way and he fell into the cellar, a distance of twelve feet. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital where it was found that he had broken his leg. He remained at the hospital last night, but will be taken to his home today.

BUILT WITHIN CORNERS.

A Notable Structure to Soon Rise in Chicago.

It Will Be Devoted to Christian Work by the Alexian Brothers.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—The corner stone of the Alexian Brothers' Hospital was laid Sunday afternoon, and the solemn ceremonies were witnessed by 25,000 people.

The Rev. George D. Heldmand, pastor of St. Paul's Parish, officiated as master of ceremonies, and was assisted by a large number of priests and brothers of various hospitals and parishes.

The corner stone was blessed by Archbishop Feehan, after which addresses, historical of the institution and conditions incidental to it, were made in five languages.

The structure, when completed, will cost $250,000. The hospital will be modern in every respect. Nothing that has been devised with the aid of science to provide sanitary surroundings has been overlooked.

The building will not have a corner within it. Where corners usually are, the surface of the walls, floor and ceilings will be rounded.

No crevice will be left for dust to collect where it cannot be seen and removed. In all respects it will be a model institution for the care of patients.

In addition to serving the purpose of a hospital, it will also serve as a novitiate for the training of young men for admission to the order.

It is also the headquarters of the Brothers Aloysius Shins, the head of the order in this country, an order that has been ministering to the sick since it was found in Malines nearly seven hundred years ago. Four hospitals are maintained in the United States by the Alexian Brothers. One is at St. Louis, Mo., another at Oshkosh, Wis., and the fourth at Elizabeth, N. J.

TEMESCAL'S CHANCE.

The Lines of the Boundary of the Proposed New Section.

The boundary lines of the proposed new municipality of Temescal, as set forth in the petition now in circulation in that section, are as follows: Beginning at the northern limits of the City of Oakland at a point 150 feet east of the easterly line of Broadway and running thence northerly to the southerly line of the property of Mrs. E. B. Crocker, thence northwesterly along that line dividing a parcel of the property of Edson Adams almost in two equal parts and continuing to the south easterly corner of Berkeley, and thence following the southerly line of Berkeley out into the waters of the bay.

Kneipp Cure for Horses.

The Kneipp cure, or that part of it which consists in walking through the dewy grass in the early morning, has long been known to horsemen. A horse trainer and farmer commends the treatment for horses, to keep the hoofs in good condition. "I do not believe in packing and soaking horses' feet, as many horse-owners do," he says. In the summer time I would have the horse to be treated led early in the morning through the dew. Think of it yourself. If you are out walking in the early morning, even wearing thick boots, you will remember that in a few moments the dew penetrated through to your feet. Dew passes through the boot when ordinary water would not. This works the same with horses, nature having provided this simple preventive and cure for diseases of the hoof."—New York Times.

In Florida, where the heat at night is almost unbearable as in the day, it is not unusual to ice the bed before retiring to rest. This is done in a very simple way. A metal vessel or pot, much in the form of the ancient warming pan used by our grandfathers, is filled with broken ice and, after standing until the ice has completely cooled the vessel, it is placed between the sheets and moved to and fro over the surface of the sheets and pillows until they are quite cold. This coldness of the bedclothes is very soothing to the heated and wearied body, and invariably induces immediate sleep.

Silver and Gold.

"What was the "Crime of 1873?"
Was it really a crime?
Was it committed secretly?
Why was it enacted?

These are questions which every voter ought to understand before he accepts the charge that silver was secretly demonetized or the coinage of the silver dollar stopped by stealth.

From the passage of our first mintage act, in 1792, down to 1870, there had been dozens of changes in our coinage laws, until the statutes governing the production of the coins of the United States looked like a crazy quilt. In 1870, with a prospect that the nation would soon return to the use of metallic money, which had been suspended during the war, the Treasury Department recommended to Congress that it pass a general act governing the production of the coins of the United States, and a bill was sent to Congress for that purpose.

This bill omitted the standard silver dollar, of which scarcely any had been coined for many years, and none had remained in circulation. The report which accompanied the bill when sent to Congress specifically called attention to the fact that the silver dollar was omitted. The bill was submitted to the leading officials and ex-officials of the mint, and they discussed the omission of the dollar in written communications to the committee of the Senate, after which the committee reported the bill to the Senate, saying in its report: "The coinage of the silver dollar piece is discontinued in the proposed bill. * * * The present gold dollar piece is made the dollar unit in the proposed bill and the silver dollar piece is discontinued."

The bill was discussed over and over again in the Senate and House, was printed no less than thirteen times by the Treasury Department and Congress, the debates in House and Senate filled 144 columns of the Congressional Globe, and the final action on it was not had until two years and ten months after its presentation to Congress.

The following table shows the number of times the bill was officially before Congress during its consideration. Read it and see if you can believe that there was anything "secret" in its passage:

The Cow Ate the Ring.

A gold ring that is supposed to have spent nearly two years in a cow's stomach was sent the other day to its owner, a young lady of Homestead. Two years ago the young lady was visiting on a dairy farm near here, and while in the barn, picked up a kitten and tossed it in a pile of chop bran. With the kitten went a gold ring from her finger, which could not be found, and was given up and finally forgotten. Several days ago Edward Jones, a Suterville butcher bought a cow from Frank Hough, the dairyman, and when the cow was killed the ring, with the young lady's name engraved on it, was found in the stomach.—Pittsburg Commercial-Gazette.

George E Pickett, who commanded the Confederate division at Gettysburg, and made the ever memorable charge, is now a departmental employe at Washington, and has made arrangements to bring out a memoir of her gallant husband's campaigns and military career. PROCLAMATION.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
SACRAMENTO, July 20, 1896.

WHEREAS, The Legislature of the State of California, at its thirty-first session, beginning on the seventh day of January, A. D. 1895, two-thirds of all the members elected to each of the two houses of said Legislature voting in favor thereof, proposed the following prescribed amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, to-wit:

The Legislature may provide for a reduction from credits of debts due bona fide residents of this State.

Section 2. Section four of article thirteen of this Constitution is hereby repealed.

Each stockholder of a corporation or joint stock association, whose capital stock is not fully paid up, shall be individually and personally liable for such proportion of all its debts and liabilities contracted or incurred during the time he was a stockholder or shareholder, as the amount unpaid upon the stock or shares owned by him bears to the whole amount unpaid upon the subscribed capital stock or shares of the corporation or association. The Directors or Trustees of corporations and joint stock associations shall be jointly and severally liable to the creditors and stockholders for all moneys embezzled or misappropriated by the officers of such corporation or joint stock association during the term of office of such Director or Trustee.

MONDAY..... OCTOBER 5, 1896

It has been noticed that Mr Bryan, in his quotations from the sayings of great men, never makes any allusion to General Grant. Did he run against this declaration made by Grant in his first message to Congress "Let it be understood that no repudiator of one farthing of our public debt will be trusted in public place, and it will go far to strengthen our public credit, which ought to be the best in the world"

Now, what is going to be the result of this accident? Mr Bryan lost his hat while passing from one car to another on his train from Washington to Baltimore, and it now adorns the head of a Baltimore gold bug who has refused $10 for it Thus far there has been no mixing of ideas We should suppose that any gold bug who should use that hat for a head piece might run the risk of becoming as light headed as Bryan himself

The Boston Herald has just celebrated its jubilee year It is an instance of the most remarkable success ever attained by a cheap newspaper in this country Its daily circulation exceeds half a million copies. Of course its advertising patronage is immense, which is one source of its great prosperity. Its editorials are always well written The Herald is independent in politics, but is this year a staunch defender of the cause of honest money

Dr Nansen is going to make his next dash for the South Pole instead of the other But Jackson, the leader of an Arctic expedition is now spending his third winter in the Arctic region. He has had reinforcements sent to him, and expects next year to not only reach to points Nansen attained, but to keep right on until he has reached the pole However useless it may seem to many, geographical explorers will never give up until they have reached the pole

There is one reform, according to the Times-Herald that has been introduced into the public schools of Chicago of some importance Students in the public schools in the primary and the grammar grades, have not been compelled to use slates for years In the high schools they are used only where the retention of a favored principal is desired Primary education in Chicago has advanced to that point that the pupil no longer needs a slate or could make use of it if one was at hand No action of the health department of the city has taken the slate out of the public schools. According to Superintendent Lane, the slate has disappeared solely because it was not needed Paper has taken its place with nearly 200,000 pupils Paper is clean Pencils are cheap Slates are expensive and awkward in handling They have been tabooed in Chicago The health department has never taken up the question

Some of Candidate Bryan's Antagonisms.

Mr. Bryan, in his recent speeches, has launched his anathemas at people in several "classes" as he is in the way of designating them Ministers of religion seem just now to be in the special denunciation There has not in many a day been a greater libel uttered against ministers than that which Bryan uttered recently in his Wilmington speech They lived at ease and cared nothing for the sufferings and privations of the people While he must have known that such an allegation was not true, the declaration was no doubt instigated by his knowledge of the fact that a large majority of the ministers are not on his side in the political issues before the country They find in it a question of morals rising quite above the level of ordinary politics Even where they have not taken any side publicly, it is well known on which side their sympathies are, and even so much as this has a great deal of influence in communities

Then Mr. Bryan seems to have an especial grievance against the bankers of the country. With few exceptions, they are not with him They hold fast to the doctrine of sound money They distribute capital in all directions for carrying on nearly all the great business enterprises of the country When the civil war broke out they were the men who furnished the Government the money in that great crisis These men now are not found supporting the vicious system of finance which Mr Bryan advocates, and which he is pledged to support if elected.

Then Mr. Bryan has a bout with business men generally He finds that they are not to any great extent ranging themselves on his side. No doubt, they are looking out for their own interests, while they stand by what they hold to be the best interests of the country They want a business revival, which can only follow a restoration of confidence. They find little promise of it along the lines which Bryan and his supporters have marked out. The solid business interests of the country are not with the Democ-Populist candidate. He knows that when he blindly delivers his blows right and left against ministers, bankers and business men.

Silver Men for McKinley.

In estimating the support that would be given to McKinley, a little or no account has been taken of any support given by Free Silver men It has all along been assumed that no votes would be drawn from such men for the support of the Republican ticket But there are good grounds for the belief that a large number of Silver men hold this view as a secondary consideration They are for protection first and free silver afterward

Thus right here in California, there are a very large number of men who have openly declared for free silver coinage, but who will vote for McKinley because they believe that protection is of more vital importance to the prosperity of the State than free coinage of silver What is true here is probably true of many other States Ohio and Pennsylvania for instance, with all the manufacturing States further East, contain a great many free silver men who long ago decided to give that interest a secondary place Protection first and the money question settled afterward It is probable that when the votes are counted in Nebraska right where Bryan's influence has been felt in driving the wool and sugar beet industries out of existence, a very large number of Free Silver men will be found to have gone for McKinley and protection

The Thunder Cloud Romance

The fact that an accomplished young woman artist of New York, has married a full blooded Indian of the Sioux tribe, has occasioned a great deal of public comment Thunder Cloud may be a superior Indian The Sioux furnishes the best physical specimens of a savage race A few of them have been won over to civilization When a sentimental young white woman marries an Indian she invites savage treatment When the romance is gone the barbarisms begin No Indian will work for his own support if he can make a woman work for him Thunder Cloud may be a fine specimen of a Sioux Brave But what will the woman be twenty years hence?

One of the Goodale sisters married a Sioux Indian But this man, Dr Eastman, had been educated at Dartmouth College, and also received a thorough medical education Miss Goodale was a missionary teacher among the Indians The two were in accord on educational matters, They were both Christians Miss Goodale probably dropped painting about the time that this educated Sioux dropped his war whoop When Hattie Hashagan drops her painting it will be about time for this Sioux brave to raise thunder.

Watson Rampant.

Watson, the Populist candidate who is a sort of an appendicit's to the Bryan ticket, says that he will not be cut off He is not going to retire from the race to make way for a plutocrat, a bondholder, a National Banker and a protectionist like Sewall The disqualifications of the latter, according to the Watson standard, are that he is a prosperous business man

There is another grievance Bryan went to Maine and had a conference with Sewall But the former has never gone to Georgia to have a conference with Watson. The latter declares that he has been humiliated by having to beg in public for a formal notification of his nomination

Watson indirectly concedes that he will not be elected He will do all he can to elect Bryan, and will continue to dig into the ribs of Sewall to the end of the canvass This family quarrel only furnishes Republicans with additional grounds of belief that a party which is quarrelling on the eve of an election, gives the strongest assurance of its own defeat Watson is hammering away on one side, and the Gold Democrats on the other Bryan is between the upper and the nether millstone.

Free Art for Chinese.

The free art day at the Hopkins' Art Institute, by a curious sequence of events, has been turned to Chinese account. While five hundred of these people were admitted on Friday, there were some thousands of these people attracted by curiosity and a free day, who could not be admitted Of course the day was spoiled for white visitors. The Chinese are not patrons of art nor have they any knowledge of the elements of art according to Western standards.

In this, these people differ radically from the Japanese who fall in perspective but have the color sense highly developed The latter would never have gone in droves to the Art Institute, nor in any way would they have abused the privileges of a free day It was a memorable occasion when the Chinese captured the Hopkins Art Institute and made it unusually fragrant for one day.

Kirk Monroe, in October Scribner's, gives some interesting bits of information about the light house system of this country "All the light stations of the United States are grouped in sixteen inspection districts, to each of which is assigned an army officer as engineer, and an officer of the navy as inspector Eight of these districts are allotted to the Atlantic and gulf coasts; the ninth, tenth and eleventh cover the Great Lakes, the twelfth and thirteenth extend from Southern California to Alaska, while the remaining three embrace all navigable waters of the Mississippi Valley, on which are displayed some 1400 stake or post lights There are about 150 light stations on the Pacific coast, about 265 on the Great Lakes, and about 850 in the Eastern districts, or between 1,600 and 2700 in all It is impossible to state the exact number, as new stations are constantly being established. Of all these the oldest is Boston light on Little Brewster Island, in Boston harbor, which was established in 1716, and last rebuilt in 1859 The next oldest is Brant Point, at the entrance to Nantucket harbor, which was established in 1746, and last rebuilt in 1858; while the third in point of age is the Gurnet, off Plymouth, established in 1769

There have been many efforts to convert sawdust into useful material, This latest process is a Canadian invention: In Deseronto, Canada, the seat of such extensive lumber interests, a notable local industry consists in sifting a considerable portion of the sawdust arising from the vast and various operations involved, and mixing it with an equal quantity of clay, working the same into a building material now coming into important use in certain sections—a material known as porous terra cotta brick. As described, this brick possesses some remarkable qualities of adaptation as a substitute for what has ordinarily been used for structural purposes. Among the merits enumerated in its favor is its absolutely fireproof character; the fact also of its having a marked deadening effect when employed for partition walls in houses, is very warm and dry, though very light in weight, will stand a prodigious crushing strain; the material can be sawn into convenient shapes as desired, nails can be driven into it after the manner with wood, and, when heated even to a white heat, sudden immersion in water will produce no cracks.

STAYS THAT ARE NEW.

They Are Built Upon Venus de Medici Lines.

The edict that waists shall be larger has upset gowning generally, but the new corset will do much to give the modern woman a figure like that of Venus de Medici. The old, stiff corsets are no more. They are entirely superseded by dainty affairs of brocaded silk, edged top and bottom with lace and baby ribbon.

The preferred length of these corsets is from six to ten inches, and the front gores for the bust now start at the waist lines. This gives a long full effect, very becoming to stout persons

Corsets should invariably be made to order, and may be of the same material as the silk petticoat in every elegant toilets this is essential

Black corsets are no longer worn. With a black petticoat a corset of some dark-patterned silk may be worn, but it is not nearly so popular as a corset of bright silk figured with black.

A corset made for use with a white petticoat is worthy of mention Of white satin it was hand-embroidered with a vine of tiny pink flowers and green leaves. It had edges of white lace knotted with pink ribbon, and clasps of gold Needless to say that this corset is a part of a Gotham belle's trousseau.

Still another corset is made entirely of broad satin ribbon boned under the arms, but otherwise entirely without stiffness.

STARBEAMS.

In Stark County, O., the other day twin brothers married twin sisters. It was the "doubliest" wedding that ever took place in the county.

The public might have believed the story that whisky can be made from beets if that feat had been accomplished in Kansas instead of Nebraska.

For five years the Rev. Mr. Hicks was pastor of Methodist Episcopal charges in Corunna, Mich. During that time his wife paid $700 on their home out of marriage fees, which were always turned over to her by her husband.

A novel crusade is proposed by some women in Brooklyn. It is to be directed against the practice some mothers and nurses have of leaving their babies in baby carriages in the street outside big stores while they are inside shopping

Among other gifts which the State of Maine made to the cruiser which bears her name, was a large silver tureen which can be used by the naval officers as a punch bowl without compromising the reputation which the Pine Tree State sustains for temperance.

The biggest coffee pot in the world was exhibited at the Lubeck fair. It weighs 220 pounds, is 6½ feet high and holds 210 litres If a litre fills five cups of coffee, then 1,050 persons can be supplied by this kettle. It was manufactured at Dunzkau, in Silesia.

Time was when the boys and girls of New England considered it impossible to properly celebrate Thanksgiving day without ice and snow on which to skate and coast, but these essentials seem to have gone out of fashion with other things of the good old time.

People who visit Old Trinity church in New York are much interested in the Astor pews. These are the third on the left and the first on the right They are more occupied by visitors, who sit in them out of curiosity, than by members of the family William Waldorf Astor was last in the church at the time of his wife's funeral, and the John Jacob Astor's never come down town except occasionally on business.

Compressed air as a motive power to street cars is to be tried in Washington within a few days. Each motor, when full charged, will run twenty-five miles without being recharged. The system has been used for years in Europe, where it has proved very economical Congress permits no trolley wires (nor any new overhead wires) in the Capital City, and the various car lines are being forced to find new methods of propulsion Some have cable systems, others underground electric.

There is a boom just now in attar of roses among New York druggists Many of the small apothecaries sell attar of roses at 10 cents a drop, and a chemist in Sixth avenue reports it much in demand in very small quantities among his customers The oil is brought to this country in strong bottles packed in brown Turkish moss Only the druggists buy it from importers in the original package, for its curious penetrating qualities make it difficult to keep in large quantities All the world knows Captain Marryatt's story of the ship in which a keg of attar of roses was broken Nearly all the crew were suffocated by the fumes and the three or four men who brought the craft into port had her timbers turned into perfumed toys, the pungent oil having permeated every part of the vessel and rendered her unfit for service.

The number of adherents to the various religious faiths of the world has formed the basis of a great many interesting essays on comparative religions In the current number of the Nineteenth Century Prof Max Muller goes into the question with more than the usual acumen, and acknowledges his utter inability to ascertain the relative number of the devotees of Christianity Buddhism and Mohammedanism The fact is that the Christians and the Buddhists each have something over four hundred million adherents, with the Mohammedans numbering half as many. "But," says Prof Muller "I attach very little value to these statistics, still less to the conclusions drawn from them Truth fortunately is not settled by majorities You remember the saying of Frederick Maurice, when he was told that in his views about eternal punishment he was in a minority, or, what is the same, unorthodox 'I have often been in a minority,' he said, 'in this life, and I hope I shall be so in the next'"

NOTES AND EXCERPTS.

Apropos of Mr Cornelius Vanderbilt's disagreement with his son and the latter's marriage to a woman very much older than himself, the editor of The Cosmopolitan, in the September issue, seriously discusses the education most useful to modern life, and substantially, if not in words, asks, "Does modern college education educate? The September Cosmopolitan, as if to show what a magazine can do, gives four complete stories in this single number by such noted authors as Frances Courtenay Baylor, Maurice Thompson Gertrude Hall, and John J. a'Becket. When the Salt Lake Tribune goes out of its way to say that Jefferson and Hamilton did not give the market ratios of gold and silver a careful study before fixing the legal ratio, it talks like a tinker, not knowing what he is talking about That is just what they did do, as shown by Hamilton's famous report, which has become an economic classic—St. Paul Dispatch.

When the Siberian railway is completed the journey around the world will not occupy more than forty days, and can be accomplished for about $400.

The Populists are now claiming that the United States and Mexico produce all the silver that is now produced in the world That is not true In 1894 the world produced a total of 167,725,561 ounces, of which, according to the treasury reports, the United States mined 49,500 000 ounces and Mexico 47,038 381 ounces, or a total of 96,538,381, or 71,187 180 ounces for the rest of the world for that year.

A Hoboken man writes to the New York Sun that he is going to vote for Bryan. It appears that Mrs. Hammerdown got a divorce from him some two years ago The court compelled Mr Hammerdown to pay her $100 per month as long as she lived This is $1,200 a year If Bryan is elected, and we have free silver, this is only $3 a month, or $36 a year It looks as if Bryan might get the alimony vote on this plea.—Boston Herald

So far the Republicans claim to have sent out 5,000 000 campaign documents, and the work is going right on at the rate of about 500,000 documents a day In In addition to this distribution the Democrat have thus far sent out 3,000,000 documents, the Populists 3,000,000, and the Silver League 2,600,000. In view of these imposing figures we tender our sympathy to the hard working employes of the postoffices of the country They are bearing one of the heaviest burdens of this great campaign of education.

Professor Stowe, the husband of Harriet Beecher Stowe, often said that he saw visions of people in whom he was interested, and Mrs Field recalls an instance of this in "The Review of Reviews." On one occasion Mrs Stowe was in her room when it was supposed she was out of town. Professor Stowe came in, looked about him with a preoccupied air, but did not speak to her She thought his behavior strange, and amused herself watching him at last the situation became so extraordinary that she began to laugh "Why," he exclaimed, with a most astonished air, "is that you? I thought it was one of my visions."

Men to Vote for.

W. E. GREENE, Republican Nominee for Superior Judge.

A Judge interprets the laws—he does not make them. To him is entrusted the administration, and not the prescription of the measures of legislation, and that, therefore, only wise and upright men should be chosen for the bench can be conceded without argument

Furthermore, when the citizens of a community find that their selection has been all that they desired and hoped for, it is well to consider the claims of their incumbent when the hour comes around for another election, and to ask themselves why when they have secured a man so eminently qualified for the position they should seek a change and run the risks of an untried quantity. Amidst the clamor of politics, too, it is conceded that it is well to let the Judiciary alone. The office is one that cannot be included in the machinery of election methods without being in a sense contaminated. So, ever since the method of selection passed from an appointing power to a vote of the people, all the parties have united in keeping the Judicial ermine clear of the mud which occasionally gets into the political pool

With Judge W. E. Greene, who, at present occupies a seat on the Superior Bench of this county, and who is the Republican nominee for re-election, the people of Alameda County are well satisfied. They first placed him on the bench in 1879, and ever since, at each recurring election, they have endorsed his ability, his good judgment, his unswerving honesty and his faithfulness, by returning him to serve them again, and doing so by a majority so large as to be more than convincing that he is satisfactory in every way.

To be a good Judge, a man must be learned in the law, and furthermore must have more than the ordinary education. Judge Greene fills all these requirements. He is a graduate of the celebrated Bowdoin College in Maine, where he won honors and studied for the law He comes of illustrious New England stock, and was born in Farrington, Maine in 1837. After graduating from Bowdoin, he came to California, and took up his first residence at Stockton He was the unanimous choice of his district for the State Legislature two years later, and he served a term in which he gained such honors that the following year, in 1867, he was elected Superior Judge of San Joaquin County. He was re-elected for the office in 1871 and resigned in 1874 on account of business interests in this part of the country. The Judge decided to take up his residence in Oakland in 1875, and so quickly did he make friends and so soon did his marked ability assert itself that, in 1879, he was elected to the Superior Bench of Alameda County, and has been there ever since

The seventeen years Judge Greene has been on the bench here have been marked by one of the most successful Judicial careers in the history of the State His decisions have rarely been reversed, and the fearlessness of his judgments and his absolute disregard of friend or foe when they come before him in court have won for him the admiration and respect of all the members of the bar, as well as all the citizens of the community. The best proof of this is, of course, his continued re-elections, and it is safe to say that there is no man in Alameda County today who is more respected and whose honesty and sincerity of purpose are more marked than in Judge Greene

His success at the polls next month is as good as assured. Every one who wants to see the bench of Alameda County continue to hold the high place in the Judiciary of the State that it does now will vote to retain there the man who has done more than any one else to win for it its laurels In addition to this, Judge Greene's personal popularity and the wide circle of friends who are working night and day for him are potent factors in the race, so the consolidation of interests in his behalf are so powerful and so effective that it is certain that he will once more be returned by a handsome vote to mete out justice in the Superior Courts of Alameda County.

WEDDED TO A SPIRIT.

STORY OF AN OLD LOVE.

An Englishman Whose Heart Ran Away With His Sense.

A GHOSTLY CEREMONY HELD.

His Bride Was Materialized in Time for the Ceremony.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—A special to the Tribune from Cincinnati, Ohio, says:

Charles Thorp, aged 65, a wealthy gentleman of Birmingham, England, has been married to the sweetheart of his youth, who had been separated from him by death for over forty years.

The wedding occurred at a private residence on Seventh street and was witnessed by a number of highly respectable and intelligent people, some of whom are well known to society and who are willing to vouch for the occurrence.

Among those present were Dr. H. M. Slosson and wife of this city, who were invited there by a spiritualistic medium, who claims she is gifted with the power of materializing sprits.

In speaking of the occurrence the Doctor and Mrs. Slosson said it was the most remarkable demonstration they had ever witnessed. They also said they were fully convinced that no fraud or deception had been practiced.

While the medium was visiting the large cities of the country propounding the doctrines of spiritualism and giving exhibitions of spiritualistic manifestations, she met Mr. Thorp at Omaha.

He called upon her at the hotel and in the course of a conversation stated that while a young man living in England he was engaged to marry a woman who had died before the date set for the wedding, and it was his ardent desire to converse with her.

The medium granted him a sitting. Mr. Thorp afterwards, in speaking of the occurrence, said he met his sweetheart in the form of a materialized spirit.

About a dozen sittings were had at different towns.

At Chicago Mr. Thorp consulted the medium, and after telling her that he had gained the consent of his former sweetheart he requested that a marriage ceremony be performed.

This being a new departure in spiritualism, the medium doubted that the arrangements proposed by Mr. Thorp could be carried out. She, however, expressed a willingness to further test her powers as a medium, so she granted Mr. Thorp a trial, setting the place for the wedding in this city.

On the afternoon preceding the event Mr. Thorp arrived in Cincinnati and after consulting with the medium, went to a florist and ordered an abundance of flowers to adorn the room in which he was to be married. The test was to be made at 5 o'clock in the evening. At 8 o'clock those who were bidden assembled, less than a dozen persons being present.

At 8:30 o'clock Mr. Thorp arrived.

Mr. Thorp was stationed at a point near the cabinet. For some time all sat silently in the darkness and gazed attentively towards the cabinet expecting some manifestation.

At last a sound like the rustling of a curtain was heard. It was the cabinet being opened.

Through the aperture came a phosphorescent light, the soft rays faintly illuminating the face and form of Mr. Thorp and giving him a ghostly appearance. His face was then turned toward the cabinet.

Those who witnessed the strange proceedings were startled upon beholding just to his right the faint outline of a form which seemed to develop in the soft light until it bore the appearance of a young woman clothed in a robe of spotless white. Her hair was dark and her face, while it appeared deathlike, wore a smile of satisfaction.

Just in front of where the two were standing another form, that of an elderly man suddenly became visible and it, too, grew plainer as the moments passed until it resembled the form of one in flesh. This was the person who was to officiate at the wedding.

The ceremony was much after the ordinary style of conducting marriages without the ring. At the conclusion of the ceremony the minister raised his hands above the heads of the bride and groom as though pronouncing a benediction on the union.

The two materialized forms then slowly vanished away as they had come.

HYPNOTISTS RESPONSIBLE.

(Copyright 1896 by Associated Press.)

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 5.—If the ruling of Judge Foute of Atlanta obtains, hypnotists will have to be very careful what they order their subjects to do. The judge holds that the hypnotist is directly responsible for the acts of his subjects.

During a performance at a local theater the subject of a hypnotist imagined he was a monkey. He grabbed a hat off a man in the audience and bit a piece out of it.

The professor and his business manager declined to make good the cost of the hat and the hypnotist was prosecuted before Judge Foute upon a charge of malicious mischief.

The judge sustained the charge and bound the hypnotist over to a higher court.

INDIANS IN CONFLICT.

Indications of a Pitched Battle Between the Opposing Forces.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—A special to the Herald from Tuskahoma, I. T., says:

The trouble which has been brewing for some months between the full bloods and squadmen of the Choctaw Nation has broken out more violently than ever, and unless indications fail there will be serious bloodshed.

The full bloods, who have control of the Council, passed laws cutting the squawmen from off their landed property, and made provision for evicting them.

When the first attempt at eviction was made a few weeks ago, there was a clash in the streets of this city, in which several squawmen were killed and many on both sides more or less injured.

Then comparative quiet reigned for a time, but when the attempt to evict the squawmen was renewed this week trouble broke out again.

There has been a number of conflicts during the past few days, and an unknown number on both sides have been hurt, while it is reported that several have been killed.

Both sides have been gathering their forces during the week, and are preparing for a pitched battle, which is expected today or tomorrow.

Citizens of the town have appealed to the Federal authorities and troops will be sent at once.

There are several troops of cavalry at Fort Reno in camp on Pond Creek, forty miles from here, and they are expected in time to take a hand in the disturbance.

IN THE COUNTY TOWNS.

News Notes, Gossip and a Review of Things Generally.

A Resume of the Happenings in a Very Thriving Section.

Haywards.

(From the Haywards Journal.)

Last Saturday Albert La Cunha and Ed Wells of our last year's football eleven, distinguished themselves at the Stanford University. Ed played guard against Pickett of Stanford, who is one of the oldest and ablest men in that position on the coast. Albert played a fine game, and his punting excelled that of the experienced players pitted against him. A MENACE TO MONEY.

Judge Noble Hamilton on the Work of Bryan.

THE REAL ISSUE IS SHOWN.

Protection to All American Industries Comes First.

WHAT LABOR IS DOING.

Reasons for Voting Solidly for McKinley and Hobart.

Editor Tribune, Sir.—Having in a former article attempted to show that our condition was not the result of the alleged demonetization of silver, I will now endeavor to show what was the cause of all our trouble. It seems to me that it was the result of giving the control of the National Government to the Democratic party in the year 1892, upon a platform adopted by the convention of that party at Chicago, denouncing a tariff for protection 'as unconstitutional and a fraud,' intensified by the repeal of the so-called McKinley bill, and the enactment of the Wilson tariff, with its six hundred amendments. The threat contained in the Democratic platform against all protected industries, created a panic among such manufactories as was never witnessed in this country from a like cause, so alarming it grew that the President called Congress in extra session, he attributing it to the Sherman act, authorizing the purchase of four and a half million silver bullion per month. It will be remembered that he said the alarm was groundless, that the country was in most prosperous condition, that we had met with no national disaster, labor was fully employed at good wages, the farms were never more productive, and said the repeal of the silver purchasing power in the Sherman act would restore confidence and prosperity.

It was repealed, but his bright anticipations were not realized on the contrary, matters have been growing worse, and worse ever since. This but demonstrates that he had not reached the cause—had not properly diagnosed the case.

When Mr Cleveland was elected President in 1884 he no doubt entertained the same opinions upon tariff that he did when elected in 1892. His election at that time created no distrust, no disturbance of business or finance, because there was a Republican Congress to make the laws, and whatever policy he would like to pursue must meet the approval of the Republican Congress. Hence, men engaged in manufactories under protective tariff felt no alarm. There was no interference with the tariff and his administration was a prosperous one, so much so that almost every one conceded that he had made a good President, and his reelection seemed almost an assured fact, until he wrote his free trade letter to the convention that met and nominated him at St. Louis in 1888. At the close of his first administration the national treasury was full to overflowing so much so that he warned the people that so much money in the national treasury was a menace to the perpetuity of our government. He was defeated in that election by Mr Harrison, and prosperity and content was our portion for another four years. Under President Harrison the Republicans tried their hand at tariff reform, and, as a result, enacted the McKinley bill.

The Democratic orators and press denounced the McKinley law as a law that would stifle foreign trade. The first complete fiscal year of that law's operation gave the largest foreign trade ever known. They said it would increase the tariff taxes, in fact it decreased them more than thirty million dollars annually. That it was worse than the war tariff. Under its operations a larger percentage of our foreign trade was freer than ever before in the history of the United States.

The Bureau of Statistics of the Treasury Department shows that for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, our exports amounted to the sum of one billion, thirty million, three hundred and thirty-five thousand, six hundred and twenty-two dollars, and our imports to 827 million, 441 thousand 288 dollars, leaving the balance of trade in our favor, in the sum of $202 944 842. So much for Democratic guessing as to what would be the effect of the McKinley law. Under this law every spindle was running to full capacity, the wages paid to labor was in excess of two thousand million dollars, there were upwards of four million seven hundred thousand employees, and their output was in excess of nine thousand million dollars—more than all the gold and silver money in all the world.

A gentleman engaged in the business of purchasing American manufactured woolen cloths, visited these manufactories in the month of August, 1892, for the object of making purchases. He visited a number of the largest establishments in New York and the New England States, and was informed that every yard of cloth that they could manufacture for twelve months ahead was sold, and he could not make a purchase. When he inquired why they did not extend their plants, the reply was that a presidential election was at hand, and if the Democrats should succeed, they had more than they wanted, and would cease business. It is asserted that seven-eighths of these manufactories have closed down since the election of Mr Cleveland, upon his platform; hostile to protection, turning out of employment of the various manufactories that have ceased business over two million wage workers, and withdrawing from circulation over one thousand million dollars which these laborers were wont to receive as wages. It will be found upon close investigation that I have understated the number of persons thrown out of employment, as also the wages withdrawn.

This, coupled with general distrust and loss of confidence, in my judgment, was the cause of all our distress. On the other hand, the effect produced upon the manufactories of European countries, especially England, is evidenced by the fact that but recently an importer of San Francisco sent to one of the largest manufactories in London an order amounting to forty thousand dollars, for the purchase of woolen goods, tweeds, and the like. He received a reply that his order could not be filled, that every spindle was running to its full capacity, and that every yard of cloth that they could manufacture was sold for eighteen months ahead.

You will remember that the English press and people were loud in their denunciation of the McKinley law, and of McKinley himself, so that it would have been unpleasant for him to have visited that country.

The Wilson bill and its author were lauded by the English press and people, and Mr Wilson, when he visited England, after the passage of his bill, was toasted and feasted by both press and people. Does this fact not show in whose interest the Wilson bill was, and in whose interest the McKinley bill was—the one in the interest of England, and the other in the interest of the United States.

The doctrine of the free trader is based upon the fraternity of the whole race of man, and the mutual obligation to assist each other. If that be sound doctrine, then what justification have we for excluding the Chinamen from our country? While it will not be denied that the Holy Bible teaches that of one flesh He created all nations, it is also true that He fixed the bounds of their habitation. Self-preservation is claimed to be the first law of nature, and if so, it is as applicable to nations as to individuals. Therefore, to prevent the competition of the Chinamen with our laborers, we drive him out of the country. And why should we not, in order to furnish employment for our own kith and kin, make foreign nations pay a license to vend their goods in our market, when by permitting them to come in free we deprive our own people of the opportunity to earn wages by the manufacture of goods for our own markets?

There is a class of our fellow citizens that seem carried with the word "free." It is a most comprehensive and fascinating word, no other perhaps in the language possesses such charm but, like the word liberty, it may be used to assist a bad cause. In the palmy days of the great national democratic party, we had "Free trade and sailors' rights" as the party shibboleth under which the occasional interruption that party controlled the destinies of the Republic for half a century.

The Republican party was organized and became a national party, and in 1856 nominated Fremont for the presidency. The shibboleth of that party was not free trade, but was free speech free soil and Fremont, and although unsuccessful in that election, the party exhibited such strength as made them a power not to be despised and four years thereafter they elected Abraham Lincoln President of the United States.

Now, the men who have wrested the control of the Democratic party from the ablest expounders of the faith, are not as of yore advocating free trade, but free coinage of silver and the supporters of Mr Bryan are led to believe that they are to have silver free, without any necessity of laboring to obtain it. But you must reflect that neither silver nor gold can be coined without mints, employing hundreds of persons, at great expense, which the rest of the people have to pay. So that free coinage is only free to the possessor of silver bullion, at the expense of the Government—which is at the expense of the whole people of the United States. This might be tolerated if it was confined to the silver produced in our own country and to encourage silver mining by our own people, but when you throw our mints open to the world, as is sought by Mr Bryan and his supporters, it is time to call a halt, and see where we are at or where we are drifting.

The only safe thing for a patriot to do on election day is to vote for McKinley and Hobart electors, and then we will know exactly where we are at, and then we may confidently expect return of prosperity to the nation.

Yours truly,
NOBLE HAMILTON.

TO CHARGE THEIR ESTATES

An Effort Is Being Made to Collect From Insane Patients

Three large bills for the maintenance of insane patients from Alameda County at Agnews have been sent for collection to the State Treasury and they have in turn been forwarded to the Attorney General's office for the purpose of being passed on as to their legality.

The bills are for caring for Catharine Meigher from 1888 to 1896, $1,395, for Mary Spangler from 1891 to 1896, $765; Jane Donohue from 1889 to 1896, $1,206.50. The amount charged per month is $15.

The Attorney General asks District Attorney Snook to inquire into the condition of the estates of these patients and shows in the case of Catharine Meigher who formerly resided at 558 Seventh street, letters of administration in the estate were granted to Louis Gotschall at that time Public Administrator. In the case of Mary Spangler, Bridget Clougherty was appointed guardian.

If it should prove that the estates in question are able to satisfy these demands, they will be held responsible for the amounts in question.

CONSCIOUSNESS CENTERS.

The Application of Seeds of Thought to Daily Doings.

The following are extracts from a lecture delivered at Syndicate Hall yesterday by Dr W W Garrison his subject being "The other side of death"

The term soul indicates a center of consciousness which may be very simple—as the soul of a single cell or very complex—as the soul of an animal which is the united consciousness of all the cells which compose the animal body In the animal a single soul tries to synthetize its consciousness In man we have a double soul, or two centers of consciousness One soul is purely animal The other is spiritual The animal soul we can trace through all the lower kingdoms of Nature Associated with this, in man, we have a superior consciousness, a soul that did not develop or devolve through these lower forms The Darwinian theory of evolution with some amendments, serves very well to account for the lower animal soul in man but absolutely fails to solve the great mystery of the intellectual reasoning soul, the thinker, the real immortal ego

This world is the great battle-ground for the soul "For the sake of the soul alone the universe exists," says Patanjala While in this world we create conditions for ourselves, that not only prevail here but also govern on the other side of death Action is followed by reaction, this is the Karmic law Thought is the root of all action We never perform any voluntary act that we have not first thought about Hence thought is the real creative energy in the universe No energy can be annihilated least of all thought energy. This must somewhere find an outlet Now, as we cannot gather the whole harvest of our thoughts on this plane, the earth, there must be somewhere other fields to reap These fields exist on the other side of death Sleep and death are similar conditions In sleep there is a temporary separation of the dual souls During deep sleep the ego is released from its prison, the body and functions on other planes, as is clearly indicated in our dreams. A death there is a more thorough and permanent separation of the principles constituting the human soul

At the moment of death the union between the higher and lower souls is relaxed, and for a short period the higher acts independently During this period the higher souls acts as Judge The whole drama of the life, just closed pass in panorama review before the judgment seat Unfluenced by passion or desire, the higher soul calmly observes the acts of the whole life, and renders impartial judgment which is at once recorded on Nature's great photographic negative, the astral light In this astral light are photographed every thought as also, every event in the life of all creatures that pass through earth life The astral light is nature's workshop From the thought pictures stored therein are moulded all forms that appear on earth and thus this law 'coming events do cast their shadows before' On separating from the physical body the soul drops into profound unconsciousness of longer or shorter duration One class of human beings do not pass beyond this borderland of death, but almost immediately reincarnate again and begin another life on earth

To this class belong the scientific materialists, idiots, and infants who have not reached the age of reason. The oft repeated text "Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap" applies here, for the scientists who assert, and believe, that after the death of the body no consciousness survives have simply uttered an unconscious prophecy "As a man thinketh so he is" The infant having no reason has made no thought pictures, has sown no seed and hence has no harvest to reap The idiot is in the same category Life in each case has been a failure, and so they must begin anew In the case of the ordinary individual the sleep, spoken of above soon terminates and the soul awakens to find itself in the world of desires This world is peopled by all kinds and descriptions of elementa beings This is the formative world, here every living thing that is to appear on earth assumes an astral form

Desire is king of this realm, and it is here that all material desires take form These desires however, can only be gratified in earth life and consequently every being in this world is striving to reach the earth plane The reasoning soul on its arrival here after death can find no place for rest, and struggles to release itself from the body of desires to which it finds itself attached

This release may be accomplished soon or the struggle may last for many years, depending altogether upon causes set up during earth life The human soul is endowed with reason and conscience, the animal soul with desire and instinct After the union of the two souls in a human body reason soon destroys instinct and assumes the control of all the affairs of the body conscience and desire become his counselors—one tries to elevate the soul the other strives to drag it down

If reason heeds the voice of conscience, it builds up a strong, spiritual entity which cannot long be held in bondage in the world of desires In that case the soul soon gravitates to its normal plane, the psychic or mental world On the contrary, if reason chooses desire as guide it may soon be immersed in the slough of sensuousness, greed, and all the animal passions in which case it may have to struggle many weary years before it gains its liberty from the world of desires

The ego, on disentangling itself from the animal soul passes on to a higher plane the psychic or mental world, called in Eastern literature Devachan, this world corresponds to the Christians heaven Before entering this new world which the ego has now reached, let us pause a moment to learn what befalls the animal soul Deserted by its fellow companion, deprived of its guiding intelligence, it is now a mere empty shell, the astral image of its former body This shell, if left to itself soon fades out, leaving only an astral picture This picture, however retains the karmic essence of its former lives. This essence, known as Kamdas, forms the basis for a new astral body, to be used by the ego, on its return to earth, after completing its period of rest in Devachan

We left the ego soul just at the threshold of Devachan Wearied and exhausted from its recent struggle with the fierce animal desires, it now falls into a peaceful slumber, from which it gradually awakens to a full realization of its blissful condition It must be remembered that this is a world of pure mentality material desires find here no lodgment. Having left behind both physical and astral bodies, the pure soul can suffer no pain nor sorrow in this world of subjective happiness As all desires take form in Kama Loka, the world of desires, so in Devachan all spiritual and mental aspirations bloom out into full and glorious flower.

This must be so, otherwise energy would be destroyed or annihilated, a conclusion that is illogical and impossible, for action and reaction are equal under all conditions

Therefore, the length of time passed by each ego in Devachan varies in proportion to the amount of unexhausted energy stored up during earth life Thoughts are seeds, that in time germinate and crystalize into physical forms Every plant and flower, shrub and tree, is the product of human thoughts. Every mountain valley or plain scattered over the face of our beautiful earth are material zed thoughts, as much so as are the architectural structures that compose our cities the product of human thoughts On earth we sow the seeds, those of rapid growth will soon mature, others require a longer time to develop Those of rapid growth spring into maturity during our short earth life, the others we watch over and see them slowly assume a form on the other side of death Our grosser thoughts we leave in the world of desires, as astral pictures our higher spiritual thoughts we watch in Devachan We see them springing into life, clothed in celestial forms we watch them as they develop toward maturity we revel in the exquisite beauty we are intoxicated with our lovely surroundings and give no heed to time But, in time, the seeds have all matured, and our pleasures are exhausted, and we are forced to again return to earth to sow a new crop

TALKS OF A MURDER.

The Remarkable Hallucination That Has Seized Mrs. Ralph

County Clerk Jordan was requested this morning to interest himself in the case of Mrs Ralph the elderly lady on Tenth and Franklin streets, who recently was brought before the Commission in Lunacy but who was pronounced not insane Some friends of the lady want the County Clerk to get up a petition as a means of raising money with which to pay her fare back to her friends in the East.

Some months ago Mrs Ralph attracted considerable attention in this city by forcing upon the people the story that her son had deserted his wife in Dixon, Nebraska, had come out here and had been murdered in the free clinic at the southwest corner of Tenth and Franklin streets At the time, Mrs Ralph lived on the floor above the clinic and stoutly asserted that when her son was being killed by persons whom she did not know she could distinctly hear his cries for help but she was powerless to render him any assistance She sought to get the newspapers and the police to run down the alleged murderers but only convinced them that her mind was deranged

Some weeks ago, Mrs Ralph was convinced by a letter from Nebraska that her son was not dead She has relatives near Dixon in that State and a married daughter residing in San Francisco

IN UNITY IS STRENGTH.

The Plan to Consolidate the Labor Unions of Chicago.

One of the Big Organizations to Be Merged in the Other.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Oct 5—On and after November 1st the Chicago Trade and Labor Assembly will cease to exist. A resolution to that effect was adopted at the Sunday meeting without opposition

The resolution providing for the surrender of the charter was introduced by Delegate Pomeroy, who presented a letter from President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, recommending that action be taken This letter is addressed to the individual labor unions of the city, and in part says

"No one can view the present situation in the labor movement of Chicago without a feeling akin to humiliation Perhaps in few places of the United States are the workers better organized in their respective trade unions, yet in consequence of the divisions in the general movement, the interests of all labor suffer Every effort has been made to unite the central bodies upon a basis fair to each, but without success

"Recognizing how important is unity in the labor movement, we now appeal to the labor unions direct for the purpose of securing from you an expression of opinion whether you are in favor of the formation of one central body to take the place of the two now existing in the city of Chicago.

"Recognizing how futile any attempt would be to bring about unity at once, we desire to say that if the responses to this circular are favorable, a meeting will be called for November 9, 1896, announcing the time and place of meeting."

Delegate Pomeroy's resolution was to the effect that the recommendations in President Gompers' letter be complied with, and that November 1st be set as the date upon which the assembly would turn over its charter, records, etc, to a representative of the American Federation, and thereby end its existence as a corporate body.

The resolution also contained a clause pledging the delegates to the assembly to use their best efforts as individuals to further the plan for a new organization, as proposed in the letter of Mr Gompers, irrespective of the attitude of the Labor Congress. Pomeroy's resolution, after some discussion, was adopted.

THE DORE DRAWINGS.

Great Success of the Exhibit During the Chicago Season.

The Collection of Masterpieces Is Now to Go to Boston.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5—The famous collection of Dore paintings and drawings after nine months' successful exhibit, closed yesterday, and today the work of packing and shipping the huge canvasses will begin.

The collection goes to Boston, where it will be hung in Copley Hall for an indefinite engagement.

From the first, great crowds have attended the exhibit, and a close estimate places the number of visitors during the period at 1,500,000, an average of 6,000 a day, which is said by the management to be approximately correct.

The largest day's attendance was on April 12th, when 16,200 people were present.

It is probable that the collection will be exhibited in several other large cities before being sent back to London.

LINED UP AT LAST.

INCORPORATION IS EFFECTED.

General Hart in Charge of the Affair for the Coast.

AN ASSESSMENT IS MADE.

Many Millions Await If the Great Victory Is Won.

The California heirs of the Aneke-Jans Trinity and Harlem properties, located in New York, are commencing to see their way clear to pay claim to the $500,000,000 estate that is waiting for some one The Oakland claimants are particularly active just at present, and expect before long to have matters shaped so that they will be ready to present their cases to the courts.

A meeting of over forty of the heirs was held last week at 320 Post street, San Francisco, and a definite plan of action was mapped out. It was decided to incorporate all the Pacific Coast aspirants to the millions, under the name of the Pacific Coast Heirs of the Aneke Jans, Bogardus Estates Association, though the amount of capital stock has not as yet been decided upon.

The Directors who have been chosen are Jesse S Halstead, H O Brower, L. M. McKenney, H. H. Francisco and J. L. Welmore.

Sufficient money was subscribed to legally complete the corporation, and the matter will be pushed forward with vigor

It was also decided to send J G Evans of Los Angeles to New York, there to look out for the interests of the Western heirs and to complete the genealogical tree, so that when everything else is in readiness there will be no hitch regarding the rights of the claimants

At the meeting, General W H H Hart urged the members of the association to hasten action. In his report, he declared positively that the property and cash was justly due, and that New York's State Secretary, who now is holding some of the valuables, had asked him why the heirs did not claim what belonged to them

There have been two stumbling blocks in the way of immediate progress One was the lack of funds and the other the fact that several valuable documents necessary for complete proof of heirship had been lost

The latter General Hart has located in an Eastern State, and will have them on hand at the next meeting

The former obstacle will be bridged over by the formation of a corporation.

In Ohio and New York two incorporated bodies of heirs are a ready in existence, but without the assistance of the California people interested nothing can be done As a consequence, as soon as the Western heirs are legally a company, a National Convention of the three associations will be held and a united effort put forth to levy the one per cent assessment on the entire estate, prior to commencing final action in the United States Court to obtain possession of the entire property.

The California people interested claim that their fight is an up-hill one for the Trinity Company, which has many millions back of it, buys off the lawyers sent there and thus prevents justice being done the rightful heirs.

With General Hart they have implicit confidence, and the case has been left entirely in his hands

Among the Oakland heirs are Jesse S. Halstead, Treasurer of the Oakland Theater, Mrs S U. Halstead, M. de la Montanya, J L Welmore, S A. Kosta, H M. Kenney of the San Francisco Report and L. M. McKenney, the insurance man

AS OTHERS SEE US.

The suicide of Thomas S Wylie, late of Oakland, in Los Angeles, closes a chapter in the career of sin of one couple Wylie was the man who introduced Fannie McBride to his wife as his sister and the couple, on the exposure of the deception, became the subject of great scandal Wylie eloped with the woman and both took to drinking and went down the grade of dissipation so rapidly that in a couple of years they had to take to the coarsest menial labor to support themselves. The deceived wife got a divorce and a goodly portion of Wylie's property to support her and her children and has only the shame of her husband's degredation to mar her happiness When the miserable woman, who forsook her husband in the East to win Wylie from his wife, imitates his example the second chapter will have a fitting close.—Stockton Independent.

There is little danger of Alameda being made the dumping ground for Oakland garbage. The oil of that city is to be burned in a furnace, whence no smell nor malodorous element escapes. Ordinances are now being drawn conferring the right to perform this public service. The Alameda move was a sort of false alarm on the part of the garbage collectors, who see their avocations imperrilled or their calling made subservient by the granting of an exclusive franchise to man or company. The collectors thought to head off the monopoly, or at least gain more favorable terms, by having it appear that they had secured dumping grounds outside the city. The burning of garbage is the sanitary method of disposing of it. Machinery has been devised by which it may be totally destroyed and not an odor permitted to escape The vile smells are carried off to a retort and condensed in salt water, which runs off harmless to the sea Alameda should thus dispose of its garbage. Dumping it at the front door, where nearly every body who comes to town has to pass and smell it, is only saved from being idiotic policy by being in some weasure a necessity It would no longer be this if it were scientifically destroyed by fire.—Alameda Argus.

A Country Burglary

Last Saturday afternoon, the residence of A. G. Roberts at San Lorenzo was burglarized. The burglars entered the place after forcing a window with a spade, and took all the small articles which they could readily convert into coin.

"Intrinsic value and market value have nothing in common," said the Boston man, who was arguing the money question. "Oh, they ain't?" asked the Chicago man. "They have not," reiterated the Boston man. "The market value of a plate of beans is five cents: The intrinsic value—" He paused, lost in the contemplation of the illimitable.

NEWS OF THE CHURCHES.

The Five Missionary Bishops Coming to Oakland Tonight.

SOME OF SUNDAY'S SERMONS.

A Christian Endeavor Meeting at Dr. Small's Church.

Rev. Dr. Charles R. Brown, the Massachusetts divine, recently called by the First Congregational Church preached his initial sermons yesterday. His subjects were well selected for the occasion of his introduction to his new congregation. In the morning his theme was "Changes" and at the evening service his text was from the first four words of the Bible, 'In the beginning God"

Dr. Brown's pulpit manners are easy and pleasing His voice is well modulated, and though he talks rapidly, his clear cut enunciation makes his words audible in any part of the church. He uses few gestures, but they are timely and accentuate the points wished to be made prominent. When not gesticulating the clergyman's hands are either rested on his hips, clasped in front or thrust lightly into his trousers pockets

Dr Brown is not a ranter in the pulpit. He talks easily, rapidly and sincerely. The methods used by some churches and clergymen to secure large congregations he evidently deprecates In the evening he spoke for a moment of this saying "To say that this sermon will draw, or such and such music, or a certain singer will draw, or to use other methods to 'draw' is not true religion."

He apparently more closely resembles Dr McLean in his church idea than any other local clergyman.

Dr. McLean, Dr Moore and Dr Freeland sat with him on the platform during the morning service In the evening he occupied it alone At no time did he try to impress his audience with his oratorical powers He attempted no rhetorical effusions or effects, but at all times showed sincere Christianity and an earnest desire to turn souls to the church.

At the close of the morning service the children in the infant class of the Sunday School made a very pretty demonstration of their loyalty to the new preacher. The sermon was concluded and the benediction was about to be pronounced when the little tots filed into the church each bearing a bouquet of California flowers. They marched up to the front of the rostrum and handed them as tokens of welcome to Dr. Brown The little act of hospitality affected the Eastern man, and in a few words which he seemed to feel deeply he expressed his thanks to the children.

HIS SERMON

Dr Brown's sermon on "Changes" is of interest in view of it being his first remarks here.

"Stagnation," he said, "is most certainly a menace to society, the Nation and the church. We have yet to know of any good thing accomplished without an effort and we have no record of any good thing serving its highest purpose when its exponents have housed themselves within a certain sphere and lived only upon themselves. The church especially must expand.

"There are always things beyond us, and duties which we have to confront tomorrow. While men and conditions change and everything is forced to alter and readapt itself, there is one thing that does not change. That is our religion. But with this ever shifting undulation of conditions we must reach out and lay hold upon things with our religion as our fixed basis.

"Purity of purpose is a grand thing It may seem an ordinary, even an humble, idea, but I make bold to say that were we but stimulated and encouraged by that one genuine ambition to do for God as he would have us do, which means so much to the success of church work, the harvest would not resolve itself to an unknown or doubtful quantity. Purity of purpose—the genuine longing to reach beyond and gather to God the things that are his unmindful of attending sacrifice, is the quality which the church must build in man if it would realize all that should be possible for it.

"Changes often made—conscientious changes, can only result in good, if they hinge upon the rock of truth, the Bible. The church must change with altering circumstances, but let there be with every movement an increase in sincerity of purpose."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Special Services Are Held at Rev. James Small's Church.

The First Christian Church devoted the day yesterday to Christian Endeavor work. In the morning Mr. Small preached on the pledge. A few points made were: "It ought not to be taken lightly. It is a pledge for life. It means a covenant for a life time. It is not a covenant between members. It brings us face to face with Christ. It is a pledge of absolute loyalty to Him It begins with Evangelical faith. It enthrones Him over heart and life. It tells of a hidden strength. It indicates the way we are to avail ourselves of this strength. It points out how we are to learn where the will of Christ is.

"We promise to read the Bible every day It renews again our pledge of loyalty to the Church. It makes church attendance easier. It whips up our consciences on the matter. It sanctifies our duties in the week wherever we are.

'It brings the young Christian into a training school. It has taught the young people to open their mouths. It provides for a special season of consecration It places the standard of Christ life on a high plane. It is the back bone of the society."

In the evening Mr Gilbert and Miss Clift spoke on behalf of saving the waifs and finding homes for them.

Mrs. Princess Long of Alameda sang a solo entiled "The Sowers and Reapers."

There were six persons united with the Chritian Endeavor at the close of the evening service.

On Sunday next Mr Small will begin a series of sermons on the political crisis. Subject in the morning, "Lessons from the administration of Joseph." Evening, "These troublous times what do they mean, how shall we meet them?"

CROSSED IN A STORM.

A SAILOR IS DROWNED.

DECORATIONS SWEPT AWAY.

The Royalist Cries Are Resounding Strangely in the Republic.

WARSHIPS AS ESCORTS.

France Is Vieing With England in Entertaining Russia's Ruler.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., Oct. 5.—The inhabitants of this port, military, naval and civil, were astir early today to witness the departure of the Czar and Czarina for France.

Their majesties passed the night on board the imperial yacht Polestar.

All the vessels in the harbor were dressed rainbow fashion from stem to stern and the imperial couple were given a hearty send off.

First Lord of the Admiralty Hon. Geo. J. Goschen, on board the first class cruiser Blenheim, started at 6:30 A. M. for the Nab lightship, where a fleet of thirty-two British warships assembled to salute their majesties and escort them to the mid channel.

At the special request of the Czar there were no guards of honor mounted ashore, the only military display being a detachment of marines which did sentry duty during the night and morning.

Owing to the entire absence of ceremony connected with the departure of the Czar the crowds ashore were not nearly as large as might otherwise have been expected.

The Polestar started at 7 A. M. and as she passed the various war vessels their sides or yards were manned and the imperial yacht given bugle salutes, while the band of the flagship Blenheim played the Russian anthem.

This was followed by the roaring of cannon, salutes from the Inflexible, Victory and Hero and from the batteries ashore.

The Duke of Connaught on board the steamer Pinnace, accompanied the Polestar to the mouth of the harbor, and then returned to shore.

The Polestar proceeded to Spitzer and was saluted by the British fleet commanded by Vice Admiral Lord Walter Talbert Kerr, which formed in two lines and with the Polestar in the center proceeded seaward to meet the French fleet from Cherbourg, which was to escort the imperial party to that port.

A STORM RAGING.

The Furies Seem to Always Attend the Russian Monarch.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHERBOURG, Oct. 5.—The bad luck which seems to cling to the Czar showed itself again today.

Most elaborate preparations had been made to receive the Russian travelers.

The way from the landing stage to the hall of the Arsenal had been covered with silk hangings, shields, bannerettes and flowers.

The landing stage was beautifully draped, Venetian masts were erected at many points and floral bunting and other decorations displayed everywhere.

A terrific squall swept over the city, felling the Venetian masts to the ground, scattering the decorations in all directions and inflicting great damage generally.

This morning hundreds of men were set to work repairing the damage.

The French Northern squadron consisting of twenty-one vessels, and including the Charles Martelell, a first class battle ship, the Hoche, the battle ship with Vice Admiral Reginaud de Prenesnil, on board, the Jean Bart Descartes, Jemmepes and fifteen cruisers and torpedo boats, left the harbor at 8 o'clock in single file with a gale blowing.

Before the warships were outside the harbor they were almost completely hidden from view by a heavy rain storm which did further damage to the decorations ashore.

The gale also increased in force and a heavy sea began to thunder on the coast.

There seems little doubt that the imperial yacht Polestar will receive a severe shaking up and if the storm lasts, may have a difficulty in making port.

A BRILLIANT PROGRAMME.

Arrangements for a Royal Reception to the Rulers.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHERBOURG, Oct. 6.—According to the programme, which may be upset by the storm, the French fleet will meet the Polestar at the three mile limit.

The battleship Dupuy de Lome, with President Faure on board, will, however, push forward to meet the Czar's yacht, salute her, and then return to Cherbourg to await the arrival of the Russian travelers.

At noon the news was signalled that the Russian Imperial yacht Polestar had joined the French squadron and was proceeding to this port with French warships each side of her.

The imperial guests will, after being formally welcomed by President Faure, proceed along a covered way to the hall of the Arsenal.

The interior of the Arsenal Building has been exquisitely decorated, and divided into a reception hall, diplomatic hall and banqueting room.

In the banqueting room, where the Czar and Czarina will partake of bread and salt, in Russian fashion, are three tables, one raised higher than the other two.

At the highest table, the Czar and Czarina, President Faure and the most distinguished guests will be seated.

Rails have been laid in the Arsenal grounds from the railroad proper to the door of the Diplomatic Hall.

It is proposed that the Czar and Czarina embark on board the imperial train this evening at 8 and proceed to Paris, where they are booked to arrive at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning, at La Muette station.

Then their Majesties are to make their state entry into Paris.

They will go to the Russian Embassy, where they will be housed during their stay.

The Czar and Czarina have planned to remain five days in France, and will visit Versailles and Camp de Chalons, where there will be an imposing review of troops numbering about 70,000.

COMING IN.

The Imperial Yacht Enters the Port in Safety.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHERBOURG, Oct. 5.—At 1:45 P. M. the imperial yacht and the French fleet escorting it were entering the roads here.

The wind was against the escorting squadron and as the ships appeared it was seen the Polestar was rolling heavily.

The French ships in the roads formed two lines.

The bands on the French ships played the Russian anthem.

The sailors dressed the sides and cheered heartily.

The Czar stood upon the bridge of the Polestar and responded to the cheers with a military salute.

The Polestar followed by the Standard, then led the way into the harbor, upon which the land batteries poured forth an imperial salute.

President Faure in evening dress and wearing the order of St. Andrew, surrounded by the President of the Senate, M. Loubert, M. Brisson, President of the Chamber of Deputies, M. Melink, President of the Council of Ministers, M Holota, Minister of Foreign Affairs, Admiral Besnard, Minister of Marine, Baron Von Mohrenheim, Russian Ambassador to France, and the members of the Russian Embassies and staff appointed to wait on the Czar and Czarina during their stay in France, awaited their majesties' arrival at the landing stage, where a company of marines with flags flying and a band playing was drawn up.

The officers to attend upon the Czar are General Moulten De Doisdonfre, Rear Admiral Roustan, Colonel De Lestapis, Colonel Oudard, Lieutenant Colonel Menetrez, Commandant Pauffin, De Saint Moreland, Commandant

In additions to the officers mentioned eight captains have been placed at the disposal of General De Bisdonfre to act as a body guard.

The Czar's Ship Crashes Into a Boat at the Landing.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHERBOURG, Oct. 5.—As the Polestar was towed by two large tugs alongside the Obsolete dispatch boat Bisson moored against the quay to serve as a pontoon, she crashed heavily against the gangway run out from the Bisson and smashed it to pieces.

The gangway was almost immediately replaced and the Czar and Czarina stepped ashore.

Every point of vantage was black with people.

Hats, handkerchiefs, etc., were waved, and for the first time since the fall of Napoleon III, there arose from an immense French crowd the almost forgotten shout of "Vive L'Empereur."

It was soon followed by other cries of "Vive La Tsar." "Vive La Russia," during which several baskets of flowers were presented to the Czarina.

The Czarina was the first to land, holding in her hand a light, unopened umbrella. She was dressed simply in a gray costume with a cape and wore a straw hat trimmed with roses de France.

The Czar made a brief response.

M. Faure gave his arm to the Czarina while the Czar walked on the President's right.

As the imperial party ascended the steps leading to the hall of Louis XVI the Premier, the presidents of the Chambers and the others following, the sunlight burst through the clouds for the first time during the day, dispelling the gloomy feelings induced by the unlucky storm.

How the Telegraph Pole Came to Be Across the Track.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—A great deal has been made out of little or nothing by the report circulated in the United States that a large block of wood was found lying across the railroad track at Gardstand, some distance south of Lancaster, an hour before the Czar's train passed there yesterday morning on its way from Ballater to Portsmouth.

The inference evidently intended to be drawn from the message was that an attempt had been made to wreck the imperial train.

Such is not the case.

The mile post was blown down by the wind on the opposite railway track to the one on which the Czar travelled and was removed half an hour before the imperial train passed, by plate layers whose work it is to watch the tracks during stormy weather.

HISTORY AND TODAY.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

PARIS, Oct. 5.—The date that coincides with the landing in France of Nicholas and Alexandra is the hundred and seventh anniversary of the march of the market women of Paris on the Palace of Versailles to bring back the king, queen and their children hostages of the revolution.

Their capture was effected next day, October 6, 1789, on the anniversary of which the Czar enters Paris for the first time and with that spectacular show which the French are so skilled in arranging.

The blind worms now in power here are doing what they can to divest the date, which in so far as M Hanotaux and Prince Lobanoff (who sketched the ceremonial,) were concerned, of its true significance.

The severe lesson that it should inculcate is being hidden away. Despotic monarchs are, humanly speaking, assured of impunity.

The power that shapes the end of nations, as individual men and women, catches up such potentates in their posterity and often the seemingly innocent are made to pay for the guilty as in the case of Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette.

This lesson should at the present time, when with the tacit complicity of France and Russia, Armenians are being massacred and exiled in tens of thousands, come home with awesome force to the minds of Nicholas and Alexandra and make them tremble for themselves and for their infant daughter, the darling of their hearts.

The Czar and Czarina will not be escorted to France by Russian warships. The French Government was most anxious that they should do so and give an object lesson in the roads of Cherbourg of the naval strength of France and Russia united.

But Nicholas was too much the gentleman to lend himself to that game of brag which doubtless would have been most gratifying to the President, who wants to figure in the eyes of Europe as the Sea King and head of the French army. He never, to place himself on the same maritime level as Victoria, misses an opportunity to make excursions in men-of-war with a whole squadron in his wake.

The Czar, seeing through his purpose of posing as a rival of the Queen on the watery element, sent word that he would be merely escorted by the sister yacht of the Standard, in which he and the Czarina cross from Portsmouth to Cherbourg.

To make up for this disappointment, M. Felix Faure caused a part of the Atlantic and Toulon squadrons to be ordered around to Cherbourg. There will be, therefore, a grand naval spectacle in honor of the imperial visitors. It was hoped that they would go to witness it from the Fort du Roule, on a high hill behind the town; but since the dynamite scare this idea has been waived.

M. Faure has, however, been able to secure the presence of the Czar, in company with himself, at a review of 70,000 soldiers at the camp of Chalons.

An Electric Car Causes a Wreck Across the Bay.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

From the mountains, from the plains, from the cities, towns, villages and the hamlets of the great valley, by train, by carriage, wagons, carts and buggies and on horseback they have come in a steady stream for the past forty-eight hours.

Conservative estimates place the number of people within our gates at not less than 15,000 to 20,000.

At precisely 12 o'clock the procession which was a long and showy one, divided into several divisions and each division with its band started on its march.

The parade was both military and civic and was reviewed by Governor Budd and his staff at the celebration grounds around the spot where the new Valley Railway depot will be erected.

As the procession passed the reviewing stand the special train bearing the Directors of the road and a large number of invited guests from San Francisco, Stockton and points along the road, arrived, and the guests and railroad officials witnessed the parade from the cars.

A. R. Briggs of Fresno delivered the welcoming address, followed by Captain Payson on behalf of the Valley Road Directors.

People throughout the valley are much enthused over the progress thus far made.

Those to the south who today for the first time looked upon the sight of a train coming in over the Valley Road got the impression that a competing line was fast assuming the shape of reality.

The barbecue, which was one of the principal features of the day's festivities was attended by the road Directors. Governor Budd and staff and thousands of people from abroad.

GRAHAM SHOWED FIGHT.

A Spicy Incident Today at the Catherwood-Grinnell Wedding.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRAINCISCO, Oct 5.—The Bulletin today says there was an exhibition of military unpleasantness at the fashionable wedding of Miss Catherwood to Dr. Grinnell at the Presidio Reservation today.

Mrs. Major Darling, mother of Miss Catherwood, is not on good terms with General Graham, Commandant of the Post.

The Graham family, alone of all the officers of the families at the post, was not invited to the wedding.

The Presidio Band had been engaged to play at the ceremony, but when the wedding commenced General Graham ordered the band men back to their quarters, so they did not play at the wedding

Graham also ordered the back of Inspector Martin and a hundred carriages off the reservation, so the guests had to walk from the hall of the post, where the wedding took place, out to the gates of the Presidio to get into their carriages.

The incident caused much feeling.

WASHINGTON, Oct 5.—Secretary Herbert has awarded the contract for building one of the thirty knot torpedo boats (the largest of 250 tons) to the Union Iron Works of San Francisco, and the contract for two smaller 30-knot boats, upon plans projected by the French builder, Normand, to the Bath Iron Works of Maine, as recommended originally by the heads of the Bureau of Construction and Steam engineering.

PRIZES ARE IN DISPUTE.

A Lively Scene When the Package Was Thrown From the Balloon.

There is a deal of squabbling over the prize which is to be given to the person who returns the Bryan purse dropped by the aeronaut who yesterday made the ascension at Blair Park. As yet no one has returned the purse for it has been stolen, but two persons have entered a protest and claim that the chain to be given as the prize should be awarded to them.

Claimant number one is the proprietor of a Seventh street restaurant. According to his statement he got the purse and kept it over night. This morning he showed it to some customers he said, and later it was stolen. He offers to prove his claim by creditable witnesses.

"Jimmy" McNally is claimant number two. He is a newsboy and had a score of other boys of his calling when he dropped into Moran's this morning to state his case. According to his tale as the stocking dropped, a tall colored "gent," whose height overtopped all others reached for it and warned others to keep off. He missed it however, and McNally states that it then fell into his hands. He accidentally dropped it but quickly fell on it This did not work. Several men pushed him away from his prize and the restaurant keeper secured it.

Mr. Moran has decided not to make the award. He has turned the whole matter over to Superintendent of the Road Tiffany who will turn himself into an equity court of appeal and hear the claimants this afternoon.

Charles Jones, a youngster, secured the baby eagle which was also dropped. In so doing he was severely bitten on the finger.

COMING TO AMERICA.

Haines and Kearney Are Shipped by the Dutch Officials.

By Associated Press to The Tribune

ROTTERDAM, Oct. 5.—Ten minutes before the Netherlands line steamship Werkendam sailed for New York Saturday a carriage containing Kearney and Haines, the Irish-American suspects and two police officers in plain clothes drove up to the dock and the party boarded the steamer.

They were shipped under aliases.

Strict orders were given the police to keep the affair from reporters.

To this purpose an official statement that the suspects had been conducted to the frontier was given out.

LUTY'S FUNERAL.

The Stockbroker's Remains Are Carried to the Grave.

The funeral of Frederick E. Luty, the San Francisco stock broker who shot himself Saturday, was held today. Owing to Mrs. Luty's illness it took place from the undertaker's parlors instead of the family residence.

Only a few of the intimate friends were in attendance, as it was intended to be as private as possible. Several stock exchange members were there, but the exchange did not attend in a body.

Rev. Father Akerly officiated and T. E. Jewell, Martin Jones, Wm. Murdock and Chauncey St. John acted as pall bearers.

Burglars Are Busily Plying in the Up-Town Districts.

Detective Shorey is today taking an inventory of the various pawnbrokers' stocks looking for articles which Proprietor Ross of the Wilson Hotel reported this morning as missing from the rooms of the boarders.

Whether or not the articles were stolen he does not know, and the police are as mysterious over the affairs as though they were on the trail of Jack the Ripper.

Two other hotels have been burglarized of late and from the secrecy it is supposed that the officers have located the criminal and are only waiting to trap him at his work.

The Requa Wedding.

Another of the details for Miss Requa's coming marriage was arranged today when I. L. Requa, father of the bride, called upon Chief Lloyd to ask for police service at the church. The chief agreed to detail three men on the occasion and the father volunteered the information that he had employed a corps of private detectives to be present at the mansion during the reception.

Six to One Offered That McKinley Carries New York State.

EVEN MONEY ON KENTUCKY.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

When a man is willing to bet his money on his opinions, it is generally the best test in the world of his convictions. The following list will therefor give the best criterion yet published on the election prospects. It contains the quotations sent out by one of the largest pool rooms in New York, and was received today by the Tribune with a letter stating that all money will be received at the odds quoted.

As the pool-makers have undoubtedly had the situation thoroughly sifted by competent experts before putting their money up, the quotations may be regarded as thoroughly sizing up the situation. In fact, the sensible figures given regarding the Western States, the conditions of which are known here better than in the East, show it is evident that the figures have been prepared by those who know what they are about.

The odds opposite each State are on the candidate carrying such State, and are not against him. Here they are:

FIRST BLOOD.

The Reliance Club Wins the Initial Game of the Season.

The Reliance football team covered itself all over with glory Saturday by defeating the University of California club in a spirited game. The score was 12 to 0 and at the end of the second half the ball was in Reliance territory.

WARSHIPS AS ESCORTS.

France Is Vieing With England in Entertaining Russia's Ruler.

By Associated Press to The Tribune

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., Oct. 5.—The inhabitants of this port, military, naval and civil, were astir early today to witness the departure of the Czar and Czarina for France.

Their majesties passed the night on board the imperial yacht Polestar.

All the vessels in the harbor were dressed rainbow fashion from stem to stern and the imperial couple were given a hearty send off.

First Lord of the Admiralty Hon. Geo. J. Goschen, on board the first class cruiser Blenheim, started at 6 30 A. M for the Nab lightship, where a fleet of thirty-two British warships assembled to salute their majesties and escort them to the mid channel.

At the special request of the Czar there were no guards of honor mounted ashore, the only military display being a detachment of marines which did sentry duty during the night and morning.

Owing to the entire absence of ceremony connected with the departure of the Czar the crowds ashore were not nearly as large as might otherwise have been expected.

The Polestar started at 7 A. M. and as she passed the various war vessels their sides or yards were manned and the imperial yacht given bugle salutes, while the band of the flagship Blenheim played the Russian anthem.

This was followed by the roaring of cannon, salutes from the Inflexible, Victory and Hero and from the batteries ashore

The Duke of Connaught on board the steamer Pinnace, accompanied the Polestar to the mouth of the harbor, and then returned to shore

The Polestar proceeded to Spitzer and was saluted by the British fleet commanded by Vice Admiral Lord Walter Talbert Kerr, which formed in two lines and with the Polestar in the center proceeded seaward to meet the French fleet from Chenbourg, which was to escort the imperial party to that port.

A STORM RACING.

The Furies Seem to Always Attend the Russian Monarch.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHERBOURG, Oct. 5.—The bad luck which seems to cling to the Czar showed itself again today.

Most elaborate preparations had been made to receive the Russian travelers.

The way from the landing stage to the hall of the Arsenal had been covered with silk hangings, shields, bannerettes and flowers.

The landing stage was beautifully draped, Venetian masts were erected at many points and floral bunting and other decorations displayed everywhere.

A terrific squall swept over the city, felling the Venetian masts to the ground, scattering the decorations in all directions and inflicting great damage generally

This morning hundreds of men were set to work repairing the damage.

The French Northern squadron consisting of twenty-one vessels, and including the Charles Martelell, a first class battle ship, the Hoena, the battle ship with Vice Admiral Regnauet de Prencsuil, on board, the Jean Bark Desclartes, Jemmopes and fifteen cruisers and torpedo boats, left the harbor at 8 o'clock in single file with a gale blowing.

Before the warships were outside the harbor they were almost completely hidden from view by a heavy rain storm which did further damage to the decorations ashore.

The gale also increased in force and a heavy sea began to thunder on the coast.

There seems little doubt that the imperial yacht Polestar will receive a severe shaking up and if the storm lasts, may have a difficulty in making port.

A BRILLIANT PROGRAMME.

Arrangements for a Royal Reception to the Rulers.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHERBOURG, Oct. 5.—According to the programme, which may be upset by the storm, the French fleet will meet the Polestar at the three mile limit.

The battleship Dupuy de Lome, with President Faure on board, will, however, push forward to meet the Czar's yacht, salute her, and then return to Cherbourg to await the arrival of the Russian travelers.

At noon the news was signalled that the Russian Imperial yacht Polestar had joined the French squadron and was proceeding to this port with French warships each side of her.

The imperial guests will, after being formally welcomed by President Faure, proceed along a covered way to the hall of the Arsenal.

The interior of the Arsenal Building has been exquisitely decorated, and divided into a reception hall, diplomatic hall and banqueting room.

In the banqueting room, where the Czar and Czarina will partake of bread and salt, in Russian fashion, are three tables, one raised higher than the other two.

At the highest table, the Czar and Czarina, President Faure and the most distinguished guests will be seated.

Rails have been laid in the Arsenal grounds from the railroad proper to the door of the Diplomatic Hall

It is proposed that the Czar and Czarina embark on board the imperial train this evening at 9 and proceed to Paris, where they are booked to arrive at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning, at La Muette station

Then their Majesties are to make their state entry into Paris

They will go to the Russian Embassy, where they will be housed during their stay.

The Czar and Czarina have planned to remain five days in France, and will visit Versailles and Camp de Chalons, where there will be an imposing review of troops numbering about 70,000.

COMING IN.

The Imperial Yacht Enters the Port in Safety.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHERBOURG, Oct. 5.—At 1 45 P. M. the imperial yacht and the French fleet escorting it were entering the roads here.

The wind was against the escorting squadron and as the ships appeared it was seen the Polestar was rolling heavily.

The French ships in the roads formed two lines.

The bands on the French ships played the Russian anthem.

The sailors dressed the sides and cheered heartily.

The Czar stood upon the bridge of the Polestar and responded to the cheers with a military salute.

The Polestar followed by the Standard, then led the way into the harbor, upon which the land batteries poured forth an imperial salute

President Faure in evening dress and wearing the order of St. Andrew, surrounded by the President of the Senate, M Loubert, M. Brisson, President of the Chamber of Deputies, M. Melink, President of the Council of Ministers, M Holota, Minister of Foreign Affairs, Admiral Besnard, Minister of Marine, Baron Von Mohrenheim, Russian Ambassador to France, and the members of the Russian Embassies and staff appointed to wait on the Czar and Czarina during their stay in France, awaited their majesties' arrival at the landing stage, where a company of marines with flags flying and a band playing was drawn up

The officers to attend upon the Czar are General Moulten De Doisdonfre, Rear Admiral Roustan, Colonel De Lestapis, Colonel Oudard, Lieutenant Colonel Menetrez, Commandant Paulfin, De Saint Moreland, Commandant

are Vice Admiral Garvais, Lieutenant Colonel Menchier and Lieutenant Colonel De Lastours.

In additions to the officers mentioned eight captains have been placed at the disposal of General De Bisdonfre to act as a body guard.

Conservative estimates place the number of people within our gates at not less than 15,000 to 20,000

At precisely 12 o'clock the procession which was a long and showy one, divided into several divisions and each division with its band started on its march.

The parade was both military and civic and was reviewed by Governor Budd and his staff at the celebration grounds around the spot where the new Valley Railway depot will be erected.

As the procession passed the reviewing stand the special train bearing the Directors of the road and a large number of invited guests from San Francisco, Stockton and points along the road, arrived, and the guests and railroad officials witnessed the parade from the cars.

A. R. Briggs of Fresno delivered the welcoming address, followed by Captain Payson on behalf of the Valley Road Directors

People throughout the valley are much enthused over the progress thus far made.

Those to the south who today for the first time looked upon the sight of a train coming in over the Valley Road got the impression that a competing line was fast assuming the shape of reality.

The barbecue, which was one of the principal features of the day's festivities was attended by the road Directors. Governor Budd and staff and thousands of people from abroad.

GRAHAM SHOWED FIGHT.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 5.—The Bulletin today says there was an exhibition of military unpleasantness at the fashionable wedding of Miss Catherwood to Dr. Grinnell at the Presidio Reservation today

The Graham family, alone of all the officers of the families at the post, was not invited to the wedding.

The Presidio Band had been engaged to play at the ceremony, but when the wedding commenced General Graham ordered the band men back to their quarters, so they did not play at the wedding.

Graham also ordered the back of Inspector Martin and a hundred carriages off the reservation, so the guests had to walk from the hall of the post, where the wedding took place out to the gates of the Presidio to get into their carriages

The incident caused much feeling.

SCOTT'S SUCCESS.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—Secretary Herbert has awarded the contract for building one of the thirty knot torpedo boats (the largest of 250 tons) to the Union Iron Works of San Francisco, and the contract for two smaller 30-knot boats, upon plans projected by the French builder, Normand, to the Bath Iron Works of Maine, as recommended originally by the heads of the Bureau of Construction and Steam engineering.

PRIZES ARE IN DISPUTE.

A Lively Scene When the Package Was Thrown From the Balloon.

There is a deal of squabbling over the prize which is to be given to the person who returns the Bryan purse dropped by the aeronaut who yesterday made the ascension at Blair Park. As yet no one has returned the purse for it has been stolen, but two persons have entered a protest and claim that the chain to be given as the prize should be awarded to them.

Claimant number one is the proprietor of a Seventh street restaurant. According to his statement he got the purse and kept it over night. This morning he showed it to some customers he said, and later it was stolen. He offers to prove his claim by creditable witnesses.

"Jimmy" McNally is claimant number two. He is a newsboy and had a score of other boys of his calling when he dropped into Moran's this morning to state his case. According to his tale as the stocking dropped, a tall colored "gent," whose height overtopped all others reached for it and warned others to keep off. He missed it however, and McNally states that it then fell into his hands. He accidentally dropped it but quickly fell on it This did not work. Several men pushed him away from his prize and the restaurant keeper secured it.

Mr. Moran has decided not to make the award. He has turned the whole matter over to Superintendent of the Road Tiffany who will turn himself into an equity court of appeal and hear the claimants this afternoon.

Charles Jones, a youngster, secured the baby eagle which was also dropped. In so doing he was severely bitten on the finger.

COMING TO AMERICA.

Haines and Kearney Are Shipped by the Dutch Officials.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

ROTTERDAM, Oct. 5.—Ten minutes before the Netherlands line steamship Werkendam sailed for New York Saturday a carriage containing Kearney and Haines, the Irish-American suspects and two police officers in plain clothes drove up to the dock and the party boarded the steamer.

They were shipped under aliases.

Strict orders were given the police to keep the affair from reporters.

To this purpose an official statement that the suspects had been conducted to the fontier was given out.

LUTY'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Frederick E Luty, the San Francisco stock broker who shot himself Saturday, was held today. Owing to Mrs Luty's illness it took place from the undertaker's parlors instead of the family residence.

Only a few of the intimate friends were in attendance, as it was intended to be as private as possible. Several stock exchange members were there, but the exchange did not attend in a body.

Rev. Father Akerly officiated and T. E. Jewell, Martin Jones, Wm Murdock and Chauncey St John acted as pall bearers.

Detective Shorey is today taking an invoice of the various pawnbrokers' stocks looking for articles which Proprietor Ross of the Wilson Hotel reported this morning as missing from the rooms of the boarders.

Whether or not the articles were stolen he does not know, and the police are as mysterious over the affairs as though they were on the trail of Jack the Ripper.

Two other hotels have been burglarized of late and from the secrecy it is supposed that the officers have located the criminal and are only waiting to trap him at his work.

The Requa Wedding.

Another of the details for Miss Requa's coming marriage was arranged today when I. L. Requa, father of the bride, called upon Chief Lloyd to ask for police service at the church. The chief agreed to detail three men on the occasion and the father volunteered the information that he had employed a corps of private detectives to be present at the mansion during the reception.

Police Changes.

BETTING IN THE EAST.

CALIFORNIA IS EVEN MONEY.

EVEN MONEY ON KENTUCKY.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

When a man is willing to bet his money on his opinions, it is generally the best test in the world of his convictions. The following list will therefor give the best criterion yet published on the election prospects. It contains the quotations sent out by one of the largest pool rooms in New York, and was received today by the Tribune with a letter stating that all money will be received at the odds quoted.

As the pool-makers have undoubtedly had the situation thoroughly sifted by competent experts before putting their money up, the quotations may be regarded as thoroughly sizing up the situation. In fact, the sensible figures given regarding the Western States, the conditions of which are known here better than in the East, show it is evident that the figures have been prepared by those who know what they are about.

The odds opposite each State are on the candidate carrying such State, and are not against him. Here they are.

FIRST BLOOD.

The Reliance Club Wins the Initial Game of the Season.

The Reliance football team covered itself all over with glory Saturday by defeating the University of California club in a spirited game. The score was 12 to 0 and at the end of the second half the ball was in Reliance territory.

How Labor Day Is Passing in and Around Oakland,

Although today is set apart by the State for the workingman and by proclamation declared a legal holiday, there are few outside the city and county officials who are not plying their vocations as usual. Most of the merchants kept their stores open this forenoon, although in the afternoon some joined the minority and closed shop to celebrate.

At the City Hall the Mayor came and went early. The front entrance was closed, but he climbed the dizzy stairway leading up from the jail and spent an hour or so in his office. The schools were closed, and the only one in the department who is guilty of working is Assistant Superintendent York, who had his minutes to prepare for the Board of Education meeting tomorrow night.

Chief Lloyd's office is the only other one open. He is at his desk attending to business as usual. Bailiff Mitchell came around for a short time in the morning to wind the eight day clock and be present in case the hall burned down.

In the prison below the hospitable doors stood open to all, drunks and "crimes" preferred. Of those who were arrested Saturday and Sunday, the jetsam remained comfortably or uncomfortably in their cells, while the flotsam put up bail and continued on their way, for the Police Court was not open.

At the Health Office Secretary Shafer kept open house until noon. He made a note of the arrival of a pair of new native daughters, but as no one seemed anxious to be buried he barred the portals in the afternoon and went to San Francisco to see the seals. Health Officer Bradley dropped in long enough to look over his mail. He then took a trip over to the City Prison, where he treated a woman with the shingles and a man with the shakes and called it a holiday's work.

The Court House and Hall of Records were locked up, the Jail and the Receiving Hospital being the only county buildings open.

The Council and the Boards of Education and Supervisors will hold meetings tomorrow.

Tonight the National Republican League will hold one of the largest meetings of the campaign in its headquarters, on Broadway, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets.

The League headquarters have been attractively fitted up, and a large number of extra seats put in for tonight's meeting.

PLEASANTON'S PLUMPER.

PLEASANTON, Oct. 5.—If ever the citizens of any place were fully aroused and enthused it was Saturday evening, when fully 1,000 people turned out to listen to the words spoken by Hon. J. C. Campbell of San Francisco and others. The town was brilliantly lighted with bonfires all over and the strains of music by the Livermore Cornet Band were heard to the joy of all.

The speakers were F. C. Jarvis of Newark, candidate for Supervisor, James W. Clark, candidate for Assembly, and Hon. J. C. Campbell of San Francisco, who made the most prominent speech of over two hours. There was singing by the Pleasanton Republican Glee Club, composed of ladies and gentlemen, during the evening.

The meeting was called to order by naming twenty honorary vice-presidents from Livermore, Sunol, Dougherty Station, Tassagara Valley and Newark.

Clubs of twenty and thirty from all the surrounding towns were present.

During the course of Mr. Campbell's remarks he said: "The Republican party presents for the chief executive of the nation a man tried and true—a man in the advance guard of the nation ever since he came from the cradle. When the sun goes down on the 3d of November the result will be the election of an American citizen who was always for America and against any infringement by any foreign nation.

"The so-called Democratic party presents Mr. Bryan, who with his party should be dressed with bloomers and taken over the country on a bicycle attached to which should be a free silver bell."

Mr. Campbell said ask Mr. Bryan if he was a Democrat, if he was a protectionist, or if he was a free trader and the only answer he would give would be that he was for free silver. Mr. McKinley on the contrary stands for honest money and a chance to earn it. Mr. McKinley's record is for the protection of every class of American industry, and if the American citizen wants to understand how to vote at the coming election let him look at the record of both parties.

Mr. Campbell said that Bryan's endeavor to array the poor against the rich is not good Americanism. The man who reads and investigates is the man who votes intelligently. Has four years of tariff reform done any good to the country? When President Harrison went out of the chair he left the country with a $160,000,000 tariff income in our favor. The Democratic party since that time has spent all this money and reformed the country to the tune of $155,000,000 in debt. Four years ago every mill in England was closed or running on short time, leaving 5,000,000 mechanics out of employment; now every mill there is running seven days in the week and twenty-four hours in the day. What has caused this, the Wilson-Gorman free trade tariff bill. Previous to four years ago England was troubled with labor riots, not that there are no labor riots there now, but we in this country witnessed the scene of 1,000,000 men marching to Washington demanding work.

"The Democratic party today says we cannot give you work but we will give you free silver. What in the name of Heaven is the laborer going to do to get it. Ask Mr. Bryan how he is going to start our factories and mills running and he will answer 'free silver.' In fact the Democratic party always is in favor of free everything or anything belonging to somebody else. Who are the people offering free silver through the county? Have they ever done anything for the benefit of the United States? Were they not the authors of the wild-cat banks? Have not they run the ship of state in distress upon the rocks, and has not their policy closed up the factories and put on the street more than five million people who don't know where they are going to sleep tonight or get a penny to buy bread tomorrow? On the contrary the St. Louis platform says that there shall be no more pauper labor imported into the United States.

"Mr. McKinley's letter of acceptance says that he is not only in favor of protection against foreign labor abroad, but he is also in favor of protection against the importation of this same pauper labor to compete with our American labor."

All through Mr. Campbell's speech the applause and enthusiasm was very strong. Many were unable to get inside the hall.

This is only the beginning of the campaign here and it is without doubt that the next rally will be much larger.

FOR SOUND MONEY.

The Business Men Have Organized to Fight Silver Follies.

The Business Men's Sound Money League met Saturday night at 1207 Broadway, and perfected its organization by the selection of the following officers: President, John A. Britton; Vice Presidents, H. C. Taft, E. J. Pringle, Warren Olney, Israel Lawton, J. J. Valentine, John A. Stanly, Sam Bell McKee, W. V. Witcher, W. T. Veitch, J. C. Martin; Secretary, Sam J. Taylor; Treasurer, Mark L. Requa.

The Executive Committee is composed of E. J. Pringle, Chairman; Warren Olney, Sam Bell McKee, R. S. Knight, Thomas Prather, Israel Lawton, H. O. Trowbridge, J. L. Barker, C. B. Morgan, Mark L. Requa, E. A. Heron.

The meeting was a very enthusiastic one and thoroughly representative of the business interests of Oakland.

The following preamble of the constitution which was adopted shows strongly the sentiments of the merchants and bankers on the important question: "We are in favor of sound money, the maintenance inviolate of the credit of the Government, and opposed to the free and unlimited coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1 of silver independently by the United States."

That the new organization is not founded distinctively on partisan lines is shown by the fact that its members are from the ranks of both the old parties. They realize the folly of a silver rule, with its threat to commerce, and are banded together to do their utmost to maintain a sound standard.

After the preliminaries of organization had been disposed of, Hugh Craig, John A. Britton, E. J. Pringle and J. J. Valentine each delivered a forcible appeal for prosperity based upon a sensible financial standard. They pointed conclusively to the follies of silver talk, and predicted a stagnation of trade if its advocates were successful in November.

The League will retain its present headquarters on Broadway, and will start in work in earnest by distributing a large quantity of literature.

BERKELEY IS ALIVE.

The Republicans Will All Turn Out There Tonight.

This evening the Berkeley Republican Club will meet in I. O. O. F. Hall, when a number of local politicians will speak on campaign subjects.

There are several measures of importance to be brought before the club, and a full attendance is desired.

SILVER'S CHAMPIONS.

A Good Rally Held in Hansen's Hall Last Saturday Night.

The silver forces held forth in all their glory Saturday night and packed Hansen's Hall on Eighth and Wood street, to the doors. Inside Bryan's likenesses were everywhere present, finding conspicuous places on the walls and in front of the stage. Flags and bunting made up the remainder of the embellishments.

Preliminary to the meeting there was a street parade, headed by a drum and fife corps. In this the Young Men's Democratic Club and the Populist Zouave League were the principal participants.

Outside of the hall huge bonfires blazed brightly, while some enthusiasts trespassed on the city ordinance by firing anvils.

The meeting was called to order by J. C. Bullock, who introduced Charles D. Lane, Chairman of the State Silver Committee, as the President of the evening.

Mr. Lane spoke briefly and concluded by denouncing the assertions that he had tried to coerce his miners into contributing toward the campaign funds.

G. W. Baker, Chairman of the State Bimetallic League, was next introduced and made one of the best speeches of the evening. His talk was principally on the financial question from a silver standpoint, though the tariff was also touched on. The National debt and the plank in the Democratic platform bearing on the Supreme Court were also considered.

Miss Mollie Conners, next spoke of Bryan's trip to the West and told of the needs of the Pacific Coast.

Judge E. M. Gibson paid his respects and Colonel Thomas F. Garrity followed with a short though pungent campaign talk.

Ed McGuine, Baron J. E. McElroy, W. F. Aram, each spoke briefly and then Henry McPike took exception to the recent speech of George A. Knight at the Tabernacle.

During the evening a quartette of mandolins and guitars played several selections.

The meeting was a big success from a silver standpoint and the three Populist cheers which ended it wound up with a Democratic "tiger."

THE GAUNTLET DOWN.

Silver Men at Pleasanton Are Looking for a Debate.

The silver advocates of Pleasanton may have bitten off more than they can chew when they issued the following challenge to the McKinley advocates for a debate on the financial question:

"Pleasanton, Cal., Sept. 30, '96.

"To the Chairman and Secretary Pleasanton McKinley and Hobart Club—Gentlemen: Inasmuch as the money question has been recognized by three great political parties of this country as the paramount issue in the campaign, the Pleasanton Bryan Free Silver Club has instructed us to issue to the Pleasanton McKinley and Hobart Club the following challenge to public debate:

"'Resolved, That the independent free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold, at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, would be a benefit to this country.'

"The debate to be restricted to members of either of the aforesaid clubs, from this immediate vicinity, and to be held at a time and place to be hereinafter agreed upon. Sincerely yours,

"W. H. DONOHUE, Chairman.

DEBATES ARRANGED.

A Series of Meetings Are to Be Held Shortly at Livermore.

The political clubs of Livermore have made arrangements for a series of political debates during the month.

The first will take place on October 17th in the Farmers' Union Hall and will be under the auspices of the Ladies' League of Progress.

Judge J. G. Swinnerton of Stockton and Judge E. M. Gibson of this city will argue both sides of the financial question.

Arrangements for a Meeting in Oakland Next Thursday.

Frank E. Couter, Chairman of the Prohibition State Central Committee, will speak in Oakland next Thursday evening.

Mr. Coulter was formerly organizer for the Good Templars. This will be his first address after the meeting of the Good Templars' Grand Lodge at Vallejo. Mr. Coulter is a very able speaker and will devote his Oakland address largely to the money question to which he has given much attention and handles in a particularly skillful manner.

Those who wish to hear an able presentation of this much discussed political question will be instructed by listening to what Mr. Coulter may have to say.

The County Committee.

The Republican County Central Committee will meet tonight to confer with candidates in the hopes of devising ways and means for procuring money to run the campaign on. Several other measures will be discussed, and a schedule of county meetings will be prepared.

Many Meetings Planned.

The joint meeting of the Alameda City Republican Clubs Saturday night, resulted in a schedule for the series of mass meetings to be held during the month.

The first will be on October 9th in Linderman Opera House. John Heyburn of Idaho will be the principal speaker. CROSSED IN A STORM.

without regard for intermediate burgs or villages. As the whole country is flat for thousands of miles there are no more steep gradients than abrupt bends.

A train, therefore, was arranged to replace that of the Emperor, which will afford accommodation and be only half the weight.

M. Faure will have the intense joy of acting as host to the imperial visitors all the way from Cherbourg to Paris, and of giving them more than the eight hours of his company and conversation than they had agreed to put up with at Cherbourg.

The original arrangement was that they should travel in their own train and he in his, a short distance before them. He is to meet them at Cherbourg without Madame Faure, and is also to meet them unaccompanied by the ladies of his family at the Palace of Versailles the day they go there.

Madame Faure has no national or international rank and the President's many journalistic enemies, whose envy he is constantly arousing, have made it impossible for the Empress to ignore a black page of the good lady's family history. This exposure was mean and spiteful, but the Court of Russia had to take it into account.

The Empress accordingly is not to associate with Madame Faure in public. She is only to see her when she calls at the Elysee and dines there.

Great efforts are being made to get this fiat altered and to bring out the Faure ladies at the Francais and the opera house when their imperial majesties go there.

M. Faure will await them at the Francais and Opera House. They have arranged to go by themselves to the former and to Versailles.

The road thither has a central pavement of cobblestones, thirteen miles long. It is to be thickly sanded the whole way to make it smooth for the imperial carriage.

PLENTY OF GUARDS.

The whole garrison of Paris are to be under arms and posted along the road.

An imperial levee will be held in the Gallery of Mirrors, which has been furnished as in the time of Louis XVI.

Original portraits and busts of Peter the Great, the Catherines and Paul and Alexander I. have been brought down from the attic gallery and placed on easels in the south wing, where their imperial majesties can see them without climbing lofty stairs. The different portraits of Marie Antoinette will be treated in the same way for their inspection, as will also the minature taken of Catherine the Great just before she became Empress.

A wonderful work of art it is. Scaffoldings have been removed at enormous cost from the terraces, fountains and basins repaired; a fleet of eighteenth century royal barges furnished up to take the imperial visitors by the canal in his gardens facing the west front of the palace to the Trianons.

This excursion is to follow a lunch in the gallery of Battles and a long rest of the imperial visitors in his suite of small rooms fitted up by Marie Antoinette as a private residence.

In the blue room, or salon, there is a sofa in sky blue with gilt frame in a dainty niche set round with mirrors. The lovely queen whose fate was so tragical, liked to see her beautiful head in front in profile and vanishing profile.

She ordered three mirrors to be set at right angles. But the first time she went to survey herself in them at one of the corners she beheld—what—a headless body and sank fainting on the sofa.

She was constantly meeting with incidents and facing catastrophes that seemed presages of coming woes.

A LIST OF FATALITIES.

The first year of their reign was blackened by the massacres, in which 100,000 people perished.

Their coronation was marked by the appalling catastrophe of Moscow and the day they reached Vienna the first news they received was that fresh massacres had taken place.

Then, on their return journey from Vienna, Prince Lobanoff, whom history must find guilty of complicity with the Sultan, died as they were stepping out of the train.

When they were enjoying rest at the Patriachial Court of Denmark the family circle then was appalled to learn of the dynamite conspiracy.

Providence seems to have warned them that long life, prosperity and universal love and esteem may be won by following the example of Queen Victoria; but that disaster must in the long run catch up with those monarchs whose grand political schemes are executed through iniquity.

Balmoral and Versailles, September 23d, and October 5th and 6th inculcate this warning.

PARKHURST'S DEATH.

The family of Webster H. Parkhurst, a former Berkeley student, who expired suddenly Saturday at Westport, Mendocino County, have dispatched a friend to the little town to bring back the remains. No cause of death has been ascertained as yet. Young Parkhurst was an athlete possessed of a fine physique and was apparently in the best of health. He was taken ill Friday and a physician, Dr. Sherwood, of Westport, was immediately summoned. Parkhurst appeared to be in a trance-like condition. The physician's efforts to preserve life were fruitless and Saturday morning the young man expired.

On account of the suddenness of his death, the attending physician believed that it would be wise to investigate the cause, and an inquest will be held before the body is sent to Berkeley. As the Coroner was absent at Ukiah, a delay was unavoidable and the remains could not be taken on board the steamer Noyo.

Young Parkhurst was well known as a sprinter in the Berkeley High School athletic team. He had a deeply religious nature and last June decided to start out as an evangelist in company with the Rev. Mr. Adams, who was with him at the time of his death.

The family are in complete ignorance of the cause of the boy's death, as he always enjoyed the best of health.

CUPID'S QUICK WORK.

A Young Englishman Who Won an Oakland Girl's Heart.

Miss Amelia Kletzker and Leigh Beauchamp were married Saturday at 2 P. M. in the Church of the Advent by its rector, Rev. V. Marshall Law. This is the latest chapter in a pretty little romance. The bride is the handsome daughter of Henry A. Kletzker, and the groom is a wealthy young Englishman of San Antonio, Texas. Beauchamp met the young woman, and fell in love with her at first sight. He gave her family indisputable proofs as to his family and character, and begged to be allowed to pay his addresses to the young lady. She quickly responded to his love, and after ten days' acquaintance the two were married, and immediately left for San Antonio, Texas.

NOT KEPT VERY WELL.

How Labor Day Is Passing in and Around Oakland.

Although today is set apart by the State for the workingman and by proclamation declared a legal holiday, there are few outside the city and county officials who are not paying their vocations as usual. Most of the merchants kept their stores open this forenoon, although in the afternoon some joined the minority and closed shop to celebrate.

At the City Hall the Mayor came and went early. The front entrance was closed, but he climbed the dizzy stairway leading up from the jail and spent an hour or so in his office. The schools were closed, and the only one in the department who is guilty of working is Assistant Superintendent York, who had his minutes to prepare for the Board of Education meeting tomorrow night.

Chief Hoyle's office is the only other one open. He is at his desk attending to business as usual. Bailiff Mitchell came around for a short time in the morning to wind the eight day clock and be present in case the jail burned down.

In the prison below the hospitable doors stood open to all drunks and "crimes" preferred. Of those who were arrested Saturday and Sunday, the jetsam remained comfortably or uncomfortably in their cells, while the flotsam put up bail and continued on their way, for the Police Court was not open.

At the Health Office Secretary Shafer kept open house until noon. He made a note of the arrival of a pair of new native daughters, but as no one seemed anxious to be buried he barred the portals in the afternoon and went to San Francisco to see the seals. Health Officer Bradley dropped in long enough to look over his mail. He then took a trip over to the City Prison, where he treated a woman with the shingles and a man with the shakes and called it a holiday's work.

The Court House and Hall of Records were locked up, the Jail and the Receiving Hospital being the only county buildings open.

The Council and the Boards of Education and Supervisors will hold meetings tomorrow.

TALENT TO TALK.

The National Republican League Will Meet Tonight.

REPUBLICANS ALL RALLYING.

Pleasanton Comes Out in Splendid Style for Protection.

SILVER SLOGANS SOUNDING.

The Prohibitionists Are About to Have a Big Gathering.

Tonight the National Republican League will hold one of the largest meetings of the campaign in its headquarters on Broadway, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets.

W. R. Davis will preside, and the principal speakers will be A. E. Bolton and Editor Pillsbury of the Tulare Register.

The League headquarters have been attractively fitted up, and a large number of extra seats put in for tonight's meeting.

PLEASANTON'S PLUMPER.

PLEASANTON, Oct. 5.—If ever the citizens of any place were fully aroused and enthused it was Saturday evening, when fully 1,000 people turned out to listen to the words spoken by Hon. J. C. Campbell of San Francisco and others. The town was brilliantly lighted with bonfires all over and the strains of music by the Livermore Cornet Band were heard to the joy of all.

The speakers were F. C. Jarvis of Newark, candidate for Supervisor, James W. Clark, candidate for Assembly, and Hon. J. C. Campbell of San Francisco, who made the most prominent speech of over two hours. There was singing by the Pleasanton Republican Glee Club, composed of ladies and gentlemen, during the evening.

The meeting was called to order by naming twenty honorary vice-presidents from Livermore, Sunol, Dougherty Station, Tassagara Valley and Newark.

Clubs of twenty and thirty from all the surrounding towns were present.

During the course of Mr. Campbell's remarks he said: "The Republican party presents for the chief executive of the nation a man tried and true—a man in the advance guard of the nation ever since he came from the cradle. When the sun goes down on the 3d of November the result will be the election of an American citizen who was always for America and against any infringement by any foreign nation.

"The so-called Democratic party presents Mr. Bryan, who with his party should be dressed with bloomers and taken over the country on a bicycle attached to which should be a free silver bell."

Mr. Campbell said ask Mr. Bryan if he was a Democrat, if he was a protectionist, or if he was a free trader and the only answer he would give would be that he was for free silver. Mr. McKinley on the contrary stands for honest money and a chance to earn it. Mr. McKinley's record is for the protection of every class of American industry, and if the American citizen wants to understand how to vote at the coming election let him look at the record of both parties.

Mr. Campbell said that Bryan's endeavor to array the poor against the rich is not good Americanism. The man who reads and investigates is the man who votes intelligently. Has four years of tariff reform done any good to the country? When President Harrison went out of the White he left the country with a $160,000,000 tariff income in our favor. The Democratic party since that time has spent all this money and reformed the country to the tune of $195,000,000 in debt. Four years ago every mill in England was closed or running on short time, leaving 5,000,000 mechanics out of employment, now every mill there is running seven days in the week and twenty-four hours in the day. What has caused this, the Wilson-Gorman free trade tariff bill. Previous to four years ago England was troubled with labor riots, not that there are no labor riots there now, but we in this country witnessed the scene of 1,000,000 men marching to Washington demanding work.

"The Democratic party today says we cannot give you work but we will give you free silver. What in the name of Heaven is the laborer going to do to get it. Ask Mr. Bryan how he is going to start our factories and mills running and he will answer 'free silver.' In fact the Democratic party always is in favor of free everything or anything belonging to somebody else. Who are the people offering free silver through the county? Have they ever done anything for the benefit of the United States? Were they not the authors of the wild-cat banks? Have not they run the ship of state in distress upon the rocks, and has not their policy closed up the factories and put on the street more than five million people who don't know where they are going to sleep tonight or get a penny to buy bread tomorrow? On the contrary the St. Louis platform says that there shall be no more pauper labor imported into the United States.

"Mr. McKinley's letter of acceptance says that he is not only in favor of protection against foreign labor abroad, but he is also in favor of protection against the importation of this same pauper labor to compete with our American labor."

All through Mr. Campbell's speech the applause and enthusiasm was very strong. Many were unable to get inside the hall.

This is only the beginning of the campaign here and it is without doubt that the next rally will be much larger.

FOR SOUND MONEY.

The Business Men Have Organized to Fight Silver Follies.

The Business Men's Sound Money League met Saturday night at 1207 Broadway, and perfected its organization by the selection of the following officers: President, John A. Britton; Vice Presidents, H. C. Taft, E. J. Pringle, Warren Olney, Israel Lawton, J. J. Valentine, John A. Stanly, Sam Bell McKee, W. V. Witcher, W. T. Veitch, J. C. Martin; Secretary, Sam J. Taylor; Treasurer, Mark L. Requa.

The meeting was a very enthusiastic one and thoroughly representative of the business interests of Oakland.

The following preamble of the constitution which was adopted shows strongly the sentiments of the merchants and bankers on the important question. "We are in favor of sound money, the maintenance inviolate of the credit of the Government, and opposed to the free and unlimited coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1 of silver independently by the United States."

That the new organization is not founded distinctively on partisan lines is shown by the fact that its members are from the ranks of both the old parties. They realize the folly of a silver rule, with its threat to commerce, and are banded together to do their utmost to maintain a sound standard.

After the preliminaries of organization had been disposed of, Hugh Craig, John A. Britton, E. J. Pringle and J. J. Valentine each delivered a forcible appeal for prosperity based upon a sensible financial standard. They pointed conclusively to the follies of silver talk, and predicted a stagnation of trade if its advocates were successful in November.

The League will retain its present headquarters on Broadway, and will start in work in earnest by distributing a large quantity of literature.

BERKELEY IS ALIVE.

The Republicans Will All Turn Out There Tonight.

This evening the Berkeley Republican Club will meet in I. O. O. F. Hall, when a number of local politicians will speak on campaign subjects.

There are several measures of importance to be brought before the club, and a full attendance is desired.

SILVER'S CHAMPIONS.

A Good Rally Held in Hansen's Hall Last Saturday Night.

The silver forces held forth in all their glory Saturday night and packed Hansen's Hall on Eighth and Wood street, to the doors. Inside Bryan's likenesses were everywhere present, finding conspicuous places on the walls and in front of the stage. Flags and bunting made up the remainder of the embellishments.

Preliminary to the meeting there was a street parade, headed by a drum and fife corps. In this the Young Men's Democratic Club and the Populist Zouave League were the principal participants.

Outside of the hall huge bonfires blazed brightly, while some enthusiasts trespassed on the city ordinance by firing anvils.

The meeting was called to order by J. C. Bullock, who introduced Charles D. Lane, Chairman of the State Silver Committee, as the President of the evening.

Mr. Lane spoke briefly and concluded by denouncing the assertions that he had tried to coerce his miners into contributing toward the campaign funds.

G. W. Baker, Chairman of the State Bimetallic League, was next introduced and made one of the best speeches of the evening. His talk was principally on the financial question from a silver standpoint, though the tariff was also touched on. The National debt and the plank in the Democratic platform bearing on the Supreme Court were also considered.

Miss Mollie Connell next spoke of Bryan's trip to the West and told of the needs of the Pacific Coast.

Judge E. M. Gibson paid his respects and Colonel Thomas F. Garrity followed with a short though pungent campaign talk.

Ed McGuire, Baron J. E. McElroy, W. F. Aram, each spoke briefly and then Henry McPike took exception to the recent speech of George A. Knight at the Tabernacle.

During the evening a quartette of mandolins and guitars played several selections.

The meeting was a big success from a silver standpoint and the three Populist cheers which ended it wound up with a Democratic "tiger."

THE GAUNTLET DOWN.

Silver Men at Pleasanton Are Looking for a Debate.

The silver advocates of Pleasanton may have bitten off more than they can chew when they issued the following challenge to the McKinley advocates for a debate on the financial question:

"Pleasanton, Cal., Sept. 30, '96.

"To the Chairman and Secretary Pleasanton McKinley and Hobart Club—Gentlemen: Inasmuch as the money question has been recognized by three great political parties of this country as the paramount issue in the campaign, the Pleasanton Bryan Free Silver Club has instructed us to issue to the Pleasanton McKinley and Hobart Club the following challenge to public debate:

"'Resolved, That the independent free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold, at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, would be a benefit to this country.'

"The debate to be restricted to members of either of the aforesaid clubs, from the immediate vicinity, and to be held at a time and place to be hereinafter agreed upon. Sincerely yours,

"W. H. DONOHUE, Chairman.
"A. R. DOWNING, First Vice President.

CROSSED IN A STORM.

without regard for intermediate burgs or villages. As the whole country is flat for thousands of miles there are no more steep gradients than abrupt bends.

A train, therefore, was arranged to replace that of the Emperor, which will afford accommodation and be only half the weight.

M. Faure will have the intense joy of acting as host to the imperial visitors all the way from Cherbourg to Paris, and of giving them more than the eight hours of his company and conversation than they had agreed to put up with at Cherbourg.

The original arrangement was that they should travel in their own train and he in his, a short distance before them. He is to meet them at Cherbourg without Madame Faure, and is also to meet them unaccompanied by the ladies of his family at the Palace of Versailles the day they go there.

Madame Faure has no national or international rank and the President's many journalistic enemies, whose envy he is constantly arousing, have made it impossible for the Empress to ignore a black page of the good lady's family history. This exposure was mean and spiteful, but the Court of Russia had to take it into account.

The Empress accordingly is not to associate with Madame Faure in public. She is only to see her when she calls at the Elysee and dines there.

Great efforts are being made to get this fiat altered and to bring out the Faure ladies at the Francais and the opera house when their imperial majesties go there.

M. Faure will await them at the Francais and Opera House. They have arranged to go by themselves to the former and to Versailles.

The road thither has a central pavement of cobblestones, thirteen miles long. It is to be thickly sanded the whole way to make it smooth for the imperial carriage.

PLENTY OF GUARDS.

The whole garrison of Paris are to be under arms and posted along the road.

An imperial levee will be held in the Gallery of Mirrors, which has been furnished as in the time of Louis XVI.

Original portraits and busts of Peter the Great, the Catherines and Paul and Alexander I. have been brought down from the attic gallery and placed on easels in the south wing, where their imperial majesties can see them without climbing lofty stairs. The different portraits of Marie Antoinette will be treated in the same way for their inspection, as will also the minature taken of Catherine the Great just before she became Empress.

A wonderful work of art it is. Scaffoldings have been removed at enormous cost from the terraces, fountains and basins repaired; a fleet of eighteenth century royal barges furnished up to take the imperial visitors by the canal in his gardens facing the west front of the palace to the Trianons.

This excursion is to follow a lunch in the gallery of Battles and a long rest of the imperial visitors in his suite of small rooms fitted up by Marie Antoinette as a private residence.

In the blue room, or salon, there is a sofa in sky blue with gilt frame in a dainty niche set round with mirrors. The lovely queen whose fate was so tragical, liked to see her beautiful head in front in profile and vanishing profile.

She ordered three mirrors to be set at right angles. But, the first time she went to survey herself in them at one of the corners she beheld—what—a headless body and sank fainting on the sofa.

She was constantly meeting with incidents and facing catastrophes that seemed presages of coming woes.

A LIST OF FATALITIES.

The first year of their reign was blackened by the massacres, in which 100,000 people perished.

Their coronation was marked by the appalling catastrophe of Moscow and the day they reached Vienna the first news they received was that fresh massacres had taken place.

Then, on their return journey from Vienna, Prince Lobanoff, whom history must find guilty of complicity with the Sultan, died as they were stepping out of the train.

When they were enjoying rest at the Patriachial Court of Denmark the family circle then was appalled to learn of the dynamite conspiracy.

Providence seems to have warned them that long life, prosperity and universal love and esteem may be won by following the example of Queen Victoria; but that disaster must in the long run catch up with those monarchs whose grand political schemes are executed through iniquity.

Balmoral and Versailles, September 23d, and October 5th and 6th inculcate this warning.

(Signed) EMILY CRAWFORD.

A Friend Starts for Mendocino to Bring the Remains Back Here.

The family of Webster H. Parkhurst, a former Berkeley student, who expired suddenly Saturday at Westport, Mendocino County, have dispatched a friend to the little town to bring back the remains. No cause of death has been ascertained as yet. Young Parkhurst was an athlete possessed of a fine physique and was apparently in the best of health. He was taken ill Friday and a physician, Dr. Sherwood, of Westport, was immediately summoned. Parkhurst appeared to be in a trance-like condition. The physician's efforts to preserve life were fruitless and Saturday morning the young man expired.

On account of the suddenness of his death, the attending physician believed that it would be wise to investigate the cause, and an inquest will be held before the body is sent to Berkeley. As the Coroner was absent at Ukiah, a delay was unavoidable and the remains could not be taken on board the steamer Noyo.

Young Parkhurst was well known as a sprinter in the Berkeley High School athletic team. He had a deeply religious nature and last June decided to start out as an evangelist in company with the Rev. Mr. Adams, who was with him at the time of his death.

The family are in complete ignorance of the cause of the boy's death, as he always enjoyed the best of health.

CUPID'S QUICK WORK.

A Young Englishman Who Won an Oakland Girl's Heart.

Miss Amelia Kletzker and Leigh Beauchamp were married Saturday at 2 P. M. in the Church of the Advent by its rector, Rev. V. Marshall Law. This is the latest chapter in a pretty little romance. The bride is the handsome daughter of Henry A. Kletzker, and the groom is a wealthy young Englishman of San Antonio, Texas. Beauchamp met the young woman, and fell in love with her at first sight. He gave her family indisputable proofs as to his family and character, and begged to be allowed to pay his addresses to the young lady. She quickly responded to his love, and after ten days' acquaintance the two were married, and immediately left for San Antonio, Texas.

Broke His Leg.

James Madden, a 13-year-old boy who lives with his parents at 484 Twenty-fifty street, was sitting on a trap door in front of the Central Bank Building yesterday morning when the door gave way and he fell into the cellar, a distance of twelve feet. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital where it was found that he had broken his leg. He remained at the hospital last night, but will be taken to his home today.

BUILT WITHIN CORNERS.

A Notable Structure to Soon Rise In Chicago.

It Will Be Devoted to Christian Work by the Alexian Brothers.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—The corner stone of the Alexian Brothers' Hospital was laid Sunday afternoon, and the solemn ceremonies were witnessed by 25,000 people.

The Rev George D Heldmand, pastor of St. Paul's Parish, officiated as master of ceremonies, and was assisted by a large number of priests and brothers of various hospitals and parishes

The corner stone was blessed by Archbishop Feehan, after which addresses, historical of the institution and conditions incidental to it, were made in five languages.

The structure, when completed, will cost $250,000. The hospital will be modern in every respect. Nothing that has been devised with the aid of science to provide sanitary surroundings has been overlooked.

The building will not have a corner within it. Where corners usually are, the surface of the walls, floor and ceilings will be rounded.

No crevice will be left for dust to collect where it cannot be seen and removed. In all respects it will be a model institution for the care of patients.

In addition to serving the purpose of a hospital, it will also serve as a novitiate for the training of young men for admission to the order.

It is also the headquarters of the Brothers Aloysius Shims, the head of the order in this country, an order that has been ministering to the sick since it was found in Malines nearly seven hundred years ago. Four hospitals are maintained in the United States by the Alexian Brothers. One is at St. Louis, Mo., another at Oshkosh, Wis., and the fourth at Elizabeth, N. J.

TEMESCAL'S CHANCE.

The boundary lines of the proposed new municipality of Temescal, as set forth in the petition now in circulation in that section, are as follows: Beginning at the northern limits of the City of Oakland at a point 150 feet east of the easterly line of Broadway and running thence northerly to the southerly line of the property of Mrs. E. B. Crocker, thence northwesterly along that line dividing a parcel of the property of Edson Adams almost in two equal parts and continuing to the south easterly corner of Berkeley, and thence following the southerly line of Berkeley out into the waters of the bay.

Kneipp Cure for Horses.

The Kneipp cure, or that part of it which consists in walking through the dewy grass in the early morning, has long been known to horsemen. A horse trainer and tamer commends the treatment for horses, to keep the hoofs in good condition "I do not believe in packing and soaking horses' feet, as many horse-owners do," he says. In the summer time I would have the horse to be treated led early in the morning through the dew. Think of it yourself. If you are out walking in the early morning, even wearing thick boots, you will remember that in a few moments the dew penetrated through to your feet. Dew passes through the boot when ordinary water would not. This works the same with horses, nature having provided this simple preventive and cure for diseases of the hoof."—New York Times.

In Florida, where the heat at night is almost unbearable as in the day, it is not unusual to ice the bed before retiring to rest. This is done in a very simple way. A metal vessel or pot, much in the form of the ancient warming pan used by our grandfathers, is filled with broken ice and, after standing until the ice has completely cooled the vessel, it is placed between the sheets and moved to and fro over the surface of the sheets and pillows until they are quite cold. This coldness of the bedclothes is very soothing to the heated and wearied body, and invariably induces immediate sleep.

Silver and Gold.

"What was the "Crime of 1873?"
Was it really a crime?
Was it committed secretly?
Why was it enacted?

These are questions which every voter ought to understand before he accepts the charge that silver was secretly demonetized or the coinage of the silver dollar stopped by stealth.

From the passage of our first mintage act, in 1792, down to 1870, there had been dozens of changes in our coinage laws, until the statutes governing the production of the coins of the United States looked like a crazy quilt. In 1870, with a prospect that the nation would soon return to the use of metallic money, which had been suspended during the war, the Treasury Department recommended to Congress that it pass a general act governing the production of the coins of the United States, and a bill was sent to Congress for that purpose.

This bill omitted the standard silver dollar, of which scarcely any had been coined for many years, and none had remained in circulation. The report which accompanied the bill when sent to Congress specifically called attention to the fact that the silver dollar was omitted. The bill was submitted to the leading officials and ex-officials of the mint, and they discussed the omission of the dollar in written communications to the committee of the Senate, after which the committee reported the bill to the Senate, saying in its report: "The coinage of the silver dollar piece is discontinued in the proposed bill. * * * The present gold dollar piece is made the dollar unit in the proposed bill and the silver dollar piece is discontinued."

The bill was discussed over and over again in the Senate and House, was printed no less than thirteen times by the Treasury Department and Congress, the debates in House and Senate filled 144 columns of the Congressional Globe, and the final action on it was not had until two years and ten months after its presentation to Congress.

The following table shows the number of times the bill was officially before Congress during its consideration. Read it and see if you can believe that there was anything "secret" in its passage:

The Cow Ate the Ring.

A gold ring that is supposed to have spent nearly two years in a cow's stomach was sent the other day to its owner, a young lady of Homestead. Two years ago the young lady was visiting on a dairy farm near here, and while in the barn, picked up a kitten and tossed it in a pile of chop bran. With the kitten went a gold ring from her finger, which could not be found, and was given up and finally forgotten. Several days ago Edward Jones, a Sutterville butcher bought a cow from Frank Hough, the dairyman, and when the cow was killed the ring, with the young lady's name engraved on it, was found in the stomach.—Pittsburg Commercial-Gazette.

Mrs. Pickett, the widow of Gen. George E Pickett, who commanded the Confederate division at Gettysburg, and made the ever memorable charge, is now a departmental employe at Washington, and has made arrangements to bring out a memoir of her gallant husband's campaigns and military career. When in the old United States army, before the war, General, then Captain, Pickett, made a fine record as an officer. He it was who resolutely took possession of San Juan island, off the coast of Washington, in 1859, to prevent its occupancy by British troops.—Washington Star.

PROCLAMATION.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
SACRAMENTO, July 30, 1896.

WHEREAS, The Legislature of the State of California, at its thirty-first session, beginning on the seventh day of January, A. D. 1896, two-thirds of all the members elected to each of the two houses of said Legislature voting in favor thereof, proposed the following prescribed amendments to the Constitution of the State of California, to-wit:

Amendment Number One.

ARTICLE XIII.

Section 1. All property in the State not exempt under the laws of the United States, or this Constitution, shall be taxed in proportion to its value, to be ascertained as provided by law. The word "property" as used in this article and section is hereby declared to include moneys, credits, bonds, stocks, dues, franchises and all other matters and things, real, personal and mixed, capable of private ownership; provided, that property used for free public libraries and free public museums, growing crops, mortgages, trust deeds, property used exclusively for public schools, and such as may belong to the United States, this State, or to any county or municipal corporation within this State, shall be exempt from taxation. The Legislature may provide for a reduction from credits of debts due bona fide residents of this State.

Section 2. Section four of article thirteen of this Constitution is hereby repealed.

Section 3. Section five of article thirteen of this Constitution is hereby repealed.

Amendment Number Two

(Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 4.)

ARTICLE II.

Section 5. All elections by the people shall be by ballot or by such other method as may be prescribed by law; provided, that secrecy in voting be observed.

Amendment Number Three.

(Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 19.)

ARTICLE XII.

Section 3. The liability of stockholders of corporations or joint stock associations shall be limited by the face value of the shares of the subscribed capital stock or shares of such corporation or association, and whenever any shares have been fully paid up, the holder of such shares shall not be further liable to such corporation or association, or the creditors thereof, on that account. Each stockholder of a corporation or joint stock association, whose capital stock is not fully paid up, shall be individually and personally liable for such proportion of all its debts and liabilities contracted or incurred during the time he was a stockholder or shareholder, as the amount unpaid upon the stock or shares owned by him bears to the whole amount unpaid upon the subscribed capital stock or shares of the corporation or association. The Directors or Trustees of corporations and joint stock associations shall be jointly and severally liable to the creditors and stockholders for all moneys embezzled or misappropriated by the officers of such corporation or joint stock association during the term of office of such Director or Trustee.

Amendment Number Four.

(Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 35.)

ARTICLE XI.

Section 6. Corporations for municipal purposes shall not be created by special laws; but the Legislature, by general laws, shall provide for the incorporation, organization and classification, in proportion to population, of cities and towns, which laws may be altered, amended or repealed. Cities and towns heretofore organized or incorporated may become organized under such general laws whenever a majority of the electors voting at a general election shall so determine, and shall organize in conformity therewith; and cities and towns heretofore or hereafter organized, and all charters thereof framed or adopted by authority of this Constitution, except in municipal affairs, shall be subject to and controlled by general laws.

Amendment Number Five.

(Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 18.)

ARTICLE XI.

Section 8½. It shall be competent, in all charters framed under the authority given by section eight of article eleven of this Constitution, to provide, in addition to those provisions allowable by this Constitution and by the laws of the State, as follows:

1. For the constitution, regulation, government and jurisdiction of Police Courts, and for the manner in which, the times at which and the terms for which the Judges of such courts shall be elected or appointed, and for the compensation of said Judges and of their clerks and attaches.

2. For the manner in which, the times at which and the terms for which the members of Boards of Education shall be elected or appointed, and the number which shall constitute any one of such Boards.

3. For the manner in which, the times at which, and the terms for which the members of the Boards of Police Commissioners shall be elected or appointed, and for the constitution, regulation, compensation and government of such Boards and of the municipal police force.

4. For the manner in which, the times at which, and the terms for which the members of all Boards of Election shall be elected or appointed, and for the constitution, regulation, compensation, and government of such Boards, and of their clerks and attaches; and for all expenses incident to the holding of any election.

Where a city and county government has been merged and consolidated into one municipal government, it shall also be competent in any charter framed under said section eight of said article eleven, to provide for the manner in which, the times at which, and the terms for which the several county officers shall be elected or appointed, for their compensation, and for the number of deputies that each shall have, and for the compensation payable to each of such deputies.

Amendment Number Six.

ARTICLE II.

Section 1. Every native citizen of the United States, every person who shall have acquired the rights of citizenship under or by virtue of the treaty of Queretaro, and every naturalized citizen thereof, who shall have become such ninety days prior to any election, of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a resident of the State one year next preceding the election, and of the county in which he or she claims to vote ninety days, and in the election precinct thirty days, shall be entitled to vote at all elections which are now or may hereafter be authorized by law, provided, no native of China, no idiot, insane person, or person convicted of any infamous crime, and no person hereafter convicted of the embezzlement or misappropriation of public money, and no person who shall not be able to read the Constitution in the English language, and write his or her name, shall ever exercise the privilege of an elector in this State: provided, that the provisions of this amendment relative to an educational qualification shall not apply to any person prevented by a physical disability from complying with its requisitions, nor to any person who now has the right to vote, nor to any person who shall be sixty years of age and upward at the time this amendment shall take effect.

NOW, THEREFORE, Pursuant to the provisions of the Constitution, and an Act of the Legislature entitled "An Act to provide for the submission of certain proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of California to the qualified electors for their approval," approved March 7, A. BUILT WITHIN CORNERS.

A Notable Structure to Soon Rise in Chicago.

It Will Be Devoted to Christian Work by the Alexian Brothers.

By Associated Press to The Tribune

CHICAGO, Oct. 5—The corner stone of the Alexian Brothers' Hospital was laid Sunday afternoon, and the solemn ceremonies were witnessed by 25 000 people

The Rev George D Heldmand, pastor of St Paul's Parish, officiated as master of ceremonies, and was assisted by a large number of priests and brothers of various hospitals and parishes

The corner stone was blessed by Archbishop Feehan, after which addresses, historical of the institution and conditions incidental to it, were made in five languages

The structure when completed, will cost $250,000 The hospital will be modern in every respect Nothing that has been devised with the aid of science to provide sanitary surroundings has been overlooked

The building will not have a corner within it. Where corners usually are, the surface of the walls, floor and ceilings will be rounded

No crevice will be left for dust to collect where it cannot be seen and removed In all respects it will be a model institution for the care of patients

In addition to serving the purpose of a hospital, it will also serve as a novitiate for the training of young men for admission to the order.

It is also the headquarters of the Brothers Aloysius Shins, the head of the order in this country, an order that has been ministering to the sick since it was found in Malines nearly seven hundred years ago Four hospitals are maintained in the United States by the Alexian Brothers. One is at St Louis, Mo, another at Oshkosh, Wis, and the fourth at Elizabeth, N J.

TEMESCAL'S CHANGE.

The boundary lines of the proposed new municipality of Temescal, as set forth in the petition now in circulation in that section, are as follows: Beginning at the northern limits of the City of Oakland at a point 150 feet east of the easterly line of Broadway and running thence northerly to the southerly line of the property of Mrs. E B Crocker, thence northwesterly along that line dividing a parcel of the property of Edson Adams almost in two equal parts and continuing to the south easterly corner of Berkeley, and thence following the southerly line of Berkeley out into the waters of the bay

Kneipp Cure for Horses.

The Kneipp cure, or that part of it which consists in walking through the dewy grass in the early morning, has long been known to horsemen A horse trainer and tamer commends the treatment for horses to keep the hoofs in good condition. "I do not believe in packing and soaking horses' feet, as many horse-owners do," he says. In the summer time I would have the horse to be treated led early in the morning through the dew. Think of it yourself If you are out walking in the early morning, even wearing thick boots, you will remember that in a few moments the dew penetrated through to your feet Dew passes through the boot when ordinary water would not. This works the same with horses, nature having provided this simple preventive and cure for diseases of the hoof"—New York Times.

In Florida, where the heat at night is almost unbearable as in the day, it is not unusual to ice the bed before retiring to rest. This is done in a very simple way A metal vessel or pot, much in the form of the ancient warming pan used by our grandfathers, is filled with broken ice and, after standing until the ice has completely cooled the vessel, it is placed between the sheets and moved to and fro over the surface of the sheets and pillows until they are quite cold This coldness of the bedclothes is very soothing to the heated and wearied body, and invariably induces immediate sleep.

Silver and Gold.

"What was the "Crime of 1873?"
Was it really a crime?
Was it committed secretly?
Why was it enacted?

These are questions which every voter ought to understand before he accepts the charge that silver was secretly demonetized or the coinage of the silver dollar stopped by stealth

From the passage of our first mintage act, in 1792, down to 1870, there had been dozens of changes in our coinage laws, until the statutes governing the production of the coins of the United States looked like a crazy quilt. In 1870, with a prospect that the nation would soon return to the use of metallic money, which had been suspended during the war, the Treasury Department recommended to Congress that it pass a general act governing the production of the coins of the United States, and a bill was sent to Congress for that purpose.

This bill omitted the standard silver dollar, of which scarcely any had been coined for many years, and none had remained in circulation The report which accompanied the bill when sent to Congress specifically called attention to the fact that the silver dollar was omitted. The bill was submitted to the leading officials and ex-officials of the mint, and they discussed the omission of the dollar in written communications to the committee of the Senate, after which the committee reported the bill to the Senate, saying in its report "The coinage of the silver dollar piece is discontinued in the proposed bill. * * * The present gold dollar piece is made the dollar unit in the proposed bill and the silver dollar piece is discontinued."

The bill was discussed over and over again in the Senate and House, was printed no less than thirteen times by the Treasury Department and Congress, the debates in House and Senate filled 144 columns of the Congressional Globe, and the final action on it was not had until two years and ten months after its presentation to Congress.

The following table shows the number of times the bill was officially before Congress during its consideration. Read it and see if you can believe that there was anything "secret" in its passage:

The Cow Ate the Ring

A gold ring that is supposed to have spent nearly two years in a cow's stomach was sent the other day to its owner, a young lady of Homestead Two years ago the young lady was visiting on a dairy farm near here, and while in the barn, picked up a kitten and tossed it in a pile of chop bran. With the kitten went a gold ring from her finger, which could not be found, and was given up and finally forgotten Several days ago Edward Jones, a Sutterville butcher bought a cow from Frank Hough the dairyman, and when the cow was killed the ring, with the young lady's name engraved on it, was found in the stomach.—Pittsburg Commercial-Gazette.

MONDAY.....OCTOBER 5, 1896

It has been noticed that Mr. Bryan, in his quotations from the sayings of great men, never makes any allusion to General Grant. Did he run against this declaration made by Grant in his first message to Congress: "Let it be understood that no repudiator of one farthing of our public debt will be trusted in public place, and it will go far to strengthen our public credit, which ought to be the best in the world."

Now, what is going to be the result of this accident? Mr. Bryan lost his hat while passing from one car to another on his train from Washington to Baltimore, and it now adorns the head of a Baltimore gold bug, who has refused $10 for it. Thus far there has been no mixing of ideas. We should suppose that any gold bug who should use that hat for a head piece might run the risk of becoming as light headed as Bryan himself.

The Boston Herald has just celebrated its jubilee year. It is an instance of the most remarkable success ever attained by a cheap newspaper in this country. Its daily circulation exceeds half a million copies. Of course its advertising patronage is immense, which is one source of its great prosperity. Its editorials are always well written. The Herald is independent in politics; but is this year a staunch defender of the cause of honest money.

Dr. Nansen is going to make his next dash for the South Pole instead of the other. But Jackson, the leader of an Arctic expedition is now spending his third winter in the Arctic region. He has had reinforcements sent to him, and expects next year to not only reach to points Nansen attained, but to keep right on until he has reached the pole. However useless it may seem to many, geographical explorers will never give up until they have reached the pole.

There is one reform, according to the Times-Herald, that has been introduced into the public schools of Chicago, of some importance: Students in the public schools, in the primary and the grammar grades, have not been compelled to use slates for years. In the high schools they are used only where the retention of a favored principal is desired. Primary education in Chicago has advanced to that point that the pupil no longer needs a slate or could make use of it if one was at hand. No action of the health department of the city has taken the slate out of the public schols. According to Superintendent Lane, the slate has disappeared solely because it was not needed. Paper has taken its place with nearly 200,000 pupils. Paper is clean. Pencils are cheap. Slates are expensive and awkward in handling. They have been tabooed in Chicago. The health department has never taken up the question.

Some of Candidate Bryan's Antagonisms.

Mr. Bryan, in his recent speeches, has launched his anathemas at people in several "classes" as he is in the way of designating them. Ministers of religion seem just now to invite his special denunciation. There has not in many a day been a greater libel uttered against ministers than that which Bryan uttered recently in his Wilmington speech. They lived at ease and cared nothing for the sufferings and privations of the people. While he must have known that such an allegation was not true, the declaration was no doubt instigated by his knowledge of the fact that a large majority of the ministers are not on his side in the political issues before the country. They find in it a question of morals rising quite above the level of ordinary politics. Even where they have not taken any side publicly, it is well known on which side their sympathies are, and even so much as this has a great deal of influence in communities.

Then Mr. Bryan seems to have an especial grievance against the bankers of the country. With few exceptions, they are not with him. They hold fast to the doctrine of sound money. They distribute capital in all directions for carrying on nearly all the great business enterprises of the country. When the civil war broke out they were the men who furnished the Government the money in that great crisis. These men now are not found supporting the vicious system of finance which Mr. Bryan advocates, and which he is pledged to support if elected.

Then Mr. Bryan has a bout with business men generally. He finds that they are not to any great extent ranging themselves on his side. No doubt, they are looking out for their own interests, while they stand by what they hold to be the best interests of the country. They want a business revival, which can only follow a restoration of confidence. They find little promise of it along the lines which Bryan and his supporters have marked out. The solid business interests of the country are not with the Democ-Populist candidate. He knows that when he blindly delivers his blows right and left against ministers, bankers and business men.

Silver Men for McKinley.

In estimating the support that would be given to McKinley, a little or no account has been taken of any support given by Free Silver men. It has all along been assumed that no votes would be drawn from such men for the support of the Republican ticket. But there are good grounds for the belief that a large number of Silver men hold this view as a secondary consideration. They are for protection first and free silver afterward.

Thus, right here in California, there are a very large number of men who have openly declared for free silver coinage, but who will vote for McKinley because they believe that protection is of more vital importance to the prosperity of the State than free coinage of silver. What is true here is probably true of many other States. Ohio and Pennsylvania for instance, with all the manufacturing States further East, contain a great many free silver men who long ago decided to give that interest a secondary place. Protection first and the money question settled afterward. It is probable that when the votes are counted in Nebraska right where Bryan's influence has been felt in driving the wool and sugar beet industries out of existence, a very large number of Free Silver men will be found to have gone for McKinley and protection.

The Thunder Cloud Romance.

The fact that an accomplished young woman artist of New York, has married a full blooded Indian of the Sioux tribe, has occasioned a great deal of public comment. Thunder Cloud may be a superior Indian. The Sioux furnishes the best physical specimens of a savage race. A few of them have been won over to civilization. When a sentimental young white woman marries an Indian she invites savage treatment. When the romance is gone the barbarisms begin. No Indian will work for his own support if he can make a woman work for him. Thunder Cloud may be a fine specimen of a Sioux Brave. But what will the woman be twenty years hence?

One of the Goodale sisters married a Sioux Indian. But this man, Dr. Eastman, had been educated at Dartmouth College, and also received a thorough medical education. Miss Goodale was a missionary teacher among the Indians. The two were in accord on educational matters. They were both Christians. Miss Goodale probably dropped painting about the time that this educated Sioux dropped his war whoop. When Hattie Hashagan drops her painting it will be about time for this Sioux brave to raise thunder.

Watson Rampant.

Watson, the Populist candidate who is a sort of an appendicitis to the Bryan ticket, says that he will not be cut off. He is not going to retire from the race "to make way for a plutocrat, a bondholder, a National Banker and a protectionist like Sewall." The disqualifications of the latter, according to the Watson standard, are that he is a prosperous business man.

There is another grievance. Bryan went to Maine and had a conference with Sewall. But the former has never gone to Georgia to have a conference with Watson. The latter declares that he has been humiliated by having to beg in public for a formal notification of his nomination.

Watson indirectly concedes that he will not be elected. He will do all he can to elect Bryan, and will continue to dig into the ribs of Sewall to the end of the canvass. This family quarrel only furnishes Republicans with additional grounds of belief that a party which is quarrelling on the eve of an election, gives the strongest assurance of its own defeat. Watson is hammering away on one side, and the Gold Democrats on the other. Bryan is between the upper and the nether millstone.

Free Art for Chinese.

The free art day at the Hopkins' Art Institute, by a curious sequence of events, has been turned to Chinese account. While five hundred of these people were admitted on Friday, there were some thousands of these people attracted by curiosity and a free day, who could not be admitted. Of course the day was spoiled for white visitors. The Chinese are not patrons of art nor have they any knowledge of the elements of art according to Western standards.

In this, these people differ radically from the Japanese who fail in perspective, but have the color sense highly developed. The latter would never have gone in droves to the Art Institute, nor in any way would they have abused the privileges of a free day. It was a memorable occasion when the Chinese captured the Hopkins Art Institute and made it unusually fragrant for one day.

Kirk Monroe, in October Scribner's, gives some interesting bits of information about the light house system of this country: "All the light stations of the United States are grouped in sixteen inspection districts, to each of which is assigned an army officer as engineer, and an officer of the navy as inspector. Eight of these districts are allotted to the Atlantic and gulf coasts; the ninth, tenth and eleventh cover the Great Lakes; the twelfth and thirteenth extend from Southern California to Alaska; while the remaining three embrace all navigable waters of the Mississippi Valley, on which are displayed some 1400 stake or post lights. There are about 150 light stations on the Pacific coast, about 265 on the Great Lakes, and about 850 in the Eastern districts; or between 2,600 and 2700 in all. It is impossible to state the exact number, as new stations are constantly being established. Of all these the oldest is Boston light on Little Brewster Island, in Boston harbor, which was established in 1716, and last rebuilt in 1859. The next oldest is Brant Point, at the entrance to Nantucket harbor, which was established in 1746, and last rebuilt in 1856; while the third in point of age is the Gurnet, off Plymouth, established in 1769.

There have been many efforts to convert sawdust into useful material. This latest process is a Canadian invention: In Deseronto, Canada, the seat of such extensive lumber interests, a notable local industry consists in sifting a considerable portion of the sawdust arising from the vast and various operations involved, and mixing it with an equal quantity of clay, working the same into a building material now coming into important use in certain sections—a material known as porous terra cotta brick. As described, this brick possesses some remarkable qualities of adaptation as a substitute for what has ordinarily been used for structural purposes. Among the merits enumerated in its favor is its absolutely fireproof character; the fact also of its having a marked deadening effect when employed for partition walls in houses, is very warm and dry, though very light in weight, will stand a prodigious crushing strain; the material can be sawn into convenient shapes as desired, nails can be driven into it after the manner with wood, and, when heated even to a white heat, sudden immersion in water will produce no cracks.

STAYS THAT ARE NEW.

They Are Built Upon Venus de Medici Lines.

The edict that waists shall be larger has upset gowning generally, but the new corset will do much to give the modern woman a figure like that of Venus de Medici. The old, stiff corsets are no more. They are entirely superseded by dainty affairs of brocaded silk, edged top and bottom with lace and baby ribbon.

The preferred length of these corsets is from six to ten inches, and the front gores for the bust now start at the waist lines. This gives a long full effect, very becoming to stout persons.

Corsets should invariably be made to order, and may be of the same material as the silk petticoat. In every elegant toilets this is essential.

Black corsets are no longer worn. With a black petticoat a corset of some dark-patterned silk may be worn, but it is not nearly so popular as a corset of bright silk figured with black.

A corset made for use with a white petticoat is worthy of mention. Of white satin, it was hand-embroidered with a vine of tiny pink flowers and green leaves. It had edges of white lace knotted with pink ribbon, and clasps of gold. Needless to say that this corset is a part of a Gotham belle's trousseau.

Still another corset is made entirely of broad satin ribbon, boned under the arms, but otherwise entirely without stiffness.

STARBEAMS.

In Stark County, O., the other day twin brothers married twin sisters. It was the "doubliest" wedding that ever took place in the county.

The public might have believed the story that whisky can be made from beets if that feat had been accomplished in Kansas instead of Nebraska.

For five years the Rev. Mr. Hicks was pastor of Methodist Episcopal charges in Corunna, Mich. During that time his wife paid $600 on their home out of marriage fees, which were always turned over to her by her husband.

A novel crusade is proposed by some women in Brooklyn. It is to be directed against the practice some mothers and nurses have of leaving their babies in baby carriages in the street outside big stores while they are inside shopping.

Among other gifts which the State of Maine made to the cruiser which bears her name, was a large silver tureen which can be used by the naval officers as a punch bowl without compromising the reputation which the Pine Tree State sustains for temperance.

The biggest coffee pot in the world was exhibited at the Lubeck fair. It weighs 220 pounds, is 6½ feet high and holds 210 litres. If a litre fills five cups of coffee, then 1,050 persons can be supplied by this kettle. It was manufactured at Bunzlau, in Silesia.

Time was when the boys and girls of New England considered it impossible to properly celebrate Thanksgiving day without ice and snow on which to skate and coast, but these essentials seem to have gone out of fashion with other things of the good old time.

People who visit Old Trinity church in New York are much interested in the Astor pews. These are the third on the left and the first on the right. They are more occupied by visitors, who sit in them out of curiosity, than by members of the family. William Waldorf Astor was last in the church at the time of his wife's funeral, and the John Jacob Astor's never come down town except occasionally on business.

Compressed air as a motive power to street cars is to be tried in Washington within a few days. Each motor, when full charged, will run twenty-five miles without being recharged. The system has been used for years in Europe, where it has proved very economical. Congress permits no trolley wires (nor any new overhead wires) in the Capital City, and the various car lines are being forced to find new methods of propulsion. Some have cable systems, others underground electric.

There is a boom just now in attar of roses among New York druggists. Many of the small apothecaries sell attar of roses at 10 cents a drop, and a chemist in Sixth avenue reports it much in demand in very small quantities among his customers. The oil is brought to this country in strong bottles packed in brown Turkish moss. Only the druggists buy it from importers in the original package, for its curious penetrating qualities make it difficult to keep in large quantities. All the world knows Captain Marryatt's story of the ship in which a keg of attar of roses was broken. Nearly all the crew were suffocated by the fumes and the three or four men who brought the craft into port had her timbers turned into perfumed toys, the pungent oil having permeated every part of the vessel and rendered her unfit for service.

The number of adherents to the various religious faiths of the world has formed the basis of a great many interesting essays on comparative religions. In the current number of the Nineteenth Century Prof. Max Muller goes into the question with more than the usual acumen, and acknowledges his utter inability to ascertain the relative number of the devotees of Christianity, Buddhism and Mohammedanism. The fact is that the Christians and the Buddhists each have something over four hundred million adherents, with the Mohammedans numbering half as many. "But," says Prof. Muller, "I attach very little value to these statistics, still less to the conclusions drawn from them. Truth fortunately is not settled by majorities. You remember the saying of Frederick Maurice, when he was told that in his views about eternal punishment he was in a minority, or, what is the same, unorthodox: 'I have often been in a minority,' he said, 'in this life, and I hope I shall be so in the next.'"

NOTES AND EXCERPTS.

Apropos of Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt's disagreement with his son, and the latter's marriage to a woman very much older than himself, the editor of The Cosmopolitan, in the September issue, seriously discusses the education most useful to modern life, and substantially, if not in words, asks: "Does modern college education educate?" The September Cosmopolitan, as if to show what a magazine can do, gives four complete stories in this single number, by such noted authors as Frances Courtenay Baylor, Maurice Thompson, Gertrude Hall, and John J. a'Becket. Louise Chandler Moulton, Mrs. Lew Wallace, Francisque Sarcey, I. Zangwill, Agnes Repplier, Norman Kerr, M. D., H. C. Chatfield-Taylor, Wm. Elroy Curtis," by Geo. Gladden; "Rail and Reedman, and Ruth McEnery Stuart are also among the contributors.

When the Salt Lake Tribune goes out of its way to say that Jefferson and Hamilton did not give the market ratios of gold and silver a careful study before fixing the legal ratio, it talks like a tinker, not knowing what he is talking about. That is just what they did do, as shown by Hamilton's famous report, which has become an economic classic.—St. Paul Dispatch.

When the Siberian railway is completed the journey around the world will not occupy more than forty days, and can be accomplished for about $400.

The Populists are now claiming that the United States and Mexico produce all the silver that is now produced in the world. That is not true. In 1894 the world produced a total of 167,725,561 ounces, of which, according to the treasury reports, the United States mined 49,500,000 ounces, and Mexico 47,033,381 ounces, or a total of 96,533,381, or 71,187,180 ounces for the rest of the world for that year.

A Hoboken man writes to the New York Sun that he is going to vote for Bryan. It appears that Mrs. Hammerdown got a divorce from him some two years ago. The court compelled Mr. Hamerdown to pay her $100 per month as long as she lived. This is $1,200 a year. If Bryan is elected, and we have free silver, this is only $53 a month, or $636 a year. It looks as if Bryan might get the alimony vote on this plea.—Boston Herald.

So far the Republicans claim to have sent out 8,000,000 campaign documents, and the work is going right on at the rate of about 500,000 documents a day. In addition to this distribution the Democrat have thus far sent out 3,000,000 documents, the Populists 3,000,000, and the Silver League 2,000,000. In view of these imposing figures we tender our sympathy to the hard working employes of the postoffices of the country. They are bearing one of the heaviest burdens of this great campaign of education.

Professor Stowe, the husband of Harriet Beecher Stowe, often said that he saw visions of people in whom he was interested, and Mrs. Field recalls an instance of this in "The Review of Reviews." On one occasion Mrs. Stowe was in her room when it was supposed she was out of town. Professor Stowe came in, looked about him with a preoccupied air, but did not speak to her. She thought his behavior strange, and amused herself watching him; at last the situation became so extraordinary that she began to laugh. "Why," he exclaimed, with a most astonished air, "is that you? I thought it was one of my visions."

Those who have become interested in the affairs of Spain during her recent misfortunes, will be interested in the announcement by The Macmillan Company of a volume of Historical Studies, entitled "The Year After the Armada." The writer is Martin A. S. Hume, author of "The Courtships of Queen Elizabeth," and editor of the Calendar of Spanish State Papers of Elizabeth, in the Public Record Office.

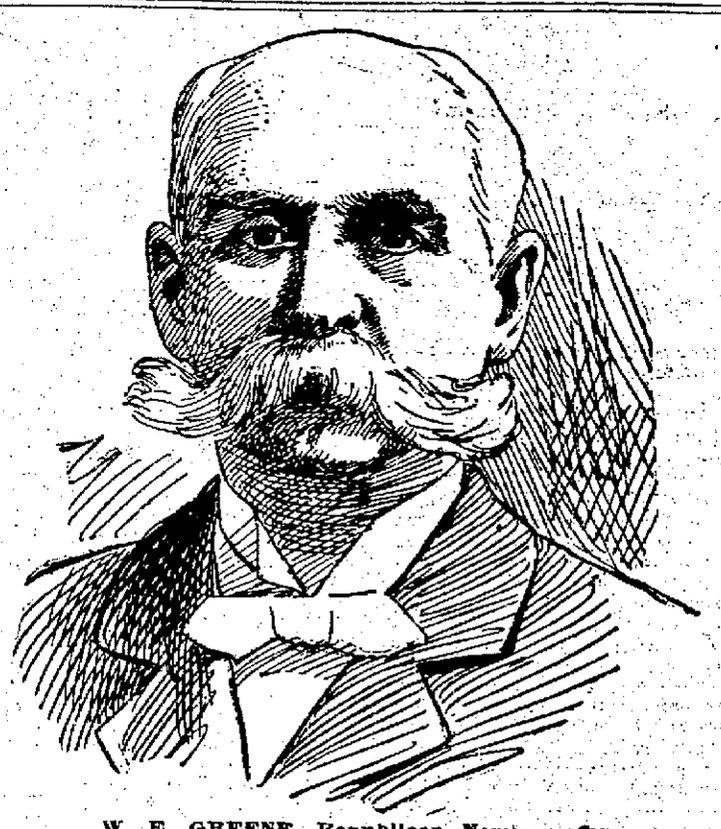

A Japanese soldier is allowed seven ounces of meat in his rations, an Austrian or Spanish private eight, a French, Turkish, German or Belgian nine, an Italian eleven, an Englishman twelve and a Russian sixteen. The ration in the United States Army is twenty ounces. The ration of bread is highest in the Austrian Army, thirty-two ounces, and lowest in the English, sixteen ounces, ounces, in the French and Italian it is twenty-two, the same in the United States, and in the Russian Army seventeen ounces. All modern armies, save the Russian, have also a daily allowance of rice.

Men to Vote for.

W. E. GREENE, Republican Nominee for Superior Judge.

A Judge interprets the laws—he does not make them. To him is entrusted the administration, and not the prescription of the measures of legislation, and that, therefore, only wise and upright men should be chosen for the bench can be conceded without argument.

Furthermore, when the citizens of a community find that their selection has been all that they desired and hoped for, it is well to consider the claims of their incumbent when the hour comes around for another election, and to ask themselves why when they have secured a man so eminently qualified for the position they should seek a change and run the risks of an untried quantity. Amidst the clamor of politics, too, it is conceded that it is well to let the Judiciary alone. The office is one that cannot be included in the machinery of election methods without being in a sense contaminated. So, ever since the method of selection passed from an appointing power to a vote of the people, all the parties have united in keeping the Judicial ermine clear of the mud which occasionally gets into the political pool.

With Judge W. E. Greene, who, at present occupies a seat on the Superior Bench of this county, and who is the Republican nominee for re-election, the people of Alameda County are well satisfied. They first placed him on the bench in 1879, and ever since, at each recurring election, they have endorsed his ability, his good judgment, his unswerving honesty and his faithfulness, by returning him to serve them again, and doing so by a majority so large as to be more than convincing that he is satisfactory in every way.

To be a good Judge, a man must be learned in the law, and furthermore must have more than the ordinary education. Judge Greene fills all these requirements. He is a graduate of the celebrated Bowdoin College in Maine, where he won honors and studied for the law. He comes of illustrious New England stock, and was born in Farrington, Maine, in 1837. After graduating from Bowdoin, he came to California, and took up his first residence at Stockton. He was the unanimous choice of his district for the State Legislature two years later, and he served a term in which he gained such honors that the following year, in 1867, he was elected Superior Judge of San Joaquin County. He was re-elected for the office in 1871 and resigned in 1874 on account of business interests in this part of the country. The Judge decided to take up his residence in Oakland in 1875, and so quickly did he make friends and so soon did his marked ability assert itself that, in 1879, he was elected to the Superior Bench of Alameda County, and has been there ever since.

The seventeen years Judge Greene has been on the bench here have been marked by one of the most successful Judicial careers in the history of the State. His decisions have rarely been reversed, and the fearlessness of his judgments and his absolute disregard of friend or foe when they come before him in court have won for him the admiration and respect of all the members of the bar, as well as all the citizens of the community. The best proof of this is, of course, his continued re-elections, and it is safe to say that there is no man in Alameda County today who is more respected, and whose honesty and sincerity of purpose are more marked than in Judge Greene.

His success at the polls next month is as good as assured. Every one who wants to see the bench of Alameda County continue to hold the high place in the Judiciary of the State that it does now will vote to retain there the man who has done more than any one else to win for it its laurels. In addition to this, Judge Greene's personal popularity and the wide circle of friends who are working night and day for him are potent factors in the race, so the consolidation of interests in his behalf are so powerful and so effective that it is certain that he will once more be returned by a handsome vote to mete out justice in the Superior Courts of Alameda County.

It has been noticed that Mr. Bryan, in his quotations from the sayings of great men, never makes any allusion to General Grant. Did he run against this declaration made by Grant in his first message to Congress: "Let it be understood that no repudiator of one farthing of our public debt will be trusted in public place, and it will go far to strengthen our public credit, which ought to be the best in the world."

Now, what is going to be the result of this accident? Mr. Bryan lost his hat while passing from one car to another on his train from Washington to Baltimore, and it now adorns the head of a Baltimore gold bug, who has refused $10 for it. Thus far there has been no mixing of ideas. We should suppose that any gold bug who should use that hat for a head piece might run the risk of becoming as light headed as Bryan himself.

The Boston Herald has just celebrated its jubilee year. It is an instance of the most remarkable success ever attained by a cheap newspaper in this country. Its daily circulation exceeds half a million copies. Of course its advertising patronage is immense, which is one source of its great prosperity. Its editorials are always well written. The Herald is independent in politics; but is this year a staunch defender of the cause of honest money.

Dr. Nansen is going to make his next dash for the South Pole instead of the other. But Jackson, the leader of an Arctic expedition is now spending his third winter in the Arctic region. He has had reinforcements sent to him, and expects next year to not only reach to points Nansen attained, but to keep right on until he has reached the pole. However useless it may seem to many, geographical explorers will never give up until they have reached the pole.

There is one reform, according to the Times-Herald, that has been introduced into the public schools of Chicago, of some importance: Students in the public schools, in the primary and the grammar grades, have not been compelled to use slates for years. In the high schools they are used only where the retention of a favored principal is desired. Primary education in Chicago has advanced to that point that the pupil no longer needs a slate or could make use of it if one was at hand. No action of the health department of the city has taken the slate out of the public schols. According to Superintendent Lane, the slate has disappeared solely because it was not needed. Paper has taken its place with nearly 200,000 pupils. Paper is clean. Pencils are cheap. Slates are expensive and awkward in handling. They have been tabooed in Chicago. The health department has never taken up the question.

Some of Candidate Bryan's Antagonisms.

Mr. Bryan, in his recent speeches, has launched his anathemas at people in several "classes" as he is in the way of designating them. Ministers of religion seem just now to invite his special denunciation. There has not in many a day been a greater libel uttered against ministers than that which Bryan uttered recently in his Wilmington speech. They lived at ease and cared nothing for the sufferings and privations of the people. While he must have known that such an allegation was not true, the declaration was no doubt instigated by his knowledge of the fact that a large majority of the ministers are not on his side in the political issues before the country. They find in it a question of morals rising quite above the level of ordinary politics. Even where they have not taken any side publicly, it is well known on which side their sympathies are, and even so much as this has a great deal of influence in communities.

Then Mr. Bryan seems to have an especial grievance against the bankers of the country. With few exceptions, they are not with him. They hold fast to the doctrine of sound money. They distribute capital in all directions for carrying on nearly all the great business enterprises of the country. When the civil war broke out they were the men who furnished the Government the money in that great crisis. These men now are not found supporting the vicious system of finance which Mr. Bryan advocates, and which he is pledged to support if elected.

Then Mr. Bryan has a bout with business men generally. He finds that they are not to any great extent ranging themselves on his side. No doubt, they are looking out for their own interests, while they stand by what they hold to be the best interests of the country. They want a business revival, which can only follow a restoration of confidence. They find little promise of it along the lines which Bryan and his supporters have marked out. The solid business interests of the country are not with the Democ-Populist candidate. He knows that when he blindly delivers his blows right and left against ministers, bankers and business men.

Silver Men for McKinley.

In estimating the support that would be given to McKinley, a little or no account has been taken of any support given by Free Silver men. It has all along been assumed that no votes would be drawn from such men for the support of the Republican ticket. But there are good grounds for the belief that a large number of Silver men hold this view as a secondary consideration. They are for protection first and free silver afterward.

Thus, right here in California, there are a very large number of men who have openly declared for free silver coinage, but who will vote for McKinley because they believe that protection is of more vital importance to the prosperity of the State than free coinage of silver. What is true here is probably true of many other States. Ohio and Pennsylvania for instance, with all the manufacturing States further East, contain a great many free silver men who long ago decided to give that interest a secondary place. Protection first and the money question settled afterward. It is probable that when the votes are counted in Nebraska right where Bryan's influence has been felt in driving the wool and sugar beet industries out of existence, a very large number of Free Silver men will be found to have gone for McKinley and protection.

The Thunder Cloud Romance.

The fact that an accomplished young woman artist of New York, has married a full blooded Indian of the Sioux tribe, has occasioned a great deal of public comment. Thunder Cloud may be a superior Indian. The Sioux furnishes the best physical specimens of a savage race. A few of them have been won over to civilization. When a sentimental young white woman marries an Indian she invites savage treatment. When the romance is gone the barbarisms begin. No Indian will work for his own support if he can make a woman work for him. Thunder Cloud may be a fine specimen of a Sioux Brave. But what will the woman be twenty years hence?

One of the Goodale sisters married a Sioux Indian. But this man, Dr. Eastman, had been educated at Dartmouth College, and also received a thorough medical education. Miss Goodale was a missionary teacher among the Indians. The two were in accord on educational matters. They were both Christians. Miss Goodale probably dropped painting about the time that this educated Sioux dropped his war whoop. When Hattie Hashagan drops her painting it will be about time for this Sioux brave to raise thunder.

Watson Rampant.

Watson, the Populist candidate who is a sort of an appendicitis to the Bryan ticket, says that he will not be cut off. He is not going to retire from the race "to make way for a plutocrat, a bondholder, a National Banker and a protectionist like Sewall." The disqualifications of the latter, according to the Watson standard, are that he is a prosperous business man.

There is another grievance. Bryan went to Maine and had a conference with Sewall. But the former has never gone to Georgia to have a conference with Watson. The latter declares that he has been humiliated by having to beg in public for a formal notification of his nomination.

Watson indirectly concedes that he will not be elected. He will do all he can to elect Bryan, and will continue to dig into the ribs of Sewall to the end of the canvass. This family quarrel only furnishes Republicans with additional grounds of belief that a party which is quarrelling on the eve of an election, gives the strongest assurance of its own defeat. Watson is hammering away on one side, and the Gold Democrats on the other. Bryan is between the upper and the nether millstone.

Free Art for Chinese.

The free art day at the Hopkins' Art Institute, by a curious sequence of events, has been turned to Chinese account. While five hundred of these people were admitted on Friday, there were some thousands of these people attracted by curiosity and a free day, who could not be admitted. Of course the day was spoiled for white visitors. The Chinese are not patrons of art nor have they any knowledge of the elements of art according to Western standards.

In this, these people differ radically from the Japanese who fall in perspective, but have the color sense highly developed. The latter would never have gone in droves to the Art Institute, nor in any way would they have abused the privileges of a free day. It was a memorable occasion when the Chinese captured the Hopkins Art Institute and made it unusually fragrant for one day.

Kirk Monroe, in October Scribner's, gives some interesting bits of information about the light house system of this country: "All the light stations of the United States are grouped in sixteen inspection districts, to each of which is assigned an army officer as engineer, and an officer of the navy as inspector. Eight of these districts are allotted to the Atlantic and gulf coasts; the ninth, tenth and eleventh cover the Great Lakes; the twelfth and thirteenth extend from Southern California to Alaska; while the remaining three embrace all navigable waters of the Mississippi Valley, on which are displayed some 1400 stake or post lights. There are about 150 light stations on the Pacific coast, about 265 on the Great Lakes, and about 850 in the Eastern districts; or between 2,600 and 2700 in all. It is impossible to state the exact number, as new stations are constantly being established. Of all these the oldest is Boston light on Little Brewster Island, in Boston harbor, which was established in 1716, and last rebuilt in 1859. The next oldest is Brant Point, at the entrance to Nantucket harbor, which was established in 1746, and last rebuilt in 1858; while the third in point of age is the Gurnet, off Plymouth, established in 1769.

There have been many efforts to convert sawdust into useful material. This latest process is a Canadian invention: In Deseronto, Canada, the seat of such extensive lumber interests, a notable local industry consists in sifting a considerable portion of the sawdust arising from the vast and various operations involved, and mixing it with an equal quantity of clay, working the same into a building material now coming into important use in certain sections—a material known as porous terra cotta brick. As described, this brick possesses some remarkable qualities of adaptation as a substitute for what has ordinarily been used for structural purposes. Among the merits enumerated in its favor is its absolutely fireproof character; the fact also of its having a marked deadening effect when employed for partition walls in houses, is very warm and dry, though very light in weight, will stand a prodigious crushing strain; the material can be sawn into convenient shapes as desired, nails can be driven into it after the manner with wood, and, when heated even to a white heat, sudden immersion in water will produce no cracks.

STAYS THAT ARE NEW.

The edict that waists shall be larger has upset gowning generally, but the new corset will do much to give the modern woman a figure like that of Venus de Medici. The old, stiff corsets are no more. They are entirely superseded by dainty affairs of brocaded silk, edged top and bottom with lace and baby ribbon.

The preferred length of these corsets is from six to ten inches, and the front gores for the bust now start at the waist lines. This gives a long full effect, very becoming to stout persons.

Corsets should invariably be made to order, and may be of the same material as the silk petticoat. In every elegant toilets this is essential.

Black corsets are no longer worn. With a black petticoat a corset of some dark-patterned silk may be worn, but it is not nearly so popular as a corset of bright silk figured with black.

A corset made for use with a white petticoat is worthy of mention. Of white satin, it was hand-embroidered with a vine of tiny pink flowers and green leaves. It had edges of white lace knotted with pink ribbon, and clasps of gold. Needless to say that this corset is a part of a Gotham belle's trousseau.

STARBEAMS.

In Stark County, O., the other day twin brothers married twin sisters. It was the "doublest" wedding that ever took place in the county.

The public might have believed the story that whisky can be made from beets if that feat had been accomplished in Kansas instead of Nebraska.

For five years the Rev. Mr. Hicks was pastor of Methodist Episcopal charges in Corunna, Mich. During that time his wife paid $300 on their home out of marriage fees, which were always turned over to her by her husband.

A novel crusade is proposed by some women in Brooklyn. It is to be directed against the practice some mothers and nurses have of leaving their babies in baby carriages in the street outside big stores while they are inside shopping.

Among other gifts which the State of Maine made to the cruiser which bears her name, was a large silver tureen which can be used by the naval officers as a punch bowl without compromising the reputation which the Pine Tree State sustains for temperance.

The biggest coffee pot in the world was exhibited at the Lubeck fair. It weighs 220 pounds, is 6½ feet high and holds 310 litres. If a litre fills five cups of coffee, then 1,550 persons can be supplied by this kettle. It was manufactured at Bunzlau, in Silesia.

Time was when the boys and girls of New England considered it impossible to properly celebrate Thanksgiving day without ice and snow on which to skate and coast, but these essentials seem to have gone out of fashion with other things of the good old time.

People who visit Old Trinity church in New York are much interested in the Astor pews. These are the third on the left and the first on the right. They are more occupied by visitors, who sit in them out of curiosity, than by members of the family. William Waldorf Astor was last in the church at the time of his wife's funeral, and the John Jacob Astor's never come down town except occasionally on business.

Compressed air as a motive power to street cars is to be tried in Washington within a few days. Each motor, when full charged, will run twenty-five miles without being recharged. The system has been used for years in Europe, where it has proved very economical. Congress permits no trolley wires (nor any new overhead wires) in the Capital City, and the various car lines are being forced to find new methods of propulsion. Some have cable systems, others underground electric.

There is a boom just now in attar of roses among New York druggists. Many of the small apothecaries sell attar of roses at 10 cents a drop, and a chemist in Sixth avenue reports it much in demand in very small quantities among his customers. The oil is brought to this country in strong bottles packed in brown Turkish moss. Only the druggists buy it from importers in the original package, for its curious penetrating qualities make it difficult to keep in large quantities. All the world knows Captain Marryatt's story of the ship in which a keg of attar of roses was broken. Nearly all the crew were suffocated by the fumes and the three or four men who brought the craft into port had her timbers turned into perfumed toys, the pungent oil having permeated every part of the vessel and rendered her unfit for service.

The number of adherents to the various religious faiths of the world has formed the basis of a great many interesting essays on comparative religions. In the current number of the Nineteenth Century Prof. Max Muller goes into the question with more than the usual acumen, and acknowledges his utter inability to ascertain the relative number of the devotees of Christianity, Buddhism and Mohammedanism. The fact is that the Christians and the Buddhists each have something over four hundred million adherents, with the Mohammedans numbering half as many. "But," says Prof. Muller, "I attach very little value to these statistics, still less to the conclusions drawn from them. Truth fortunately is not settled by majorities. You remember the saying of Frederick Maurice, when he was told that in his views about eternal punishment he was in a minority, or, what is the same, unorthodox: 'I have often been in a minority,' he said, 'in this life, and I hope I shall be so in the next.'"

NOTES AND EXCERPTS.

Apropos of Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt's disagreement with his son, and the latter's marriage to a woman very much older than himself, the editor of The Cosmopolitan, in the September issue, seriously discusses the education most useful to modern life, and substantially, if not in words, asks: "Does modern college education educate?" The September Cosmopolitan, as if to show what a magazine can do, gives four complete stories in this single number, by such noted authors as Frances Courtenay Baylor, Maurice Thompson, Gertrude Hall, and John J. a'Becket. Louise Chandler Moulton, Mrs. Lew Wallace, Francisque Sarcey, I. Zangwill, Agnes Repplier, Norman Kerr, M. D., H. C. Chatfield-Taylor, Wm. Elroy Curtis," by Geo. Gladden; "Rail and Reedman, and Ruth McEnery Stuart are also among the contributors.

When the Salt Lake Tribune goes out of its way to say that Jefferson and Hamilton did not give the market ratios of gold and silver a careful study before fixing the legal ratio, it talks like a tinker, not knowing what he is talking about. That is just what they did do, as shown by Hamilton's famous report, which has become an economic classic.—St. Paul Dispatch.

When the Siberian railway is completed the journey around the world will not occupy more than forty days, and can be accomplished for about $100.

The Populists are now claiming that the United States and Mexico produce all the silver that is now produced in the world. That is not true. In 1894 the world produced a total of 167,725,561 ounces, of which, according to the treasury reports, the United States mined 49,500,000 ounces, and Mexico 47,038,381 ounces, or a total of 96,538,381, or 71,187,180 ounces for the rest of the world for that year.

A Hoboken man writes to the New York Sun that he is going to vote for Bryan. It appears that Mrs. Hammerdown got a divorce from him some two years ago. The court compelled Mr. Hammerdown to pay her $100 per month as long as she lived. This is $1,200 a year. If Bryan is elected, and we have free silver, this is only $53 a month, or $636 a year. It looks as if Bryan might get the alimony vote on this plea.—Boston Herald.

So far the Republicans claim to have sent out 8,000,000 campaign documents, and the work is going right on at the rate of about 500,000 documents a day. In addition to this distribution the Democrat have thus far sent out 3,000,000 documents, the Populists 3,000,000, and the Silver League 2,000,000. In view of these imposing figures we tender our sympathy to the hard working employes of the postoffices of the country. They are bearing one of the heaviest burdens of this great campaign of education.

Professor Stowe, the husband of Harriet Beecher Stowe, often said that he saw visions of people in whom he was interested, and Mrs. Field recalls an instance of this in "The Review of Reviews." On one occasion Mrs. Stowe was in her room when it was supposed she was out of town. Professor Stowe came in, looked about him with a preoccupied air, but did not speak to her. She thought his behavior strange, and amused herself watching him; at last the situation became so extraordinary that she began to laugh. "Why," he exclaimed, with a most astonished air, "is that you? I thought it was one of my visions."

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Men to Vote for.

W. E. GREENE, Republican Nominee for Superior Judge.

A Judge interprets the laws—he does not make them. To him is entrusted the administration, and not the prescription of the measures of legislation, and that, therefore, only wise and upright men should be chosen for the bench can be conceded without argument.

Furthermore, when the citizens of a community find that their selection has been all that they desired and hoped for, it is well to consider the claims of their incumbent when the hour comes around for another election, and to ask themselves why when they have secured a man so eminently qualified for the position they should seek a change and run the risks of an untried quantity. Amidst the clamor of politics, too, it is conceded that it is well to let the Judiciary alone. The office is one that cannot be included in the machinery of election methods without being in a sense contaminated. So, ever since the method of selection passed from an appointing power to a vote of the people, all the parties have united in keeping the Judicial ermine clear of the mud which occasionally gets into the political pool.

With Judge W. E. Greene, who, at present occupies a seat on the Superior Bench of this county, and who is the Republican nominee for re-election, the people of Alameda County are well satisfied. They first placed him on the bench in 1879, and ever since, at each recurring election, they have endorsed his ability, his good judgment, his unswerving honesty and his faithfulness, by returning him to serve them again, and doing so by a majority so large as to be more than convincing that he is satisfactory in every way.

To be a good Judge, a man must be learned in the law, and furthermore must have more than the ordinary education. Judge Greene fills all these requirements. He is a graduate of the celebrated Bowdoin College in Maine, where he won honors and studied for the law. He comes of illustrious New England stock, and was born in Farrington, Maine, in 1837. After graduating from Bowdoin, he came to California, and took up his first residence at Stockton. He was the unanimous choice of his district for the State Legislature two years later, and he served a term in which he gained such honors that the following year, in 1867, he was elected Superior Judge of San Joaquin County. He was re-elected for the office in 1871 and resigned in 1874 on account of business interests in this part of the country. The Judge decided to take up his residence in Oakland in 1875, and so quickly did he make friends and so soon did his marked ability assert itself that, in 1879, he was elected to the Superior Bench of Alameda County, and has been there ever since.

The seventeen years Judge Greene has been on the bench here have been marked by one of the most successful Judicial careers in the history of the State. His decisions have rarely been reversed, and the fearlessness of his judgments and his absolute disregard of friend or foe when they come before him in court have won for him the admiration and respect of all the members of the bar, as well as all the citizens of the community. The best proof of this is, of course, his continued re-elections, and it is safe to say that there is no man in Alameda County today who is more respected, and whose honesty and sincerity of purpose are more marked than in Judge Greene.

His success at the polls next month is as good as assured. Every one who wants to see the bench of Alameda County continue to hold the high place in the Judiciary of the State that it does now will vote to retain there the man who has done more than any one else to win for it its laurels. In addition to this, Judge Greene's personal popularity and the wide circle of friends who are working night and day for him are potent factors in the race, so the consolidation of interests in his behalf are so powerful and so effective that it is certain that he will once more be returned by a handsome vote to mete out justice in the Superior Courts of Alameda County.

WEDDED TO A SPIRIT.

STORY OF AN OLD LOVE.

A GHOSTLY CEREMONY HELD.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—A special to the Tribune from Cincinnati, Ohio, says:

Charles Thorp, aged 65, a wealthy gentleman of Birmingham, England, has been married to the sweetheart of his youth, who had been separated from him by death for over forty years.

The wedding occurred at a private residence on Seventh street and was witnessed by a number of highly respectable and intelligent people, some of whom are well known to society and who are willing to vouch for the occurrence.

Among those present were Dr. H. M. Slosson and wife of this city, who were invited there by a spiritualistic medium, who claims she is gifted with the power of materializing spirits.

In speaking of the occurrence the Doctor and Mrs. Slosson said it was the most remarkable demonstration they had ever witnessed. They also said they were fully convinced that no fraud or deception had been practiced.

While the medium was visiting the large cities of the country propounding the doctrines of spiritualism and giving exhibitions of spiritualistic manifestations, she met Mr. Thorp at Omaha.

He called upon her at the hotel and in the course of a conversation stated that while a young man living in England he was engaged to marry a woman who had died before the date set for the wedding, and it was his ardent desire to converse with her.

The medium granted him a sitting. Mr. Thorp afterwards, in speaking of the occurrence, said he met his sweetheart in the form of a materialized spirit.

About a dozen sittings were had at different towns.

At Chicago Mr. Thorp consulted the medium, and after telling her that he had gained the consent of his former sweetheart he requested that a marriage ceremony be performed.

This being a new departure in spiritualism, the medium doubted that the arrangements proposed by Mr. Thorp could be carried out. She, however, expressed a willingness to further test her powers as a medium, so she granted Mr. Thorp a trial, setting the place for the wedding in this city.

On the afternoon preceding the event Mr. Thorp arrived in Cincinnati and after consulting with the medium, went to a florist and ordered an abundance of flowers to adorn the room in which he was to be married. The test was to be made at 9 o'clock in the evening. At 8 o'clock those who were bidden assembled, less than a dozen persons being present.

At 8:30 o'clock Mr. Thorp arrived.

Mr. Thorp was stationed at a point near the cabinet. He some time all sat silently in the darkness and gazed attentively towards the cabinet expecting some manifestation.

At last a sound like the rustling of a curtain was heard. It was the cabinet being opened.

Through the aperture came a phosphorescent light, the soft rays faintly illuminating the face and form of Mr. Thorp and giving him a ghostly appearance. His face was then turned toward the cabinet.

Those who witnessed the strange proceedings were startled upon beholding just to his right the faint outline of a form which seemed to develop in the soft light until it bore the appearance of a young woman clothed in a robe of spotless white. Her hair was dark and her face, while it appeared deathlike, wore a smile of satisfaction.

Just in front of where the two were standing another form, that of an elderly man suddenly became visible and it, too, grew plainer as the moments passed until it resembled the form of one in flesh. This was the person who was to officiate at the wedding.

The ceremony was much after the ordinary style of conducting marriages without the ring. At the conclusion of the ceremony the minister raised his hands above the heads of the bride and groom as though pronouncing a benediction on the union.

The two materialized forms then slowly vanished away as they had come.

(Copyright 1896 by Associated Press.)

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 5.—If the ruling of Judge Foute of Atlanta obtains, hypnotists will have to be very careful what they order their subjects to do. The judge holds that the hypnotist is directly responsible for the acts of his subjects.

During a performance at a local theater the subject of a hypnotist imagined he was a monkey. He grabbed a hat off a man in the audience and bit a piece out of it.

The professor and his business manager declined to make good the cost of the hat and the hypnotist was prosecuted before Judge Foute upon a charge of malicious mischief.

The judge sustained the charge and bound the hypnotist over to a higher court.

INDIANS IN CONFLICT.

Indications of a Pitched Battle Between the Opposing Forces.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—A special to the Herald from Tuskahoma, I. T., says:

The trouble which has been brewing for some months between the full bloods and squadmen of the Choctaw Nation has broken out more violently than ever, and unless indications fail there will be serious bloodshed.

The full bloods, who have control of the Council, passed laws cutting the squawmen from off their landed property, and made provision for evicting them.

When the first attempt at eviction was made a few weeks ago, there was a clash in the streets of this city, in which several squawmen were killed and many on both sides more or less injured.

Then comparative quiet reigned for a time, but when the attempt to evict the squawmen was renewed this week trouble broke out again.

There has been a number of conflicts during the past few days, and an unknown number on both sides have been hurt, while it is reported that several have been killed.

Both sides have been gathering their forces during the week, and are preparing for a pitched battle, which is expected today or tomorrow.

Citizens of the town have appealed to the Federal authorities and troops will be sent at once.

There are several troops of cavalry at Fort Reno in camp on Pond Creek, forty miles from here, and they are expected in time to take a hand in the disturbance.

The latest happenings throughout the county are as follows:

(From the Haywards Journal.)

Last Saturday Albert La Cunha and Ed Wells of our last year's football eleven, distinguished themselves at the Stanford University. Ed played guard against Puckett of Sanford, who is one of the oldest and ablest man in that position on the coast. Albert played a fine game, and his punting excelled that of the experienced players pitted against him. On account of his ability at kicking and hitting the line, Albert has been pitted as a half back, while Wells has been placed at guard because of his swiftness and strength.

Rev. G. W. Lyons returned Tuesday from a trip to Sacramento, where he was called to see a sick friend, Miss Elizabeth E. Johnson. The report which has been circulated in Oakland and the City regarding the Rancho del Valle hop yards here not proving a paying investment and that there is strong talk of plowing a large portion of the yard in something else has proven false, for when inquiring into the matter we find that instead of pulling part of the yard up, it is most likely more vines will be put in.

Mrs. Savage held the Secretary's chair, and Miss Smith served as Treasurer. The attendance and interest was encouraging. The evening was spent mostly in discussing ways and means to help the library cause. The opinion was generally expressed that the League was too good a thing to let drop and that at this time the free library needed its support more than ever. More than twenty years ago an eminent scientist, Prof. Yates of the Smithsonian Institute, while on a brief visit to this valley, declared that it was a natural oil district, and predicted that in time great wealth would be produced here by the development of these oil lands. Prof. Yates came to Livermore Valley in quest of a great natural curiosity, which it was reported our fellow citizen, Valentine Alviso had discovered. The San Francisco papers had reported that Mr. Alviso had found on his farm just north of this town the petrified tooth of a mastodon, or antediluvian elephant. It weighed over twenty pounds, and was a most rare and perfect specimen. It was to secure this relic for the great museum at Washington that Prof. Yates came to Livermore and sought Mr. Alviso, who received him most hospitably at his home for several days. The scientist was delighted to receive as a present from Mr. Alviso's hands the wonderful tooth of an extinct race of mammoths that inhabited this part of the earth thousands of years ago.

WEDDED TO A SPIRIT.

STORY OF AN OLD LOVE.

A GHOSTLY CEREMONY HELD.

His Bride Was Materialized in Time for the Ceremony.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—A special to the Tribune from Cincinnati, Ohio, says:

Charles Thorp, aged 65, a wealthy gentleman of Birmingham, England, has been married to the sweetheart of his youth, who had been separated from him by death for over forty years.

The wedding occurred at a private residence on Seventh street and was witnessed by a number of highly respectable and intelligent people, some of whom are well known to society and who are willing to vouch for the occurrence.

Among those present were Dr. H. M. Slosson and wife of this city, who were invited there by a spiritualistic medium, who claims she is gifted with the power of materializing spirits.

In speaking of the occurrence the Doctor and Mrs. Slosson said it was the most remarkable demonstration they had ever witnessed. They also said they were fully convinced that no fraud or deception had been practiced.

While the medium was visiting the large cities of the country propounding the doctrines of spiritualism and giving exhibitions of spiritualistic manifestations, she met Mr. Thorp at Omaha.

He called upon her at the hotel and in the course of a conversation stated that while a young man living in England he was engaged to marry a woman who had died before the date set for the wedding, and it was his ardent desire to converse with her.

The medium granted him a sitting. Mr. Thorp afterwards, in speaking of the occurrence, said he met his sweetheart in the form of a materialized spirit.

About a dozen sittings were had at different towns.

At Chicago Mr. Thorp consulted the medium, and after telling her that he had gained the consent of his former sweetheart he requested that a marriage ceremony be performed.

This being a new departure in spiritualism, the medium doubted that the arrangements proposed by Mr. Thorp could be carried out. She, however, expressed a willingness to further test her powers as a medium, so she granted Mr. Thorp a trial, setting the place for the wedding in this city.

On the afternoon preceding the event Mr. Thorp arrived in Cincinnati and after consulting with the medium, went to a florist and ordered an abundance of flowers to adorn the room in which he was to be married. The test was to be made at 9 o'clock in the evening. At 8 o'clock those who were bidden assembled, less than a dozen persons being present.

At 8:30 o'clock Mr. Thorp arrived.

Mr. Thorp was stationed at a point near the cabinet. For some time all sat silently in the darkness and gazed attentively towards the cabinet expecting some manifestation.

At last a sound like the rustling of a curtain was heard. It was the cabinet being opened.

Through the aperture came a phosphorescent light, the soft rays faintly illuminating the face and form of Mr. Thorp and giving him a ghostly appearance. His face was then turned toward the cabinet.

Those who witnessed the strange proceedings were startled upon beholding just to his right the faint outline of a form which seemed to develop in the soft light until it bore the appearance of a young woman clothed in a robe of spotless white. Her hair was dark and her face, while it appeared deathlike, wore a smile of satisfaction.

Just in front of where the two were standing another form, that of an elderly man suddenly became visible and it, too, grew plainer as the moments passed until it resembled the form of one in flesh. This was the person who was to officiate at the wedding.

The ceremony was much after the ordinary style of conducting marriages without the ring. At the conclusion of the ceremony the minister raised his hands above the heads of the bride and groom as though pronouncing a benediction on the union.

The two materialized forms then slowly vanished away as they had come.

(Copyright 1896 by Associated Press.)

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 5.—If the ruling of Judge Foute of Atlanta obtains, hypnotists will have to be very careful what they order their subjects to do. The judge holds that the hypnotist is directly responsible for the acts of his subjects.

During a performance at a local theater the subject of a hypnotist imagined he was a monkey. He grabbed a hat off a man in the audience and bit a piece out of it.

The professor and his business manager declined to make good the cost of the hat and the hypnotist was prosecuted before Judge Foute upon a charge of malicious mischief.

The judge sustained the charge and bound the hypnotist over to a higher court.

INDIANS IN CONFLICT.

Indications of a Pitched Battle Between the Opposing Forces.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—A special to the Herald from Tuskahoma, I. T., says:

The trouble which has been brewing for some months between the full bloods and squadmen of the Choctaw Nation has broken out more violently than ever, and unless indications fail there will be serious bloodshed.

The full bloods, who have control of the Council, passed laws cutting the squawmen from off their landed property, and made provision for evicting them.

When the first attempt at eviction was made a few weeks ago, there was a clash in the streets of this city, in which several squawmen were killed and many on both sides more or less injured.

Then comparative quiet reigned for a time, but when the attempt to evict the squawmen was renewed this week trouble broke out again.

There has been a number of conflicts during the past few days, and an unknown number on both sides have been hurt, while it is reported that several have been killed.

Both sides have been gathering their forces during the week, and are preparing for a pitched battle, which is expected today or tomorrow.

Citizens of the town have appealed to the Federal authorities and troops will be sent at once.

There are several troops of cavalry at Fort Reno in camp on Pond Creek, forty miles from here, and they are expected in time to take a hand in the disturbance.

The Ladies' League resumed business last Tuesday evening in the Town Hall, after its summer vacation. Mrs. Mae Beck occupied the chair. Mrs. Savage held the Secretary's chair, and Miss Smith served as Treasurer. The attendance and interest was encouraging. The evening was spent mostly in discussing ways and means to help the library cause. The opinion was generally expressed that the League was too good a thing to let drop and that at this time the free library needed its support more than ever. Mrs. Jordan, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Coffman, Miss Moore and Mrs. Savage all talked in this strain. In response to Miss Moore's question, the Secretary stated that there were sixty-four members of the Ladies' League.

More than twenty years ago an eminent scientist, Prof. Yates of the Smithsonian Institute, while on a brief visit to this valley, declared that it was a natural oil district, and predicted that in time great wealth would be produced here by the development of these oil lands. Prof. Yates came to Livermore Valley in quest of a great natural curiosity, which it was reported our fellow citizen, Valentine Alviso had discovered. The San Francisco papers had reported that Mr. Alviso had found on his farm just north of this town the petrified tooth of a mastodon, or antediluvian elephant. It weighed over twenty pounds, and was a most rare and perfect specimen. It was to secure this relic for the great museum at Washington that Prof. Yates came to Livermore and sought Mr. Alviso, who received him most hospitably at his home for several days. The scientist was delighted to receive as a present from Mr. Alviso's hands the wonderful tooth of an extinct race of mammoths that inhabited this part of the earth thousands of years ago.

The movement made by the Ladies' League of Progress of Livermore to bring about a debate on the money question in this town for the benefit of the free library is shaping itself all right. Judge Gibson of Oakland has already accepted the invitation of the free silver champions to stand for that side of the question. The sound money position will be championed by a Republican orator of State wide reputation. The debate will probably take place in Farmers' Union Hall, Saturday evening, October 17th.

The club meets every week for business purposes, and the members conduct their proceedings in strict accordance with parliamentary law. The society has under serious consideration the project of giving an entertainment soon for the benefit of the free library.

A MENACE TO MONEY.

Judge Noble Hamilton on the Work of Bryan.

THE REAL ISSUE IS SHOWN.

WHAT LABOR IS DOING.

Reasons for Voting Solidly for McKinley and Hobart.

Editor Tribune, Sir:—Having in a former article attempted to show that our condition was not the result of the alleged demonetization of silver, I will now endeavor to show what was the cause of all our trouble. It seems to me that it was the result of giving the control of the National Government to the Democratic party in the year 1892, upon a platform adopted by the convention of that party at Chicago, denouncing a tariff for protection "as unconstitutional and a fraud," intensified by the repeal of the so-called McKinley bill, and the enactment of the Wilson tariff, with its six hundred amendments. The threat contained in the Democratic platform against all protected industries, created a panic among such manufactories as was never witnessed in this country from a like cause, so alarming it grew that the President called Congress in extra session, he attributing it to the Sherman act, authorizing the purchase of four and a half million silver bullion per month. It will be remembered that he said the alarm was groundless, that the country was in most prosperous condition, that we had met with no national disaster, labor was fully employed at good wages, the farms were never more productive, and said the repeal of the silver purchasing power in the Sherman act would restore confidence and prosperity.

It was repealed, but his bright anticipations were not realized on the contrary matters have been growing worse, and worse ever since. This but demonstrates that he had not reached the cause—had not properly diagnosed the case.

When Mr Cleveland was elected President in 1884, he no doubt entertained the same opinions upon tariff that he did when elected in 1892. His election at that time created no distrust, no disturbance of business or finance, because there was a Republican Congress to make the laws, and whatever policy he would like to pursue must meet the approval of the Republican Congress. Hence, men engaged in manufactures under protective tariff felt no alarm. There was no interference with the tariff, and his administration was a prosperous one, so much so that almost every one conceded that he had made a good President, and his reelection seemed almost an assured fact until he wrote his free trade letter to the convention that met and nominated him at St. Louis in 1888. At the close of his first administration the national treasury was full to overflowing so much so that he warned the people that so much money in the national treasury was a menace to the perpetuity of our government. He was defeated in that election by Mr Harrison, and prosperity and contest was our portion for another four years. Under President Harrison the Republicans tried their hand at tariff reform, and, as a result, enacted the McKinley bill.

The Democratic orators and press denounced the McKinley law as a law that would stifle foreign trade. The first complete fiscal year of that law's operation gave the largest foreign trade ever known. They said it would increase the tariff taxes, in fact it decreased them more than thirty million dollars annually. That it was worse than the war tariff. Under its operations a larger percentage of our foreign trade was free than ever before in the history of the United States.

The Bureau of Statistics of the Treasury Department shows that for the fiscal year ending June 30 1892, our exports amounted to the sum of one billion, thirty million, three hundred and thirty-five thousand, six hundred and twenty-two dollars, and our imports to 827 million 441 thousand 288 dollars, leaving the balance of trade in our favor, in the sum of $202 944 842. So much for Democratic guessing as to what would be the effect of the McKinley law. Under this law every spindle was running to full capacity, the wages paid to labor was in excess of two thousand million dollars, there were upwards of four million seven hundred thousand employees, and their output was in excess of nine thousand million dollars—more than all the gold and silver money in all the world.

A gentleman engaged in the business of purchasing American manufactured woolen cloths, visited these manufactories in the month of August 1892, for the object of making purchases. He visited a number of the largest establishments in New York and the New England States, and was informed that every yard of cloth that they could manufacture for twelve months ahead was sold, and he could not make a purchase. When he inquired why they did not extend their plants, the reply was that a presidential election was at hand, and if the Democrats should succeed, they had more than they wanted, and would cease business. It is asserted that seven-eighths of these manufactories have closed down since the election of Mr. Cleveland, upon his platform, hostile to protection, turning out of employment of the various manufactories that have ceased business over two million wage workers, and withdrawing from circulation over one thousand million dollars which these laborers were wont to receive as wages. It will be found upon close investigation that I have understated the number of persons thrown out of employment, as also the wages withdrawn.

This, coupled with general distrust and loss of confidence, in my judgment, was the cause of all our distress. On the other hand, the effect produced upon the manufactories of European countries, especially England, is evidenced by the fact that but recently an importer of San Francisco sent to one of the largest manufactories in London an order amounting to forty thousand dollars, for the purchase of woolen goods, tweeds, and the like. He received a reply that his order could not be filled, that every spindle was running to its full capacity, and that every yard of cloth that they could manufacture was sold for eighteen months ahead.

You will remember that the English press and people were loud in their denunciation of the McKinley law, and of McKinley himself, so that it would have been unpleasant for him to have visited that country.

The Wilson bill and its author were lauded by the English press and people, and Mr Wilson, when he visited England, after the passage of his bill, was toasted and feasted by both press and people. Does this fact not show in whose interest the Wilson bill was, and in whose interest the McKinley bill was—the one in the interest of England, and the other in the interest of the United States.

The doctrine of the free trader is based upon the fraternity of the whole race of man, and the mutual obligation to assist each other. If that be sound doctrine, then what justification have we for excluding the Chinamen from our country? While it will not be denied that the Holy Bible teaches that of one flesh He created all nations, it is also true that He fixed the bounds of their habitation. Self-preservation is claimed to be the first law of nature, and if so, it is as applicable to nations as to individuals. Therefore, to prevent the competition of the Chinamen with our laborers, we drive him out of the country. And why should we not, in order to furnish employment for our own kith and kin, make foreign nations pay a license to vend their goods in our market, when by permitting them to come in free we deprive our own people of the opportunity to earn wages by the manufacture of goods for our own markets?

There is a class of our fellow citizens that seem carried with the word "free." It is a most comprehensive and fascinating word no other perhaps in the language possesses such charm but, like the word liberty, it may be used to assist a bad cause. In the palmy days of the great national democratic party, we had "Free trade and sailors' rights" as the party shibboleth under which the occasional interruption that party controlled the destinies of the Republic for half a century.

The Republican party was organized and became a national party, and in 1856 nominated Fremont for the presidency. The shibboleth of that party was not free trade, but was free speech free soil and Fremont, and although unsuccessful in that election, the party exhibited such strength as made them a power not to be despised, and four years thereafter they elected Abraham Lincoln President of the United States.

Now the men who have wrested the control of the Democratic party from the ablest expounders of the faith, are not as of yore advocating free trade but free coinage of silver and the supporters of Mr Bryan are led to believe that they are to have silver free, without any necessity of laboring to obtain it. But you must reflect that neither silver nor gold can be coined without mints, employing hundreds of persons at great expense, which the rest of the people have to pay. So that free coinage is only free to the possessor of silver bullion, at the expense of the Government—which is at the expense of the whole people of the United States. This might be tolerated if it was confined to the silver produced in our own country and to encourage silver mining by our own people, but when you throw our mints open to the world, as is sought by Mr Bryan and his supporters it is time to call a halt and see where we are at or where we are drifting.

The only safe thing for a patriot to do on election day is to vote for McKinley and Hobart electors, and then we will know exactly where we are at and then we may confidently expect return of prosperity to the nation.

Yours truly,
NOBLE HAMILTON.

An Effort Is Being Made to Collect From Insane Patients

Three large bills for the maintenance of insane patients from Alameda County at Agnews have been sent for collection to the State Treasury and they have in turn been forwarded to the Attorney General's office for the purpose of being passed on as to their legality.

The bills are for caring for Catharine Meigher from 1888 to 1896, $1,395, for Mary Spangler from 1891 to 1896, $765; Jane Donohue from 1889 to 1896, $1,206-50. The amount charged per month is $15.

The Attorney General asks District Attorney Snook to inquire into the condition of the estates of these patients and shows in the case of Catharine Meigher who formerly resided at 528 Seventh street, letters of administration in the estate were granted to Louis Gotschall at that time Public Administrator. In the case of Mary Spangler Bridget Clougherty was appointed guardian.

If it should prove that the estates in question are able to satisfy these demands, they will be held responsible for the amounts in question.

A MENACE TO MONEY.

Judge Noble Hamilton on the Work of Bryan.

THE REAL ISSUE IS SHOWN.

WHAT LABOR IS DOING.

Reasons for Voting Solidly for McKinley and Hobart.

Editor Tribune, Sir:—Having in a former article attempted to show that our condition was not the result of the alleged demonetization of silver, I will now endeavor to show what was the cause of all our trouble. It seems to me that it was the result of giving the control of the National Government to the Democratic party in the year 1892, upon a platform adopted by the convention of that party at Chicago, denouncing a tariff for protection "as unconstitutional and a fraud," intensified by the repeal of the so-called McKinley bill, and the enactment of the Wilson tariff, with its six hundred amendments. The threat contained in the Democratic platform against all protected industries, created a panic among such manufacturies as was never witnessed in this country from a like cause; so alarming it grew that the President called Congress in extra session, he attributing it to the Sherman act, authorizing the purchase of four and a half million silver bullion per month. It will be remembered that he said the alarm was groundless, that the country was in most prosperous condition, that we had met with no national disaster, labor was fully employed at good wages, the farms were never more productive, and said the repeal of the silver purchasing power in the Sherman act would restore confidence and prosperity.

It was repealed, but his bright anticipations were not realized; on the contrary, matters have been growing worse, and worse ever since. This but demonstrates that he had not reached the cause—had not properly diagnosed the case.

When Mr. Cleveland was elected President in 1884, he no doubt entertained the same opinions upon tariff that he did when elected in 1892. His election at that time created no distrust, no disturbance of business or finance, because there was a Republican Congress to make the laws, and whatever policy the world like to pursue must meet the approval of the Republican Congress. Hence, men engaged in manufacturies under protective tariff felt no alarm. There was no interference with the tariff, and his administration was a prosperous one, so much so that almost every one conceded that he had made a good President, and his reelection seemed almost an assured fact, until he wrote his free trade letter to the convention that met and nominated him at St. Louis in 1888. At the close of his first administration the national treasury was full to overflowing, so much so that he warned the people that so much money in the national treasury was a menace to the perpetuity of our government. He was defeated in that election by Mr. Harrison, and prosperity and content was our portion for another four years. Under President Harrison the Republicans tried their hand at tariff reform, and, as a result, enacted the McKinley bill.

The Democratic orators and press denounced the McKinley law as a law that would stifle foreign trade. The first complete fiscal year of that law's operation gave the largest foreign trade ever known. They said it would increase the tariff taxes; in fact, it decreased them more than thirty million dollars annually. That it was worse than the war tariff. Under its operations a larger percentage of our foreign trade was freer than ever before in the history of the United States.

The Bureau of Statistics of the Treasury Department shows that for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, our exports amounted to the sum of one billion, thirty million, three hundred and thirty-five thousand, six hundred and twenty-two dollars, and our imports to 827 million, 441 thousand 288 dollars; leaving the balance of trade in our favor, in the sum of $202,044,842. So much for Democratic guessing as to what would be the effect of the McKinley law. Under this law every spindle was running to full capacity, the wages paid to labor was in excess of two thousand million dollars; there were upwards of four million seven hundred thousand employees, and their output was in excess of nine thousand million dollars—more than all the gold and silver money in all the world.

A gentleman engaged in the business of purchasing American manufactured woolen cloths, visited these manufactories in the month of August, 1892, for the object of making purchases. He visited a number of the largest establishments in New York and the New England States, and was informed that every yard of cloth that they could manufacture for twelve months ahead was sold, and he could not make a purchase. When he inquired why they did not extend their plants, the reply was that a presidential election was at hand, and if the Democrats should succeed, they had more than they wanted, and would cease business. It is asserted that seven-eighths of these manufactories have closed down since the election of Mr. Cleveland, upon his platform hostile to protection, turning out of employment of the various manufactories that have ceased business over two million wage workers, and withdrawing from circulation over one thousand million dollars which these laborers were wont to receive as wages. It will be found upon close investigation that I have understated the number of persons thrown out of employment, as also the wages withdrawn.

This, coupled with general distrust and loss of confidence, in my judgment, was the cause of all our distress. On the other hand, the effect produced upon the manufactories of European countries, especially England, is evidenced by the fact that but recently an importer of San Francisco sent to one of the largest manufactories in London an order amounting to forty thousand dollars, for the purchase of woolen goods, tweeds, and the like. He received a reply that his order could not be filled; that every spindle was running to its full capacity, and that every yard of cloth that they could manufacture was sold for eighteen months ahead.

You will remember that the English press and people were loud in their denunciation of the McKinley law, and of McKinley himself, so that it would have been unpleasant for him to have visited that country.

The Wilson bill and its author were lauded by the English press and people, and Mr. Wilson, when he visited England, after the passage of his bill, was toasted and feasted by both press and people. Does this fact not show in whose interest the Wilson bill was, and in whose interest the McKinley bill was—the one in the interest of England, and the other in the interest of the United States.

The doctrine of the free trader is based upon the fraternity of the whole race of man, and the mutual obligation to assist each other. If that be sound doctrine, then what justification have we for excluding the Chinamen from our country? While it will not be denied that the Holy Bible teaches that of one flesh He created all nations, it is also true that He fixed the bounds of their habitation. Self-preservation is claimed to be the first law of nature, and if so, it is as applicable to nations as to individuals. Therefore, to prevent the competition of the Chinamen with our laborers, we drive him out of the country. And why should we not, in order to furnish employment for our own kith and kin, make foreign nations pay a license to vend their goods in our market, when by permitting them to come in free we deprive our own people of the opportunity to earn wages by the manufacture of goods for our own markets?

There is a class of our fellow citizens that seem carried with the word "free." It is a most comprehensive and fascinating word; no other perhaps in the language possesses such charm, but, like the word liberty, it may be used to assist a bad cause. In the palmy days of the great national democratic party, we had "Free trade and sailors' rights" as the party shibboleth under which the occasional interruption that party controlled the destinies of the Republic for half a century.

The Republican party was organized and became a national party, and in 1856 nominated Fremont for the presidency. The shibboleth of that party was not free trade, but was free speech, free soil and Fremont, and although unsuccessful in that election, the party exhibited such strength as made them a power not to be despised, and four years thereafter they elected Abraham Lincoln President of the United States.

Now, the men who have wrested the control of the Democratic party from the ablest expounders of the faith, are not as of yore advocating free trade, but free coinage of silver, and the supporters of Mr. Bryan are led to believe that they are to have silver free, without any necessity of laboring to obtain it. But you must reflect that neither silver nor gold can be coined without mints, employing hundreds of persons, at great expense, which the rest of the people have to pay. So that free coinage is only free to the possessor of silver bullion, at the expense of the Government—which is at the expense of the whole people of the United States. This might be tolerated if it was confined to the silver produced in our own country, and to encourage silver mining by our own people, but when you throw our mints open to the world, as is sought by Mr. Bryan and his supporters, it is time to call a halt, and see where we are at, or where we are drifting.

The only safe thing for a patriot to do on election day is to vote for McKinley and Hobart electors, and then we will know exactly where we are at, and then we may confidently expect return of prosperity to the nation.

Yours truly,

TO CHARGE THEIR ESTATES

An Effort Is Being Made to Collect From Insane Patients.

Three large bills for the maintenance of insane patients from Alameda County at Agnews have been sent for collection to the State Treasury and they have in turn been forwarded to the Attorney General's office for the purpose of being passed on as to their legality.

The bills are for caring for Catharine Meigher from 1888 to 1896, $1,395; for Mary Spangler from 1891 to 1896, $765; Jane Donohue from 1889 to 1896, $1,206.50. The amount charged per month is $15.

The Attorney General asks District Attorney Snook to inquire into the condition of the estates of these patients and shows in the case of Catharine Meigher who formerly resided at 528 Seventh street, letters of administration in the estate were granted to Louis Gotschall at that time Public Administrator. In the case of Mary Spangler, Bridget Clougherty was appointed guardian.

If it should prove that the estates in question are able to satisfy these demands, they will be held responsible for the amounts in question.

CONSCIOUSNESS CENTERS.

The following are extracts from a lecture delivered at Syndicate Hall yesterday by Dr. W. W. Garbe, his subject being "The other side of death:"

The term soul indicates a center of consciousness which may be very simple—as the soul of a single cell; or very complex—as the soul of an animal, which is the united consciousness of all the cells which compose the animal body. In the animal a single soul tries to synthetize its consciousness. In man we have a double soul, or two centers of consciousness. One soul is purely animal. The other is spiritual. The animal soul we can trace through all the lower kingdoms of Nature. Associated with this, in man, we have a superior consciousness, a soul that did not develop or devolve through these lower forms. The Darwinian theory of evolution, with some amendments, serves very well to account for the lower animal soul in man, but absolutely fails to solve the great mystery of the intellectual reasoning soul, the thinker, the real immortal ego.

This world is the great battle-ground for the soul. "For the sake of the soul alone the universe exists," says Patanjala. While in this world we create conditions for ourselves, that not only prevail here but also govern on the other side of death. Action is followed by reaction; this is the Karmic law. Thought is the root of all action. We never perform any voluntary act that we have not first thought about. Hence, thought is the real creative energy in the universe. No energy can be annihilated, least of all thought energy; this must somewhere find an outlet. Now, as we cannot gather the whole harvest of our thoughts on this plane, the earth, there must be, somewhere, other fields to reap. These fields exist on the other side of death. Sleep and death are similar conditions. In sleep there is a temporary separation of the dual souls. During deep sleep the ego is released from its prison, the body and functions, on other planes, as is clearly indicated in our dreams. At death there is a more thorough and permanent separation of the principles constituting the human soul.

At the moment of death the union between the higher and lower soul is relaxed, and for a short period the higher acts independently. During this period the higher soul acts as judge. The whole drama of the life, just closed, pass in panorama review before the judgment seat. Unfluenced by passion or desire, the higher soul calmly observes the acts of the whole life, and renders impartial judgment, which is at once recorded on Nature's great photographic negative, the astral light. In this astral light are photographed every thought, as, also, every event in the life of all creatures that pass through earth life. The astral light is nature's workshop. From the thought pictures stored therein are moulded all forms that appear on earth, and thus it is that "coming events do cast their shadows before." On separating from the physical body, the soul drops into profound unconsciousness of longer or shorter duration. One class of human beings do not pass beyond this borderland of death, but almost immediately reincarnate again and begin another life on earth.

To this class belong the scientific materialists, idiots, and infants who have not reached the age of reason. The oft repeated text, "Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap," applies here, for the scientists who assert, and believe, that after the death of the body no consciousness survives have simply uttered an unconscious prophecy. "As a man thinketh, so he is." The infant having no reason has made no thought pictures, has sown no seed, and hence has no harvest to reap. The idiot is in the same category. Life in each case has been a failure, and so they must begin anew. In the case of the ordinary individual, the sleep, spoken of above, soon terminates and the soul awakens to find itself in the world of desires. This world is peopled by all kinds and descriptions of elemental beings. This is the formative world, here every being that is to appear on earth assumes an astral form.

Desire is king of this realm, and it is here that all material desires take form. These desires, however, can only be gratified in earth life, and consequently every being in this world is striving to reach the earth plane. The reasoning soul on its arrival here after death can find no place for rest, and struggles to release itself from the body of desires to which it finds itself attached.

This release may be accomplished soon, or the struggle may last for many years, depending altogether upon causes set up during earth life. The human soul is endowed with reason and conscience; the animal soul with desire and instinct. After the union of the two souls in a human body reason soon destroys instinct and assumes the control of all the affairs of the body; conscience and desire become his counsellors—one tries to elevate the soul, the other strives to drag it down.

If reason heeds the voice of conscience, it builds up a strong, spiritual entity which cannot long be held in bondage in the world of desires; in that case the soul soon gravitates to its normal plane, the psychic or mental world. On the contrary, if reason chooses desire as guide it may soon be immersed in the slough of lust, selfishness, greed, and all the animal passions, in which case it may have to struggle many weary years before it gains its liberty from the world of desires.

The ego, on disentangling itself from the animal soul, passes on to a higher plane, the psychic or mental world, called in Eastern literature Devachan; this world corresponds to the Christians heaven. Before entering this new world which the ego has now reached, let us pause a moment to learn what befalls the animal soul. Deserted by its lifelong companion, deprived of its guiding intelligence, it is now a mere empty shell, the astral image of its former body. This shell, if left to itself, soon fades out, leaving only an astral picture. This picture, however, retains the karmic essence of its former lives. This essence, known as skandas, forms the basis for a new astral body, to be used by the ego, on its return to earth, after completing its period of rest in Devachan.

We left the ego soul just at the threshold of Devachan. Wearied and exhausted from its recent struggle with the fierce animal desires, it now falls into a peaceful slumber, from which it gradually awakens to a full realization of its blissful condition. It must be remembered that this is a world of pure mentality; material desires find here no lodgment. Having left behind both physical and astral bodies, the pure soul can suffer no pain nor sorrow in this world of subjective happiness. As all desires take form in Kama Loka, the world of desires, so in Devachan all spiritual and mental aspirations bloom out into full and glorious flower.

This must be so, otherwise energy would be destroyed or annihilated, a conclusion that is illogical and impossible, for action and reaction are equal under all conditions.

Therefore, the length of time passed by each ego in Devachan varies in proportion to the amount of unexhausted energy stored up during earth life. Thoughts are seeds, that in time germinate and crystallize into physical forms. Every plant and flower, shrub and tree, is the product of human thoughts. Every mountain, valley, or plain scattered over the face of our beautiful earth are materialized thoughts, as much so as are the architectural structures that compose our cities the product of human thoughts. On earth we sow the seeds; those of rapid growth will soon mature, others require a longer time to develop. Those of rapid growth spring into maturity during our short earth life, the others we watch over and see them slowly assume a form on the other side of death. Our grosser thoughts we leave in the world of desires, as astral pictures, our higher spiritual thoughts we watch in Devachan. We see them spring into life, clothed in celestial forms, we watch them as they develop toward maturity; we revel in their exquisite beauty, we are intoxicated with our lovely surroundings and give no heed to time. But, in time, the seeds have all matured, and our pleasures are exhausted, and we are forced to again return to earth to sow a new crop.

TALKS OF A MURDER.

The Remarkable Hallucination That Has Seized Mrs. Ralph.

County Clerk Jordan was requested this morning to interest himself in the case of Mrs. Ralph, the elderly lady on Tenth and Franklin streets, who recently was brought before the Commission in Lunacy but who was pronounced not insane. Some friends of the lady want the County Clerk to get up a petition as a means of raising money with which to pay her fare back to her friends in the East.

Some months ago Mrs. Ralph attracted considerable attention in this city by forcing upon the people the story that her son had deserted his wife in Dixon, Nebraska, had come out here and had been murdered in the free clinic at the southwest corner of Tenth and Franklin streets. At the time, Mrs. Ralph lived on the floor above the clinic and stoutly asserted that when her son was being killed by persons whom she did not know, she could distinctly hear his cries for help but she was powerless to render him any assistance. She sought to get the newspapers and the police to run down the alleged murderers, but only convinced them that her mind was deranged.

Some weeks ago, Mrs. Ralph was convinced, by a letter from Nebraska that her son was not dead. She has relatives near Dixon in that State and a married daughter residing in San Francisco.

Further notice is hereby given that the Board of Supervisors reserves the right to reject any or all bids as the public interest may require.

CONSCIOUSNESS CENTERS.

The term soul indicates a center of consciousness which may be very simple—as the soul of a single cell, or very complex—as the soul of an animal, which is the united consciousness of all the cells which compose the animal body In the animal a single soul tries to synthetize its consciousness In man we have a double soul, or two centers of consciousness. One soul is purely animal The other is spiritual The animal soul we can trace through all the lower kingdoms of Nature Associated with this, in man, we have a superior consciousness, a soul that did not develop or devolve through these lower forms. The Darwinian theory of evolution, with some amendments, serves very well to account for the lower animal soul in man, but absolutely fails to solve the great mystery of the intellectual reasoning soul, the thinker, the real immortal ego

This world is the great battle-ground for the soul. "For the sake of the soul alone the universe exists," says Patanjala. While in this world we create conditions for ourselves, that not only prevail here but also govern on the other side of death. Action is followed by reaction; this is the Karmic law. Thought is the root of all action We never perform any voluntary act that we have not first thought about. Hence, thought is the real creative energy in the universe No energy can be annihilated, least of all thought energy, this must somewhere find an outlet Now, as we cannot gather the whole harvest of our thoughts on this plane, the earth, there must be, somewhere, other fields to reap These fields exist on the other side of death Sleep and death are similar conditions In sleep there is a temporary separation of the dual souls During deep sleep the ego is released from its prison, the body and functions, on other planes, as is clearly indicated in our dreams At death there is a more thorough and permanent separation of the principles constituting the human soul

At the moment of death the union between the higher and lower soul is relaxed, and for a short period the higher acts independently During this period the higher soul acts as judge The whole drama of the life, just closed, pass in panoramic review before the judgment seat Unfluenced by passion or desire, the higher soul calmly observes the acts of the whole life, and renders impartial judgment, which is at once recorded on Nature's great photographic negative, the astral light In this astral light are photographed every thought, as, also, every event in the life of all creatures that pass through earth life. The astral light is nature's workshop, from the thought pictures stored therein are moulded all forms that appear on earth, and thus it is that "coming events do cast their shadows before" On separating from the physical body, the soul drops into profound unconsciousness of longer or shorter duration One class of human beings do not pass beyond this borderland of death, but almost immediately reincarnate again and begin another life on earth

To this class belong the scientific materialists, idiots, and infants who have not reached the age of reason. The oft repeated text, "Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap," applies here, for the scientists who assert, and believe, that after the death of the body no consciousness survives have simply uttered an unconscious prophecy. "As a man thinketh, so he is" The infant having no reason has made no thought pictures, has sown no seed, and hence has no harvest to reap The idiot is in the same category Life in each case has been a failure, and so they must begin anew In the case of the ordinary individual, the sleep, spoken of above, soon terminates and the soul awakens to find itself in the world of desires This world is peopled by all kinds and descriptions of elemental beings This is the formative world, here every being that is to appear on earth assumes an astral form

Desire is king of this realm, and it is here that all material desires take form. These desires, however, can only be gratified in earth life, and consequently every being in this world is striving to reach the earth plane The reasoning soul on its arrival here after death can find no place for rest, and struggles to release itself from the body of desires to which it finds itself attached

This release may be accomplished soon, or the struggle may last for many years, depending altogether upon causes set up during earth life The human soul is endowed with reason and conscience; the animal soul with desire and instinct After the union of the two souls in a human body reason soon destroys instinct and assumes the control of all the affairs of the body, conscience and desire become his counsellors—one tries to elevate the soul, the other strives to drag it down.

If reason heeds the voice of conscience, it builds up a strong, spiritual entity which cannot long be held in bondage in the world of desires, in that case the soul soon gravitates to its normal plane, the psychic or mental world On the contrary, if reason chooses desire as guide it may soon be immersed in the slough of lust, selfishness, greed, and all the animal passions, in which case it may have to struggle many weary years before it gains its liberty from the world of desires

The ego, on disentangling itself from the animal soul, passes on to a higher plane, the psychic or mental world, called in Eastern literature Devachan, this world corresponds to the Christians heaven. Before entering this new world which the ego has now reached, let us pause a moment to learn what befalls the animal soul Deserted by its fellow companion, deprived of its guiding intelligence, it is now a mere empty shell, the astral image of its former body. This shell, if left to itself, soon fades out, leaving only an astral picture This picture, however, retains the karmic essence of its former lives. This essence, known as Kamdas, forms the basis for a new astral body, to be used by the ego, on its return to earth, after completing its period of rest in Devachan

We left the ego soul just at the threshold of Devachan Wearied and exhausted from its recent struggle with the fierce animal desires, it now falls into a peaceful slumber, from which it gradually awakens to a full realization of its blissful condition It must be remembered that this is a world of pure mentality, material desires find there no lodgment. Having left behind both physical and astral bodies, the pure soul can suffer no pain nor sorrow in this world of subjective happiness. As all desires take form in Kama Loka, the world of desires, so in Devachan all spiritual and mental aspirations bloom out into full and glorious flower

This must be so, otherwise energy would be destroyed or annihilated, a conclusion that is illogical and impossible, for action and reaction are equal under all conditions

Therefore, the length of time passed by each ego in Devachan varies in proportion to the amount of unexhausted energy stored up during earth life Thoughts are seeds, that in time germinate and crystalize into physical forms. Every plant and flower, shrub and tree, is the product of human thoughts. Every mountain, valley, or plain scattered over the face of our beautiful earth are materialized thoughts, as much so as are the architectural structures that compose our cities the product of human thoughts. On earth we sow the seeds, those of rapid growth will soon mature, others require a longer time to develop. Those of rapid growth spring into maturity during our short earth life, the others we watch over and see them slowly assume a form on the other side of death Our grosser thoughts we leave in the world of desires, as astral pictures, our higher spiritual thoughts we watch in Devachan. We see them springing into life, clothed in celestial forms we watch them as they develop toward maturity; we revel in their exquisite beauty we are intoxicated with our lovely surroundings and give no heed to time But, in time, the seeds have all matured, and our pleasures are exhausted, and we are forced to again return to earth to sow a new crop.

TALKS OF A MURDER.

The Remarkable Hallucination That Has Seized Mrs. Ralph

County Clerk Jordan was requested this morning to interest himself in the case of Mrs. Ralph, the elderly lady on Tenth and Franklin streets, who recently was brought before the Commission in Lunacy but who was pronounced not insane Some friends of the lady want the County Clerk to get up a petition as a means of raising money with which to pay her fare back to her friends in the East.

Some months ago Mrs Ralph attracted considerable attention in this city by forcing upon the people the story that her son had deserted his wife in Dixon, Nebraska, had come out here and had been murdered in the free clinic at the southwest corner of Tenth and Franklin streets At the time, Mrs Ralph lived on the floor above the clinic and stoutly asserted that when her son was being killed by persons whom she did not know, she could distinctly hear his cries for help but she was powerless to render him any assistance She sought to get the newspapers and the police to run down the alleged murderers, but only convinced them that her mind was deranged.

Some weeks ago, Mrs. Ralph was convinced, by a letter from Nebraska that her son was not dead She has relatives near Dixon in that State and a married daughter residing in San Francisco

IN UNITY IS STRENGTH.

The Plan to Consolidate the Labor Unions of Chicago.

By Associated Press to The Tribune

CHICAGO, Oct 5—On and after November 1st the Chicago Trade and Labor Assembly will cease to exist. A resolution to that effect was adopted at the Sunday meeting without opposition

The resolution providing for the surrender of the charter was introduced by Delegate Pomeroy, who presented a letter from President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, recommending that action be taken This letter is addressed to the individual labor unions of the city, and in part says

"No one can view the present situation in the labor movement of Chicago without a feeling akin to humiliation Perhaps in few places of the United States are the workers better organized in their respective trade unions, yet in consequence of the divisions in the general movement, the interests of all labor suffer Every effort has been made to unite the central bodies upon a basis fair to each, but without success

'Recognizing how important is unity in the labor movement, we now appeal to the labor unions direct for the purpose of securing from you an expression of opinion whether you are in favor of the formation of one central body to take the place of the two now existing in the city of Chicago

"Recognizing how futile any attempt would be to bring about unity at once, we desire to say that if the responses to this circular are favorable, a meeting will be called for November 9, 1896, announcing the time and place of meeting'

Delegate Pomeroy's resolution was to the effect that the recommendations in President Gompers letter be complied with, and that November 1st be set as the date upon which the assembly would turn over its charter, records, etc, to a representative of the American Federation, and thereby end its existence as a corporate body

The resolution also contained a clause pledging the delegates to the assembly to use their best efforts as individuals to further the plan for a new organization as proposed in the letter of Mr Gompers irrespective of the attitude of the Labor Congress Pomeroy's resolution, after some discussion, was adopted.

THE DORE DRAWINGS.

Great Success of the Exhibit During the Chicago Season.

The Collection of Masterpieces Is Now to Go to Boston.

CHICAGO, Oct 5—The famous collection of Dore paintings and drawings, after nine months' successful exhibit, closed yesterday, and today the work of packing and shipping the huge canvasses will begin

The collection goes to Boston, where it will be hung in Copley Hall for an indefinite engagement.

From the first, great crowds have attended the exhibit, and a close estimate places the number of visitors during the period at 1,500,000, an average of 6,000 a day, which is said by the management to be approximately correct

The largest day's attendance was on April 12th, when 16,200 people were present.

It is probable that the collection will be exhibited in several other large cities before being sent back to London.

LINED UP AT LAST.

INCORPORATION IS EFFECTED.

AN ASSESSMENT IS MADE.

The California heirs of the Aneke-Jans Trinity and Harlem properties located in New York are commencing to see their way clear to lay claim to the $500,000,000 estate that is waiting for some one The Oakland claimants are particularly active just at present, and expect before long to have matters shaped so that they will be ready to present their cases to the courts

A meeting of over forty of the heirs was held last week at 920 Post street, San Francisco, and a definite plan of action was mapped out It was decided to incorporate all the Pacific Coast aspirants to the millions, under the name of the Pacific Coast Heirs of the Aneke Jans Bogardus Estates Association, though the amount of capital stock has not as yet been decided upon

The Directors who have been chosen are Jesse S Halstead, H O Brower L M McKenney, H H Francisco and J L Wetmore

Sufficient money was subscribed to legally complete the corporation, and the matter will be pushed forward with vigor

It was also decided to send J G Evans of Los Angeles to New York, there to look out for the interests of the Western heirs and to complete the genealogical tree so that when everything else is in readiness there will be no hitch regarding the rights of the claimants

At the meeting General W H H Hart urged the members of the association to hasten action In his report, he declared positively that the property and cash was justly due and that New York's State Secretary, who now is holding some of the valuables had asked him why the heirs did not claim what belonged to them

There have been two stumbling blocks in the way of immediate progress One was the lack of funds and the other the fact that several valuable documents necessary for complete proof of heirship had been lost

The latter General Hart has located in an Eastern State and will have them on hand at the next meeting

The former obstacle will be bridged over by the formation of a corporation

In Ohio and New York two incorporated bodies of heirs are a ready in existence, but without the assistance of the California people interested nothing can be done As a consequence, as soon as the Western heirs are legally a company a National Convention of the three associations will be held and a united effort put forth to levy the one per cent assessment on the entire estate, prior to commencing final action in the United States Court to obtain possession of the entire property

The California people interested claim that their fight is an uphill one for the Trinity Company, which has many millions back of it buys off the lawyers sent there and thus prevents justice being done the rightful heirs

With General Hart they have implicit confidence, and the case has been left entirely in his hands

Among the Oakland heirs are Jesse S Halstead, Treasurer of the Oakland Theater, Mrs S U Halstead M. de la Montanya J L Wetmore S A. Kosta, H M Kenney of the San Francisco Report and L M McKenney, the insurance man

AS OTHERS SEE US.

The suicide of Thomas S Wylie, late of Oakland, in Los Angeles, closes a chapter in the career of sin of one couple Wylie was the man who introduced Fannie McBride to his wife as his sister and the couple on the exposure of the deception became the subject of great scandal Wylie eloped with the woman and both took to drinking and went down the grade of dissipation so rapidly that in a couple of years they had to take to the coarsest menial labor to support themselves The deceived wife got a divorce and a goodly portion of Wylie's property to support her and her children and has only the shame of her husband's degredation to mar her happiness When the miserable woman, who forsook her husband in the East to win Wylie from his wife imitates his example the second chapter will have a fitting close—Stockton Independent

There is little danger of Alameda being made the dumping ground for Oakland garbage The offal of that city is to be burned in a furnace, whence no smell nor malodorous element escapes Ordinances are now being drawn conferring the right to perform this public service The Alameda move was a sort of false alarm on the part of the garbage collectors, who see their avocations imperrilled or their calling made subservient by the granting of an exclusive franchise to man or company The collectors thought to head off the monopoly, or at least gain more favorable terms, by having it appear that they had secured dumping grounds outside the city The burning of garbage is the sanitary method of disposing of it Machinery has been devised by which it may be totally destroyed and not an odor permitted to escape The vile smells are carried off to a retort and condensed in salt water which runs off harmless to the sea Alameda should thus dispose of its garbage Dumping it at the front door, where nearly every body who comes to town has to pass and smell it is only saved from being idiotic policy by being in some measure a necessity It would no longer be this if it were scientifically destroyed by fire—Alameda Argus

Last Saturday afternoon, the residence of A G Roberts at San Lorenzo was burglarized The burglars entered the place after forcing a window with a spade, and took all the small articles which they could readily convert into coin

"Intrinsic value and market value have nothing in common," said the Boston man, who was arguing the money question "Oh, they ain't" asked the Chicago man "They have not" reiterated the Boston man "The market value of a plate of beans is five cents The intrinsic value—" He paused, lost in the contemplation of the illimitable.

ALL WELL PLEASED.

Rev. Dr. Brown Preaches His First Two Discourses Here.

NEWS OF THE CHURCHES.

The Five Missionary Bishops Coming to Oakland Tonight.

SOME OF SUNDAY'S SERMONS.

Rev Dr Charles R Brown, the Massachusetts divine, recently called by the First Congregational Church preached his initial sermons yesterday His subjects were well selected for the occasion of his introduction to his new congregation In the morning his theme was "Changes" and at the evening service his text was from the first four words of the Bible, 'In the beginning God'

Dr Brown's pulpit manners are easy and pleasing His voice is well modulated and though he talks rapidly, his clear cut enunciation makes his words audible in any part of the church. He uses few gestures, but they are timely and accentuate the points wished to be made prominent When not gesticulating the clergyman's hands are either rested on his hips, a gospel in front or thrust lightly into his trousers pockets

Dr Brown is not a ranter in the pulpit He talks easily rapidly and sincerely The methods used by some churches and clergymen to secure large congregations he evidently deprecates In the evening he spoke for a moment of this saying "To say that this sermon will draw, or such and such music, or a certain singer will draw, or to use other methods to draw is not true religion'

He apparently more closely resembles Dr McLean in his church ideas than any other local clergyman

Dr McLean, Dr Moore and Dr Freeland sat with him on the platform during the morning service In the evening he occupied it alone At no time did he try to impress his audience with his oratorical powers He attempted no rhetorical effusions or effects but it all times showed sincere Christianity and an earnest desire to turn souls to the church

At the close of the morning service the children in the infant class of the Sunday School made a very pretty demonstration of their loyalty to the new preacher The sermon was concluded and the benediction was about to be pronounced when the little tots filed into the church each bearing a bouquet of California flowers They marched up to the front of the rostrum and handed them as tokens of welcome to Dr Brown The little act of hospitality affected the Eastern man and in a few words which he seemed to feel deeply he expressed his thanks to the children.

HIS SERMON

Stagnation," he said, 'is most certainly a menace to society, the Nation and the church We have yet to know of any good thing accomplished without an effort and we have no record of any good thing serving its highest purpose when its exponents have housed themselves within a certain sphere and lived only upon themselves The church especially must expand

'There are always things beyond us, and duties which we have to confront tomorrow While men and conditions change and everything is forced to alter and readapt itself, there is one thing that does not change That is our religion. But with this ever shifting undulation of conditions we must reach out and lay hold upon things with our religion as our fixed basis.

"Purity of purpose is a grand thing It may seem an ordinary, even an humble, idea, but I make bold to say that were we but stimulated and encouraged by that one genuine ambition to do for God as he would have us do, which means so much to the success of church work, the harvest would not resolve itself to an unknown or doubtful quantity Purity of purpose—the genuine longing to reach beyond and gather to God the things that are his unmindful of attending sacrifice, is the quality which the church must build in man if it would realize all that should be possible for it.

'Changes often made—conscientious changes can only result in good, if they hinge upon the rock of truth the Bible The church must change with altering circumstances, but let there be with every movement an increase in sincerity of purpose."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

The First Christian Church devoted the day yesterday to Christian Endeavor work. In the morning Mr Small preached on the pledge A few points made were "It ought not to be taken lightly. It is a pledge for life. It means a covenant for a life time It is not a covenant between members It brings us face to face with Christ It is a pledge of absolute loyalty to Him It begins with Evangelical faith It enthrones Him over heart and life It tells of a hidden strength It indicates the way we are to avail ourselves of this strength It points out how we are to learn where the will of Christ is

'We promise to read the Bible every day It renews again our pledge of loyalty to the Church It makes church attendance easier It whips up our consciences on the matter It sanctifies our duties in the week wherever we are

"It brings the young Christian into a training school It has taught the young people to open their mouths It provides for a special season of consecration It places the standard of Christ life on a high plane It is the back bone of the society"

In the evening Mr Gilbert and Miss Clift spoke on behalf of saving the waifs and finding homes for them

Mrs. Princess Long of Alameda sang a solo entitled "The Sowers and Reapers"

There were six persons united with the Christian Endeavor at the close of the evening service

On Sunday next Mr Small will begin a series of sermons on the political crisis Subject in the morning, 'Lessons from the administration of Joseph' Evening "These troublous times what do they mean, how shall we meet them"'

IN UNITY IS STRENGTH.

The Plan to Consolidate the Labor Unions of Chicago.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Oct 5—On and after November 1st the Chicago Trade and Labor Assembly will cease to exist A resolution to that effect was adopted at the Sunday meeting without opposition

The resolution providing for the surrender of the charter was introduced by Delegate Pomeroy who presented a letter from President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, recommending that action be taken This letter is addressed to the individual labor unions of the city, and in part says

"No one can view the present situation in the labor movement of Chicago without a feeling akin to humiliation Perhaps in few places of the United States are the workers better organized in their respective trade unions yet in consequence of the divisions in the general movement the interests of all labor suffer Every effort has been made to unite the central bodies upon a basis fair to each, but without success

"Recognizing how important is unity in the labor movement we now appeal to the labor unions direct for the purpose of securing from you an expression of opinion whether you are in favor of the formation of one central body to take the place of the two now existing in the city of Chicago

"Recognizing how futile any attempt would be to bring about unity at once, we desire to say that if the responses to this circular are favorable, a meeting will be called for November 9, 1896, announcing the time and place of meeting."

Delegate Pomeroy's resolution was to the effect that the recommendations in President Gompers' letter be complied with, and that November 1st be set as the date upon which the assembly would turn over its charter, records, etc, to a representative of the American Federation, and thereby end its existence as a corporate body

The resolution also contained a clause pledging the delegates to the assembly to use their best efforts as individuals to further the plan for a new organization, as proposed in the letter of Mr Gompers, irrespective of the attitude of the Labor Congress Pomeroy's resolution, after some discussion, was adopted.

THE DORE DRAWINGS.

Great Success of the Exhibit During the Chicago Season.

The Collection of Masterpieces Is Now to Go to Boston.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5—The famous collection of Dore paintings and drawings, after nine months' successful exhibit, closed yesterday, and today the work of packing and shipping the huge canvasses will begin

The collection goes to Boston, where it will be hung in Copley Hall for an indefinite engagement.

From the first, great crowds have attended the exhibit, and a close estimate places the number of visitors during the period at 1,500,000, an average of 6,000 a day, which is said by the management to be approximately correct.

The largest day's attendance was on April 19th, when 16,200 people were present.

It is probable that the collection will be exhibited in several other large cities before being sent back to London.

LINED UP AT LAST.

INCORPORATION IS EFFECTED.

AN ASSESSMENT IS MADE.

The California heirs of the Aneke-Jans Trinity and Harlem properties, located in New York are commencing to see their way clear to lay claim to the $100 000 000 estate that is waiting for some one The Oakland claimants are particularly active just at present, and expect before long to have matters shaped so that they will be ready to present their cases to the courts.

A meeting of over forty of the heirs was held last week at 320 Post street, San Francisco, and a definite plan of action was mapped out It was decided to incorporate all the Pacific Coast aspirants to the millions, under the name of the Pacific Coast Heirs of the Aneke Jans Bogardus Estates Association though the amount of capital stock has not as yet been decided upon.

The Directors who have been chosen are Jesse S. Halstead, H O Brower, L M McKenney, H H Francisco and J L Wetmore.

Sufficient money was subscribed to legally complete the corporation, and the matter will be pushed forward with vigor

It was also decided to send J G Evans of Los Angeles to New York, there to look out for the interests of the Western heirs and to complete the genealogical tree so that when everything else is in readiness there will be no hitch regarding the rights of the claimants

At the meeting General W H H Hart urged the members of the association to hasten action In his report, he declared positively that the property and cash was justly due, and that New York's State Secretary, who now is holding some of the valuables had asked him why the heirs did not claim what belonged to them

There have been two stumbling blocks in the way of immediate progress One was the lack of funds and the other the fact that several valuable documents necessary for complete proof of lineship had been lost

The latter General Hart has located in an Eastern State and will have them on hand at the next meeting

The former obstacle will be bridged over by the formation of a corporation

In Ohio and New York two incorporated bodies of heirs are already in existence but without the assistance of the California people interested nothing can be done As a consequence, as soon as the Western heirs are legally a company, a National Convention of the three associations will be held and a united effort put forth to levy the one per cent assessment on the entire estate, prior to commencing final action in the United States Court to obtain possession of the entire property

The California people interested claim that their fight is an up-hill one, for the Trinity Company, which has many millions back of it, buys off the lawyers sent there and thus prevents justice being done the rightful heirs

Among the Oakland heirs are Jesse S Halstead Treasurer of the Oakland Theater, Mrs S U Halstead Mrs de la Montanya, J L Wetmore, S A Kosbe, H M Knaney of the San Francisco Report and L. M. McKenney, the insurance man.

AS OTHERS SEE US.

The suicide of Thomas S Wylie, late of Oakland, in Los Angeles, closes a chapter in the career of sin of one couple Wylie was the man who introduced Fannie McBride to his wife as his sister and the couple on the exposure of the deception, became the subject of great scandal Wylie eloped with the woman and both took to drinking and went down the grade of dissipation so rapidly that in a couple of years they had to take to the coarsest menial labor to support themselves The deceived wife got a divorce and a goodly portion of Wylie's property to support her and her children and has only the shame of her husband's degredation to mar her happiness When the miserable woman, who forsook her husband in the East to win Wylie from his wife, imitates his example the second chapter will have a fitting close—Stockton Independent

There is little danger of Alameda being made the dumping ground for Oakland garbage The offal of that city is to be burned in a furnace, whence no smell nor malodorous element escapes Ordinances are now being drawn conferring the right to perform this public service The Alameda move was a sort of false alarm on the part of the garbage collectors, who see their avocations imperrilled or their calling made subservient by the granting of an exclusive franchise to man or company The collectors thought to head off the monopoly, or at least gain more favorable terms, by having it appear that they had secured dumping grounds outside the city The burning of garbage is the sanitary method of disposing of it Machinery has been devised by which it may be totally destroyed and not an odor permitted to escape The vile smells are carried off to a retort and condensed in salt water, which runs off harmless to the sea Alameda should thus dispose of its garbage. Dumping it at the front door, where nearly every body who comes to town has to pass and smell it, is only saved from being idiotic policy by being in some measure a necessity It would no longer be this if it were scientifically destroyed by fire—Alameda Argus.

A Country Burglary

Last Saturday afternoon, the residence of A G Roberts at San Lorenzo was burglarized The burglars entered the place after forcing a window with a spade, and took all the small articles which they could readily convert into coin

"Intrinsic value and market value have nothing in common," said the Boston man, who was arguing the money question. "Oh, they ain't?" asked the Chicago man. "They have not" reiterated the Boston man. "The market value of a plate of beans is five cents The intrinsic value—" He paused, lost in the contemplation of the illimitable.

ALL WELL PLEASED.

Rev. Dr. Brown Preaches His First Two Discourses Here.

NEWS OF THE CHURCHES.

The Five Missionary Bishops Coming to Oakland Tonight.

SOME OF SUNDAY'S SERMONS.

Rev. Dr Charles R Brown the Massachusetts divine, recently called by the First Congregational Church preached his initial sermons yesterday His subjects were well selected for the occasion of his introduction to his new congregation In the morning his theme was "Changes" and at the evening service his text was from the first four words of the Bible, 'In the beginning God'

Dr Brown's pulpit manners are easy and pleasing His voice is well modulated, and though he talks rapidly, his clear cut enunciation makes his words audible in any part of the church He uses few gestures but they are timely and accentuate the points wished to be made prominent When not gesticulating the clergyman's hands are either rested on his hips, clasped in front or thrust lightly into his trousers pockets

Dr Brown is not a starter in the pulpit He talks easily rapidly and sincerely The methods used by some churches and clergymen to secure large congregations he evidently deprecates In the evening he spoke for a moment of this saying 'To say that this sermon will draw, or such and such music, or a certain singer will draw, or to use other methods to 'draw' is not true religion'"

He apparently more closely resembles Dr McLean in his church ideas than any other local clergyman.

Dr. McLean, Dr Moore and Dr Freeland sat with him on the platform during the morning service In the evening he occupied it alone At no time did he try to impress his audience with his oratorical powers He attempted no rhetorical effusions or effects, but at all times showed sincere Christianity and an earnest desire to turn souls to the church

At the close of the morning service he children in the infant class of the Sunday School made a very pretty demonstration of their loyalty to the new preacher The sermon was concluded and the benediction was about to be pronounced when the little tots filed into the church each bearing a bouquet of California flowers They marched up to the front of the rostrum and handed them as tokens of welcome to Dr Brown The little act of hospitality affected the Eastern man, and in a few words which he seemed to feel deeply he expressed his thanks to the children.

HIS SERMON

"Stagnation," he said, "is most certainly a menace to society, the Nation and the church We have yet to know of any good thing accomplished without an effort, and we have no record of any good thing serving its highest purpose when its exponents have housed themselves within a certain sphere and lived only upon themselves The church especially must expand.

"There are always things beyond us, and duties which we have to confront tomorrow While men and conditions change and everything is forced to alter and readapt itself, there is one thing that does not change That is our religion But with this ever shifting undulation of conditions we must reach out and lay hold upon things with our religion as our fixed basis.

"Purity of purpose is a grand thing It may seem an ordinary, even an humble, idea, but I make bold to say that were we but stimulated and encouraged by that one genuine ambition to do for God as he would have us do, which means so much to the success of church work, the harvest would not resolve itself in an unknown or doubtful quantity. Purity of purpose—the genuine longing to reach beyond and gather to God the things that are his unmindful of attending sacrifice, is the quality which the church must build in man if it would realize all that should be possible for it.

"Changes often made—conscientious changes, can only result in good, if they hinge upon the rock of truth, the Bible The church must change with altering circumstances, but let there be with every movement an increase in sincerity of purpose."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

The First Christian Church devoted the day yesterday to Christian Endeavor work In the morning Mr Small preached on the pledge. A few points made were "It ought not to be taken lightly. It is a pledge for life. It means a covenant for a life time It is not a covenant between members It brings us face to face with Christ. It is a pledge of absolute loyalty to Him It begins with Evangelical faith. It enthrones Him over heart and life. It tells of a hidden strength It indicates the way we are to avail ourselves of this strength. It points out how we are to learn where the will of Christ is.

"We promise to read the Bible every day. It renews again our pledge of loyalty to the Church It makes church attendance easier It whips up our consciences on the matter It sanctifies our duties in the week wherever we are.

"It brings the young Christian into a training school. It has taught the young people to open their mouths It provides for a special season of consecration It places the standard of Christ life on a high plane It is the back bone of the society"

In the evening Mr Gilbert and Miss Clift spoke on behalf of saving the waifs and finding homes for them

There were six persons united with the Christian Endeavor at the close of the evening service

On Sunday next Mr Small will begin a series of sermons on the political crisis Subject in the morning "Lessons from the administration of Joseph" Evening "These troublous times what do they mean, how shall we meet them?"
